PRESIDENT SEES LIBERTY LEAGUE HOSTILE TO HIM

Becomes Ironical in Discussing Body.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The President devoted considerable of his valuable time today in discussing at his regular press conference the purposes and ideals of the new American Liberty league, an organization dedicated to the putting down of radicalism in the United States.

JOHN W. DAVIS.

Speaking quite informally and in response to the first question put to him at the conference, Mr. Roosevelt waxed freely ironical in his dissertation, and although he declared that the stated principles enumerated by the league were those to which any American citizen could subscribe, he showed plainly that he regarded the league as hostile to the New Deal.

Support Is Pledged.

The league, whose charter members include Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis, Irenee du Pont, James W. Wadsworth, and Nathan L. Miller, and which is headed by Jouett Shouse, has received from other sources an enthusiastic reception and promises of generous moral and financial support.

The rules of the White House press conference do not permit the direct quotation of the President, so in the telling of his reaction to the creation of the league much of the satirical criticism voiced by Mr. Roosevelt cannot adequately be presented.

But he began by acknowledging that Mr. Shouse had been in to see him a week ago and had shown him a paper containing the two objectives sought by the founders. These, the President declared, were axiomatic, universally acceptable, and he added that he had informed Mr. Shouse when the latter inquired that he had no objection to the forming of the league with such motives; that as a matter of fact it was none of his business.

Refers to Commandments.

When a wag reporter asked the President if he was still for the constitution, Mr. Roosevelt asked in retaliatory waggishness not to be put as "still" being for it, but as actively for the constitution. Then the President compared the league with an organization which might be lauded for supporting two or three of the 10 commandments, but found short for failing to mention the other 7 or 8.

The President has repeated a characterization of the league, made by what he termed a ribald friend, which brought out that two of the major commandments are one, to love God, and the other, to love your neighbor. The ribald friend, paraphrasing this, had the American Liberty league, in its two tenets, saying to love God and forget your neighbor, and then suggesting that the league's other god was the god of property.

Quiet About Neighbors.

Mr. Roosevelt, it was said, takes the view that the league hasn't said much about its neighbors, and that, in addition to the principles contained in the league's announcement of purposes, there are other things which what the President calls the "average man" needs from his government.

The President has told friends that the league does not discuss how people who are willing to work shall find work to do, or how they will keep from starvation, keep a roof over their heads or preserve educational standards, and he has also declared that the league does not write of protecting the life and liberty of individuals against elements in the community which the President says take selfish advantage and seek to advance themselves at the expense of the Roosevelt "average citizen."

Mr. Roosevelt was vastly amazed to read in the New York Times financial section an item stating that the "talk in Wall street yesterday indicated that the announcement of the new American Liberty league was little short of an answer to a prayer."

When the President was asked whether Mr. Shouse had invited him to be a member of the league, Mr. Roosevelt laughed heartily, said he didn't think Mr. Shouse did ask him, and remarked that it must have been an oversight.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked to comment on Secretary Ickes' statement welcoming the advent of the league as a means of separating the conservatives and liberals into clearly divided parties. He refused to go into this.

Starts for Chicago with It Today.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation's check for $22,365,985.56, which will enable payments of seven months' back salaries to the school teachers of Chicago, was delivered in Washington yesterday to James McCahey, president of the board of education.

JAMES B. M'CAHEY.

The formality of the transfer of funds is now the only obstacle in the path of actual distribution of cash to some 14,000 teachers, and the money should be in their hands on Monday.

The government draft for the original $22,300,000 loan plus accrued interest of $65,985.56 on the school board bonds turned over to the RFC as security for the loan was handed to Mr. McCahey in the offices of the RFC by Jesse Jones, chairman of that body. There was no ceremony attached to the transaction.

Congratulates McCahey, Kelly.

Mr. Jones handed the slip of paper to Mr. McCahey with a brief word of congratulation for himself and Mayor Edward J. Kelly and an expression of gratification that the teachers were at last to receive their pay. With equal brevity Mr. McCahey responded with the thanks and appreciation of the city of Chicago, the board of education, and the teachers.

He is expected to leave for Chicago some time today and arrive here in time to deposit the money to the credit of the board of education by Monday morning.

The thousands of smaller checks drawn against it can then be turned over to the teachers at once.

Transaction Legal Monday.

The check cannot be converted into cash before Monday since the city ordinance approving issuance of the collateral bonds does not become legal until ten days after passage. Today is the tenth day, and since tomorrow is Sunday, the first day possible for payment will be the following day.

Attorney Frank S. Righeimer, school board attorney, was in touch with Washington yesterday afternoon, and he and Mr. McCahey were attempting to iron out all the details so that payment of the teachers could start without further delay.

Mr. McCahey had gone to Washington to present to the RFC additional data requested on the more than $35,000,000 worth of nonschool property which the board is pledging as additional security for the loan.

Bonds Signed Here.

In the meantime agents for McCahey, Mayor Kelly, and City Controler Upham signed the $22,300,000 worth of bonds to be sold to the RFC at the offices of the Columbian Bank Note company, and they will be ready for immediate transfer to the government.

Final local action to make the loan possible was the passage of two separate resolutions and ordinances. In the first the school district was authorized to issue $22,500,000 in twenty year sinking fund bonds. The bonds bear interest at 4½ per cent and are callable in ten years.

Income to Pay Interest.

Second, the board was authorized to pledge the nonschool properties, together with their rents and profits, as security. Mr. Righeimer told the city council at that time that the properties yield $550,000 annually, and this amount will be applied to the first interest payment of $2,035,000 due in 1935.

The indenture mortgages on the properties securing the bonds were left with County Recorder Clayton F. Smith last night, with the request that they be filed at 9 a. m. today.

Checks to be issued to the individual teachers are ready in the pay offices in the City State Bank building, 130 North Wells street, and as soon as the RFC money is received payment will be made there. Mr. Righeimer said that teachers will be notified when checks are ready.

Civil service employes of the board of education at the same time will receive checks for $4,000,000, representing eight months' back pay. Funds for this purpose were not included in the RFC loan, but were made available by the sale of tax anticipation warrants.

EXPECT MERCURY TO START CLIMB UPWARD TODAY

Overcast skies, but temperatures somewhat higher than those which prevailed in Chicago and the rest of the middle west yesterday, were in store for the city today, according to Weather Forecaster W. P. Day.

Sunday, Mr. Day said, will be unsettled, but slightly warmer even than today, as the mercury, which hit new lows for the date in many cities of this region yesterday, began to climb.

In the wake of the cool, driving rain which drenched Chicago late Thursday night and early Friday morning the mercury began to drop, sinking to 58 degrees at 5 a. m. from a maximum of 82 degrees on Thursday afternoon.

Daylight and sunshine brought but little rise, and 64 was the maximum for yesterday afternoon.

Reports of cold weather, frost, and even snow came from various parts of the middle west. Pueblo, Colo., and Billings, Mont., were two places where snow flurries were experienced.

Paint Bugler Green! Throw Him in Pool

Robert J. Vanasek does not like to be painted green.

As a matter of fact, he has a prejudice against being painted blue, or ocher, or lavender, or any other color, but green was the hue over which he brooded last night as he sat in his bunk sponging himself off with a turpentine-soaked cloth.

Mr. Vanasek has the misfortune to be bugler of the 607th company of the Civilian Conservation corps, encamped near Harms road and Glenview road, just west of Wilmette, Capt. John P. Crehan commanding.

Never Gave It a Thought

Early last evening Mr. Vanasek was not thinking about being painted green. He was strolling about the camp, thinking what a great thing outdoor life can be. Being painted green never entered his head.

He did not know that a dozen or so members of company 607 were bitter against him; that they were thinking about the "Ta-ta-ta-ta" of his bugle waking them up from sound sleeps.

Consequently it was a great surprise to Mr. Vanasek when, on the outskirts of the camp, a number of indignant CCCers laid violent hands upon him and dragged him away into the woods.

Despite Mr. Vanasek's plaintive cries, he was stripped of his clothing, with the exception of his shoes and socks. The most artistic of his captors then wielded brushes saturated in green paint.

Presently Mr. Vanasek was a sight to behold. He might have made a great hit at a St. Patrick's day party or a meeting of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, but this philosophical thought did not strike him. He did not admire his new paint job and did not even want to be simonized.

So the CCC boys threw him into a nearby pond and went away.

Just Plain Ungrateful.

"Ungrateful" about summed up their attitude.

But Mr. Vanasek had recognized a good many of his assailants and reported to his commanding officer. The result was that eight of the CCC workers languished last night in the jailhouse of the county highway police at Morton Grove.

Officials of the camp opined that no charges would be pressed, but that the culprits would be discharged and sent home.

Meanwhile Mr. Vanasek wielded his turpentined cloth.

Flyer Killed as Plane Hits Balloon During War Games

LE MARTINA, Italy, Aug. 24.—(AP)—An airplane participating in the Italian army maneuvers struck an observation balloon today and crashed to the earth. The pilot, Capt. D'Amico, was killed.

CUTHBERT GONE; ALDERMAN ASKS POLICE SEARCH

"This is Ald. Edwin F. Meyer of the 45th ward. Cuthbert has been stolen."

"He has, eh?" said the sergeant. "Give me a description. How tall is he?"

"Well, about 18 or 20 inches," replied Ald. Meyer.

"Eighteen or 20 inches!" ejaculated the sergeant. "What is he—a midget?"

"Well, no," was the answer. "He's a Poland-China. Part of him is, anyway. I don't know what the other part is, but he's a good pig."

"Pig?"

"Yes, didn't I tell you? We're having a picnic Sunday—the 45th Ward Democratic organization, and we wanted to have a greased pig chase. Mayor Kelly is going to be there to see it. So we got Cuthbert.

"We kept him in the cellar of our headquarters here at 1411 Diversey parkway, and now the watchman, George Hebel, says he's missing."

A teletype message was sent out for all squads to be on the lookout for Cuthbert, but he was still missing late last night.

Machado Aid Gets Death for Tossing Man to Sharks

HAVANA, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Florencio Garcia Gallardo, once an officer on former President Gerardo Machado's yacht, was sentenced to death today by the Court of Sanctions, which found him guilty of a charge of killing a Venezuelan newspaper man in March, 1929. Witnesses testified that the Venezuelan, Francisco Laguano Jaime, was thrown to the sharks in water near Havana on orders from Machado.

Hitler Writes German Creed on Marriage

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Love thy neighbor, Nazi Germany was ordered today, and marry him—but be sure he's Aryan!

Ten commandments to "rationalize" marriage, issued by eugenics officials, instructed Germans to "remember always thou art German" and "choose mates of equal or Nordic blood."

Let not thine eyes be blinded by infatuation, the Nazis were told in effect, nor yet choose the one good apple in the barrel of bad ones.

Intoxication of the Senses.

"Marry only for love—a short intoxication of the senses is no real love," commandment No. 8 proclaimed, while No. 6 said "never marry the one good person in a bad family," the theory being that defects are transmitted even unto the third and fourth generation.

"Hold thy body clean," another commandment admonishes, and "remember thou art thyself a German ancestor. Consider, would-be benedicts were urged, whether "thy marriage helps the nation."

"You will die," the list concludes patriotically, "but what you transmit to your descendants will live on; in them is your resurrection. Your nation will live eternally."

No Romantic Purposes.

The heads of four important reich offices—the bureau of the people's health serivce, the interior ministry, the national health office and the racial-political bureau of the Nazi party—had no romantic purposes in issuing the commandments.

Turning their heads toward Italy where Fascism's insistence on bigger families produces more and more babies, Nazi leaders seek to hoist the birth rate just for insurance in case there should be another war.

Marriages, too, they hold, mean the establishing of homes, the purchase of furniture, food, clothing—ingredients of flourishing trade.

Meanwhile, the Nazis could offer evidence that their earlier efforts to encourage marriage and childbirth were succeeding.

Birth Rate Increases.

Evangelical birth statistics for Berlin showed 21,632 couples married in 1933, compared to 9,854 in 1932 and 10,457 in 1931.

Baptisms last year totaled 38,382 against 26,232 in 1932 and 28,452 in 1931.

Chancellor Adolf Hitler's supporters have encouraged marriage these past few months by inducements even more substantial than commandments and aphorisms. Loans are available to newlyweds, parents of four healthy children receive gifts of money and women are removed from many jobs.

All of the schemes have stressed racial purity.

SEEK 2 YOUTHS AS KIDNAPERS OF 13 YEAR OLD GIRL

Dexter, Mo., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Authorities tonight were seeking two young men, believed to have kidnaped a 13 year old girl from a tourist camp here Wednesday afternoon.

First word of the girl's disappearance became public tonight when Sherif George M. Barham of Bloomfield asked the state highway patrol to be on the lookout for the men.

Sherif Barham said the girl was the daughter of Otis Cravens, a laborer who lives with several other of his children in a municipal camping park here.

The men were driving a small coupé bearing an Illinois license tag.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Two men were in jail tonight and private detectives and police were hunting a third in the attempted dynamite bombing of the home of C. L. Bransford, general superintendent of the Republic Steel corporation here. The explosion shook the neighborhood.

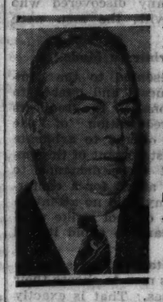
REFUSE ORDER FOR SYMPATHY TRANSIT STRIKE

Union Board Turns Down Plea.

The executive board of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, at its meeting yesterday in Detroit, refused to sanction a strike of Chicago surface and elevated lines employes in sympathy with local 1022 of the Amalgamated, which for the last ten days has been conducting a strike against the Chicago Motor Coach company.



JOHN BRUCE.

The executive board did not forbid the strike. It refused, merely, to have anything to do with it officially. A statement on behalf of the board pointed out:

"This board has no right, at the request of any one, to order sympathetic strikes. Strikes, under our laws, can be brought about only by a vote of the membership of any local organization interested in the matter."

Will Send Official Here.

The board did decide, however, to send an official to Chicago to advise with the striking bus drivers. The name of that official will be made public before the board concludes its semi-annual session today.

Both the street car and "L" unions had requested authority from the board to call strikes in sympathy with the bus union. The "L" union's request was made early in the week by John Bruce, president of that local.

On Thursday, and again yesterday, William Taber, secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated and also of the surface lines' union, discussed the matter with the executive board. No action by the local unions on the sympathetic strike question is expected before Mr. Taber's return to Chicago on Monday.

Buses Run Without Eagles.

Buses of the coach company appeared on the streets yesterday without their Blue Eagles, which Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, ordered the company to surrender Thursday. The buses are being operated by members of the Chicago Motor Coach fraternity, a company union to which, the company asserts, more than 90 per cent of its employés belong.

The national labor relations board recommended withdrawal of the Blue Eagle after "convicting" the company of discharging 25 employés for activity in the Amalgamated union. The company denied the charge, asserting that the men were dismissed for violation of safety rules and inefficiency, but because it disputed the jurisdiction of the labor board, presented no formal defense.

Union Head Issues Statement.

Ralph Stoltzmann, president of local No. 1022, issued a statement last evening in reply to one made Thursday night by John A. Ritchie, president of the company. Mr. Ritchie charged that after a compromise had been effected on reinstatement of the discharged men, the NRA officials made a new demand—for a blanket submission by the company to the labor provisions of the National Industrial Recovery act. This the company refused, holding that as a public utility it is exempt from the application of the act even though it signed the NRA transit code, and that submission would invalidate its whole legal stand in denying the labor board's jurisdiction.

Mr. Stoltzmann's statement said:

"The company claims that the national labor relations board ordered it to reinstate 25 employes, who, the company says, were dangerous and incompetent. It is most peculiar that the company did not decide that they were dangerous or incompetent until they were discovered to be members of the union. Before that they were fine drivers and some of them had gold stars for careful driving. Others had records which the company officials themselves pointed to with pride and held out as an example to other men.

Cites Labor Board "Ruling."

"Three government boards have found that these men were competent drivers and were discharged for nothing but union membership. How interested in the safety of passengers is the company when it displaced these gold star drivers by raw, green men who are not familiar with bus operation?

"Besides this, nearly all of the discharged men were offered their jobs back if they would turn in their union cards. Now, if they were unsafe and incompetent drivers, would not this be a betrayal of the public in whose safety this company pretends to take such an interest?

"The statement that 90 per cent of the company employés asked that the company make no objection to the removal of the Blue Eagle is a lot of bunk. It is true that a petition to that effect was circulated among the employés and they were approached under the eyes of the officials and asked to sign. What could they do but sign?

No Dispute Between Unions.

"This is not a dispute between the two unions, as the company would like to have the public believe. This is merely a question of whether or not the company is going to live up to the NRA code which it signed and in which it agreed to let the men organize and choose their own representatives. We have no quarrel with the company fraternity. There has never been any collective bargaining between this company and the so-called company union. There never has been a wage fixed or a working condition established as a result of bargaining between the company and the employés.

"The company would like to have the people believe that this movement is an effort by outsiders to interfere. This is not so. Our organization consists only of employés of the company. The company talks about trying to go along and trying to settle through Mayor Kelly. This is a complete surprise to us. If the company was talking to Mayor Kelly about compromising this dispute, we knew nothing about it. No proposition of the company was ever made to us by or through Mayor Kelly, but the union men did make every effort to compromise this situation in an amicable manner.

"When the company violated the National Industrial Recovery act, we complained to the Chicago regional labor board and filed sworn affidavits. When the company discovered who signed the affidavits, the men were all fired.

Offer to Arbitrate Made.

"Later we presented to the company certain requests and offered to arbitrate every one of the requests except that of recognition of the union. We even offered to arbitrate the matter of reinstatement of the employés. We sent these demands to the company and asked for a conference. The company paid no attention to our letter. We did not strike until every possible means to avoid it had been exhausteed.

"The company talks about supporting the right of its men to choose their own representatives. That is exactly what we are asking and the only thing we are asking.

"As to the number of men involved, at first it was, according to the company, only 25 men. Then it was 47 men and now it is 75 men in addition to the 25 discharged men. As to these 75 men, the company says they were threatened and intimidated into joining. Nobody knows any better than the company how to threaten or intimidate. The union has absolutely no way of threatening or intimidating anybody to join. Those who did so joined voluntarily because the law gave them that right. It is the company, which by threats of discharge and even worse, as found by the various national labor boards, has frightened some of the men so that they will not join. Let the company remove its threats and see how fast these men join our union.

"If there were only 75 men involved, as the company states, why would there be 750 policemen assigned to strike duty? There are only about 635 drivers all together. Why would so many police be necessary if there were only 75 men? Why such a waste of the taxpayers' money?

Diversey Bus Stoned.

"The only issue is whether this company is bigger than the government, whether it can defy the government and get away with it and whether the people of Chicago will stand for such conduct."

Several men in an automobile rode up beside a bus at Diversey avenue and Lincoln street early today and tossed stones through the windows. One passenger, a woman, was injured, but so slightly that she refused medical attention. The stone throwers then drove way. The bus was on its last trip and had only a few passengers.

NUDISTS' LEAGUE SEEKS TO RENT COOLIDGE HOUSE

Northampton, Mass., Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Olympian league of West Haverstraw, N. Y., national organization of nudists, is seeking to lease the former residence of the late Calvin Coolidge here for its Massachusetts headquarters.

Vincent Burke, league director, inquired by letter of a Northampton newspaper man whether the Coolidge house had been leased or rented. Burke said the league sought to rent the property for its subsidiary headquarters.

James W. O'Brien Jr., manager of the Northampton real estate firm that is agent for the Coolidge house, declined to say whether he would rent it to the league.

QUINTUPLETS GET A SUN BATH ON KITCHEN TABLE

CALLANDER, Ont., Aug. 24.—(AP)—The five little Dionne quintuplets were sun bathers today.

The sisters squirmed and tossed on a kitchen table while the rays of the sun shone on them through a window. Dr. A. R. Dafoe, the children's attendant, said they enjoyed the sun bath thoroughly and benefited from it.

There was another important development in the Dionne household today. Baby Cecile received her first soap and water bath. Cecile also gave up her incubator for a cot. Only babies Marie and Emilie remain in incubators. The smaller children still are bathed with oil.

BREWERY TRUCK DRIVERS SETTLE STRIKE AT GARY

Beer truck drivers in Gary went on strike from 8 a. m. yesterday until last evening, when the walkout was ended by the agreement of the distributors and brewery agents who employ them to meet the union's demand for a 48 hour week and a weekly wage scale of $35. The strike for a time threatened a dry time for the Indiana American Legion convention, which will open today in Gary. Before the settlement, union officials agreed to permit beer deliveries to four saloons which the convention organization has rented and will operate.

TEXTILE UNION BARS NRA BOARD AS PEACEMAKER

Points to Record; Strike Due Within Week.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Because they have no faith in the NRA on the basis of its past record, belligerent union workers in the cotton textile industry today rejected the offer of an NRA board to mediate the impending general strike in all textile mills.

At the same time, however, the union made a gesture opening the way for mediation of the strike threat by the national labor relations board, the labor tribunal independent of the NRA. Less than a week remains in which to compose the dispute. The strike is scheduled for any time before Sept. 1.

Francis J. Gorman, head of the United Textile Workers' strike committee, issued the rejection of the NRA mediation offer. His statement was a reply to Robert W. Bruere, chairman of the cotton textile industrial relations board, a special labor tribunal set up under the textile code.

No Confidence in Board.

"Our experience in the operation of the board thus far gives us no confidence in its ability to adjust issues now at stake in fairness to labor," Gorman told Bruere bluntly. "We should be unfaithful to the thousands of our members who have suffered through the delays and indecision of the board if we were to submit our present crisis to the same board.

"This is not the occasion to detail our disappointment with the operation of the system of industrial relations boards originally set up under the cotton textile code. Suffice it to say that though the national board was set up particularly 'to make proper provision with regard to the stretchout,' in an entire year it has not begun to control this greatest of our problems.

"How could we have confidence under such circumstances? Or in view of the fact that the board—together with the government members of the code authority—decided to turn over all complaints sent in by the workers to the code authority for its investigation and adjustment, and as a result not a single complaint of the stretchout has been adjusted—not a single employé has been reinstated upon complaint of discharge and discrimination.

Opens Way for Other Board.

"Since ours is a controversy arising, in part, under Section 7A of the National Industrial Recovery act and in its entirety one 'which threatens to burden or obstruct the free flow of interstate commerce,' we feel that it should be handled by a board with the powers provided in public resolution No. 44—73d congress.

"Finally, we shall not enter into any discussions or proceedings unless or until we have valid assurances that the employers in the industry are prepared to meet the issues through representatives full authorized to act conclusively and immediately."

THREE PRINTERS QUIZZED ON BOMB AT RIVAL'S PLANT

Three members of the NRA code body of the legal printing industry, competitors of T. J. Cullen, owner of the United States Law Printing company at 2817 North Halsted street, which was bombed early Thursday, were questioned yesterday by Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan and Assistant State's Attorney Frank Donohue.

Each of the three men said he knew nothing about the bombing other than what he read in the newspapers, and was released. They professed to hold Mr. Cullen in high esteem. Those questioned were W. J. Gunthorp of the Gunthorp-Warren Printing company, Theodore Hawkins of the Hawkins & Loomis company, and John Miller of the Barnard & Miller company. All are officials of the Law Printers' institute, a subdivision of the graphic arts code authority.

State NRA Director John E. Cassidy, upon his return to Chicago yesterday after a two day absence, said he was "greatly surprised" by the bombing. Mr. Cassidy declared that he had made no recommendation in his report to Washington NRA authorities concerning Mr. Cullen's refusal to testify in a "star chamber session" in the local NRA office. Mr. Cullen was summoned there for questioning after he asserted that certain members of the code body were using their powers under the code in an attempt to ruin his business.

BRAGS OF CRIMES TO WIN GIRL, BUT LANDS IN JAIL

James Morris, 27 years old, 927 Eastwood avenue, who told the Town Hall police that he acted "tough" in order to make an impression with his sweetheart, Miss Lucile Moore of the same address, was held for the police showup at the detective bureau last night to determine whether he was wanted for a crime.

He told the police that he had served six months in the Kentucky state reformatory at Frankfort, Ky., for robbery. The police learned that he was not wanted at that institution.

Morris was arrested Thursday on the complaint of Miss Moore that he was intoxicated and was wanted for numerous crimes. He said that he related daring stories of crime involving himself because "she thought more of me for them."

ASKS ROOSEVELT TO INTERVENE IN KOHLER DISPUTE

State Labor Group Wires Plea.

Kohler, Wis., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Intervention by President Roosevelt was sought today in the strike at the Kohler company's plumbing and supply factory, which has cost the lives of two persons and brought injuries to 42 since the walkout began July 16.

The Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, after a conference at Sheboygan, sent a telegram to the President outlining the position of the union and asking him to intercede. At the same time it was announced that President William Green of the American Federation of Labor also would ask the President to intervene in the strike.

The telegram to the President in behalf of the Federation of Labor union, local 18,545, charged that the company is training a private army of 600 men, equipped with rifles, steel helmets and machine guns. This was vigorously denied by former Gov. Walter J. Kohler, president of the company.

Kohler's Statement.

"The company is not now and never has been responsible for enforcement of the law in Kohler village," he declared, "nor has it assumed that responsibility. . . . I understand the village authorities have taken steps to meet possible further rioting, but details concerning them necessarily will have to come from the village authorities."

Kohler added "the telegram to the President did not say that the two men mortally wounded were participants in an organized riot staged by several thousand persons against a plant that was shut down and had made no attempt to operate since the beginning of the strike."

Later in the afternoon, according to word received here, the national labor relations board in Washington announced an election would be held soon to determine which union would represent the workers at the plant.

The controversy between strikers and company officials has been over the question of who will represent the workers. Company officials say they are dealing with a company union, and strikers declare they should deal with a union affiliated with the federation.

"Fear Civil Warfare."

The telegram to the President declares in part:

"The village of Kohler is barricaded with fences and sandbags and it is feared that civil warfare may break out between this private army and the public in general. A repetition of what occurred on July 27, when two were killed and 42 injured, is feared by all."

The federation union also seeks higher wages and shorter hours for the employés of the company.

3 More Houses Smeared.

Sheboygan, Wis., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—With three more Sheboygan county homes of Kohler nonstrikers spattered with paint, rewards offered by the Sheboygan County Law and Order league and police mounted to $150 today for information leading to the arrest of the marauders.

ENGAGED COUPLE QUARREL; DUEL; YOUTH MAY DIE

AVELLINO, Italy, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Montalberti Filcorate, 23, and Rosina Consolazio, 19, were engaged to be married.

An argument arose to end the engagement. They agreed to meet on the field of honor to settle differences growing out of their broken romance. Today they dueled with pistols at the appointed hour.

Filcorate, the man, was shot in the head, so gravely that he may not survive. His ex-fiancée was wounded less seriously, in the cheek.

3 ROBBERS GET $50,000; HOLD UP U. S. MAIL TRUCK

Plane Overhead Believed Bandits' Ship.

Butler, Pa., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—While an airplane soared overhead, presumably for use in an air escape, three bandits held up an unarmed mail truck driver today and robbed him of two mail pouches, the contents of which included $50,000 in currency.

The money was en route by registered mail to nearby Lyndora to meet the pay rolls of the Standard Car company and the American Rolling Mills plants. The value of the other registered parcels in the mail sacks could not be determined in the early investigation.

Seize Two Mail Sacks.

The bandits, who wore dark glasses, overtook the truck only a short distance from the Butler postoffice and maneuvered their two automobiles until they had forced the mailman, Marshall C. Lackey, to turn his vehicle into the curb. Then they leaped to the ground brandishing revolvers, seized the two mail sacks and sped away.

Lackey said that while the robbery was in progress an airplane circled low overhead. A short time later police found an abandoned automobile which answered the description of one of the robbers' cars, leading authorities to believe that the plane landed near by and picked up the bandits.

State police quickly threw a cordon about the district, blocking all roads leading from Butler, which is about 40 miles north of Pittsburgh, but they found no trace of the gunmen. They planned to check nearby airports.

Bandits Get $9,785.

Rome, Ga., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Two bandits armed with a machine gun and a revolver today held up two bank messengers and robbed them of a $9,785 pay roll they were taking to the Tubize Chatillon Rayon mill from the National City bank. It was the third bank robbery in Georgia in a week.

After the robbery, which occurred at the west edge of the city, the bandits drove their automobile through the city and out toward East Rome. Twice during their flight they were fired upon by officers, once at a bridge on the eastern edge of the city and in Lindale, five miles south of here. The robbers finally eluded their pursuers when they got out into open country.

Photos are Identified.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Tentative identifications of three of the dozen machine gun bandits who executed the $427,000 armored truck robbery were made today. Witnesses to the holdup picked three rogues gallery pictures as likenesses of part of the crafty gang that got away with the largest amount of cash ever taken in an American holdup.

Police declined to reveal the names of the witnesses or the police characters whose pictures they had selected. Inspector John J. Ryan said the police were not relying a great deal upon the identifications, but considered them possible clews.

Meantime, three suspects were arrested in Philadelphia, but after questioning police said they were practically convinced the men did not participate in the Brooklyn robbery though they are allegedly members of an underworld gang and have been sought for some time.

Three Suspects Seized.

The men seized are Armour Lee Phillips, husband of Clara Phillips, convicted California "hammer murderess"; Leo Georgia, who has a string of aliases, and John Hardy.

Determined to "break this case," Inspector John J. Sullivan issued a call for detectives to voluntarily devote their time off to the investigation.

From White Plains, N. Y., came word of the arrest there of Samuel Davis, member of the Detroit "Purple" gang, and his assertion that the gang may have been responsible for the robbery. Davis, who is wanted in Detroit for murder, said that all survivors of the gang are now hiding out in the swampy country west of Newark, N. J.

SAM HUNT WINS TRIAL BY JURY AS BAIL JUMPER

Trial by jury was granted yesterday to Sam Hunt, former Capone gangster, noted for having once carried a machine gun in a golf bag and who was arrested for bond forfeiture on an old vagrancy charge when he was released Thursday from the Bridewell after serving most of a year's term for carrying concealed weapons. Judge John J. Rooney, in Safety court, set the trial for Oct. 11 and fixed Hunt's bond at $1,000. It was furnished through a professional bondsman.

AAA DESTRUCTION OF STOCK ASSAILED BY MEAT DEALERS' HEAD

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Emil Schwartz, president of the Detroit Chamber of Retail Meat Dealers association and a member of the directorate of the National Meat Dealers' association, in a statement today said destruction and restriction of live stock and farm products by the AAA is raising prices at an alarming rate. He suggested that chambers of commerce throughout the country start petitions, addressed to President Roosevelt, asking that plans for destruction and restriction cease.

"During the next year the shortage of beef will be felt and prices will be so high that many people of small means cannot afford to buy it," he said. "Things have now gone so far that the only remedy in sight for adequate meat supply is to knock down the tariffs on imported meats.

"It is high time people roused themselves to realization that attempted interference with natural processes is not the function of government. The interference, so far, has resulted in maladjustment to what nature hands out to the soil and its tillers. It is a bad situation, and the buying public pays the bills. Present conditions are only the beginning of what is to come."

WHEATON POLICE SEIZE BEER IN 4 SURPRISE RAIDS

Acting on the city council's charges of laxity in law enforcement, Wheaton police in a series of surprise raids Thursday night arrested four persons on charges of selling beer and liquor in violation of Wheaton's liquor ordinance. The raiders were led by Jack Brown, investigator for the Rev. Philip Yarrow's Illinois Vigilance society, who had been called in two weeks ago by Police Commissioner Thomas Kelloga.

Those arrested and the places raided were: Dominick Di Vito, manager of Curto's roadhouse, 927 East Roosevelt road; C. B. Crothers, owner of the Palm Garden, 926 East Roosevelt road; William F. Snyder, owner of Bill's coffee shot on Liberty drive near Hale street, and Ralph Attig, owner of Wally's restaurant, 219 West Front street, a few doors from the Wheaton police station.

All were booked and released for hearings next Friday before Police Magistrate Frank Herrick who issued the warants on which the raids were made.

REFERENDUM ON NEW LINK BRIDGE BONDS DISCUSSED

GEORGE T. DONOGHUE.

Officials of the new consolidated Chicago park district—given legal sanction by an opinion of the Illinois Supreme court handed down Thursday—discussed plans yesterday for a referendum on general obligation bonds in order to obtain funds for completion of the outer drive bridge.

The bridge, linking trafic arteries of the city's north and south sides at the mouth of the Chicago river, is the most important single project of the unified park district, according to George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the city-wide system. In the absence of R. J. Dunham, president of the park district, who was called to California because of the illness of his wife, Mr. Donoghue has set to work on the organization of 22 park systems into one.

One Plan Abandoned.

Attorneys differed yesterday over the effects of the Supreme court decision. One plan for resumption of work on the link bridge through a sale of old south park bonds has been dashed to the ground, according to Henr Cutler, acting attorney for the new park district.

"We will have to find another way," said Cutler. "The court found that the west park refunding program was legal because it amounts to the substitution of one form of obligation for another, but the decision will not permit the old south park board to incur new obligations."

Cutler declared that he was satisfied with the opinion and considered it "good, sound law."

Consider Question of Rehearing.

On the other hand, Floyd E. Thompson, former justice of the Supreme court, who handled the case against the consolidated park act for the smaller districts opposed to it, asserted that the opinion did not treat the matter adequately enough. He declared all parties concerned would want a rehearing before the court.

The question of a rehearing will probably be ironed out within a few days after a conference between Thompson, Cutler, Corporation Counsel Sexton, State's Attorney Courtney and others who brought the park test before the Supreme court in the form of quo warranto proceedings.

On the question of the bonding power of the new district figures were being assembled by Phillip Sanders, deputy controler of the unified park system.

Thinks Financing Can Be Done.

"I believe that we will have ample bonds to offer in order to complete the bridge if the referendum is favorable," said Sanders.

The constitutional debt limit of the new park district is 5 per cent of the most recent valuation, according to Sanders. On the basis of the 1932 valuation of property within the Chicago park district the debt incurring power would amount to approximately $122,000,000.

The twenty-two park systems have outstanding bonds to a total of nearly $100,000,000, and to this must be added the unpaid bills, Sanders said. The unpaid vouchers are in the process of auditing. However, Sanders expressed the belief that the total of bonds outstanding and unpaid bills would leave an ample "cushion" for financing the bridge project.

Will Seek U. S. Funds.

Park officials said they would undoubtedly make another attempt to obtain funds from the Public Works administration, of which Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes is head. Ickes withdrew funds originally earmarked for this project a month ago on the grounds that the security offered was not adequate.

While financial and legal experts toiled with the bridge program Mr. Donoghue worked on his organization, which he said would be effected "without disturbing anybody." The old park systems have 4,000 employes.

"It isn't an easy task bringing 22 children into one happy family," remarked Donoghue.

Important matters for the new board to take up, Donoghue said, would include a trafic code for the entire city park system, a civil service board, and completion of the inventory of all physical equipment and facilities. Donoghue said that the three police captains of the south, Lincoln, and west park systems would probably continue to function under his direction for some time.

Gov. Horner, who backed the park consolidation act, although by its passage he lost considerable political patronage through appointment of the Lincoln and west park commissioners, issued a statement in Springfield expressing his satisfaction at the Supreme court decision.

"By consolidating the parks of Chicago," said the governor, "a tremendous saving of tax money will be accomplished. Overlapping functions will be eliminated and duplication of expenditures will cease, practically guaranteeing that tax levies for park purposes in the future will be reduced."

JUDGE CHAGRINED THAT LAWYERS ARE DISTRUSTED

Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle of Detroit yesterday told members of the Chicago Bar association and the Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity, which is in convention here, some of the reasons why lawyers are having an economic depression along with the rest of the world.

"People do not think well of lawyers generally," the judge said. "They think highly of their ability but—I am deeply chagrined and humiliated to admit with equal candor—they do not think highly of the integrity of lawyers as a class. A few dishonest lawyers have caused laymen to distrust the profession."

SECRET 'INQUIRY' FINDS NO REDS, SAYS WEIDEMAN

But Patriots' Society Hits Quiz Methods.

Representative Carl M. Weideman, Michigan Democrat who was sent to Chicago as a one man congressional committee to investigate communist activities in the metropolitan area, yesterday finished his private hearings and announced he had found nothing to warant public hearings.

Further he declared that, while many witnesses had been heard and given wide latitude to express opinions and produce evidence, "we have failed to find one organization or individual outside the duly constituted authorities who has done, or is doing, anything actually to combat communism or subversive propaganda in this part of the country." He added the "so-called patriotic organizations" were striving merely to hamper the administration of President Roosevelt.

Upholds Reveres' Fight.

On the other hand, one of the witnesses, Ray Warren, secretary of the Paul Reveres, which was formed to combat radicalism in all its branches, declared that leading questions had been put to him in the executive sessions held in the United States courthouse.

He said also that he had outlined what his association was doing and had given what he considered valuable information on subversive activities.

"The Paul Reveres," he said, "are not interested in running down a few admitted members of the communist party. We are interested in combating subversive doctrines of all kinds. I called attention to the fact that on June 3 in Detroit delegates to a Socialist party convention went on record as in favor of a workers' democracy.

"A workers' democracy, I also showed, was defined in a socialistic magazine as a dictatorship of the proletariat. I also showed that elements in the Socialist party, by their own statements, were talking violence.

Fear Turn to Communism.

"If the Socialist party, with its hundreds of thousands of voters, should turn further to the left it would furnish a refuge for all the communists and make an organization that would make the actual communist of today shrink into insignificance.

"Socialist writers already have asserted that if this happens the Socialists will actually be communists. It is a matter of definition on which Mr. Weideman criticizes us. We are not trying to drive communists from the streets; we are trying to get American citizens to realize the benefits of constitutional government."

Mr. Weideman asserted in his statement there was nothing to warant charges that American institutions are being undermined.

Doubts Reds a Menace.

"Although huge sums are being contributed by well meaning persons to combat communism," he declared, "the most that has been done is to hire people to act as fomenters in these organizations and lead the American people to believe that communism, bolshevism, and Nizism are at present a menace to organized society, which we do not believe they are.

"This committee has proved that most of the howl set up about communism in this country is for the purpose of hampering President Roosevelt and his administration, and comes from sources with ulterior motives."

Witnesses, subpoenaed and voluntary, who appeared before the congressman included Lieut. Make Mills, in charge of the police industrial squad; A. W. Morton-Medenwald, editor of the Buerger-Zeitung, official organ of the German-American Citizens' league at 1545 Clybourne street; Ferre Watkins, an attorney representing Harry Jung, head of the American Vigilante Intelligence federation, who is absent from the city on a speaking tour of Michigan, and R. H. Bradley, chairman of the Americanism committee of the Cook county council, American Legion.

Others subpoenaed, who had not testified when the hearing was closed, included Col. Edwin M. Hadley, president of the Paul Reveres, and G. S. Carter and Clement Studebaker, representatives of the vigilante organization of which Mr. Jung is head.

SINGING MARATHON OF 10 YEAR OLD GIRL STOPPED BY ALIENIST

BELLEM, Para, Brazil, Aug. 24.—(AP)—A strange neurotic affliction, which impelled 10 year old Maria Magalhaes to sing incessantly for more than three weeks seemed to be passing today. Under treatment of an alienist the child stops singing for increasingly long periods.

The peculiar behavior of the girl attracted attention throughout the parish of Inahngati, her home, near here. Sympathetic neighbors, who heard her singing day and night, pooled their resources to obtain expert medical attention for her.

The alienist ascertained that the girl had witnessed the bural of Siamese twin cousins, who had died two months after birth. It was believed that nervous shock induced by the spectacle of the funeral ceremony had in some obscure manner started her on the singing marathon.

GERMANY HOLDS AMERICAN IN JAIL AS SPY SUSPECT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—Richard Roederer, an American citizen who was arrested at Lindau on June 22 on suspicion of smuggling cash out of Germany, is still held prisoner, it was revealed today. To date the case has not come up before any court. The charge of smuggling has been dropped, but while searching Roederer the border police found a notebook containing notations about Storm Troopers drilling in uniforms. The authorities assert this might indicate "spying activities."

Roederer, who was born in Germany, had been staying with his mother in Munich, where he taught languages. The public prosecutor studied the case to determine whether, according to the new German legislation, Roederer should be placed before the new people's court on a charge of treason.

Roederer expects to be brought before the regular court, but no definite decision has been reached. American authorities are endeavoring to induce the Germans to bring the American citizen, who was arrested merely on suspicion, to trial without undue delay.

YALE PROFESSOR TO HOP TODAY FOR GREENLAND

CARTWRIGHT, Labrador, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Dr. Richard Upjohn Light, professor of surgery at Yale university, and Robert French Wilson of New Rochelle, N. Y., who surprised their friends in the United States Wednesday by an unexpected flight to Cartwright from Nova Scotia, today said they would take off for Greenland tomorrow.

Dr. Light acted as pilot of the American plane and his companion acted as radio operator on their flight here from Sydney, N. S. Wilson is a 1934 electrical engineering graduate of the Sheffield Scientific school at Yale.

The pair did not disclose whether or not their flight had Greenland only as its objective or whether rumors that they planned a world girdling hop were true. When the men set out from New Haven, Conn., it was understood that they were only going for a pleasure jaunt.

VETERANS' CHIEF WILL TELL ABOUT CALIFORNIA REDS

Volney P. Looney, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, will speak on communist activities in California at 8 p. m. today before Chicago members of the veterans' organization. The meeting will be held on the 10th floor, 32 West Randolph street.

Gov. Horner and United States Senator William Dieterich have been invited to attend the meeting, which will itake place after a parade through the loop, starting from La Salle street and Wacker drive at 7 p. m.

Maj. Hamlet C. Ridgeway, who announced preparations for the parade and meeting, said Commander Looney was commissioned by President Roosevelt to investigate radical activities in California, and his arrival here today will follow the completion of his investigation. His address will be the first announcement of his findings, Maj. Ridgeway said.

JOHN HAMILTON, DILLINGER AID, BELIEVED DEAD

With Van Meter Slain, Hunt for Nelson.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—John Hamilton, quick trigger artist and one of the toughest men in the desperate gang of the late John Dillinger, has been dead for many weeks, St. Paul police said today.

JOHN HAMILTON.

Department of justice operatives disclosed they also had received information that Hamilton had been killed and buried. They have spent considerable time recently searching for the gangster's grave in the vicinity of the Minneapolis-Wisconsin state line.

With Homer Van Meter dead the war to exterminate remnants of the Dillinger gang was concentrated on the two chief members still unaccounted for. Van Meter was machine gunned here last night in a police ambush inadvertently set by his sweetheart.

Nelson One of Last.

Hamilton and George [Baby Face] Nelson, an equally cold blooded killer, are the two former Dillinger henchmen still remaining, but police believe the former will never press a trigger or rob a bank again. They believe he is in a secret, but his last, resting place.

He has not been seen or heard of for months. In fact, no inkling of his whereabouts has been obtained since he was seen with Dillinger when they dashed into St. Paul and out again the next day after their flight from the Little Bohemia resort near Mercer, Wis.

Police deduced that Hamilton was the victim of Dakota county sheriffs who fired a number of bullets at the speeding automobile. The car in which the gangster made the trip into St. Paul was found later, its interior blood soaked.

Believed Fatally Shot.

Since virtually all other members of the gang were later accounted for, either killed or reported seen elsewhere, police have decided that Hamilton was the gangster shot and that his wounds have since proved fatal.

Consequently Nelson has drawn the spotlight in maneuvers designed to wipe out the last of the Dillinger mob in an effort to get information concerning his whereabouts, police questioned closely Miss Opal Meliga, 21, the attractive St. Paul waitress who was instrumental in putting her sweetheart, Van Meter, on the spot.

Questioned About Loot.

Miss Meliga was questioned concerning Van Meter's recent activities and the caches of loot it is believed he and Nelson had secreted. They hoped she would be able to give them a clew to Van Meter's last hideout which they believed might reveal information that would set them on the trail of Nelson.

Back-tracking on Van Meter's activities led police to begin a search for another young woman, Marion [Mickey] Conforti, who was said to have also been a sweetheart of the slain gangster. She was one of the women Dillinger and his men left behind when they shot their way from the Little Bohemia trap and it was reported that she visited Van Meter here only two weeks ago.

Burial in Indiana.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Another Dillinger gangster is coming home—in a wooden box. A Fort Wayne undertaker went to St. Paul today to claim the body of Homer Van Meter, slain there last night.

The body will be brought to the home of the mobster's brother, Harry Van Meter, where private funeral services will be held. Burial will be in the Lindenwood cemetery.

BAVARIAN CHURCHES REFUSE TO MERGE WITH NAZI SYNOD

MUNICH, Germany, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Openly defying Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller, the Bavarian Evangelical Lutheran synod unanimously voted today against incorporation into a national synod.

"The Bavarian state synod advocates a strong unified German Protestant church," said a statement, "but it regrets that the attitude of the present church government makes steps toward incorporation impossible under the present circumstances."

On Aug. 9 Bishop Mueller promulgated a church decree which made him virtual dictator over the Protestant churches in the individual states. It was to this incorporation into a national system that the Bavarian Protestants objected.

The local synod, including many old Nazi pioneer laymen, voted full confidence in the Bavarian bishop, Hans Meiser, an oppositionist.

A baby boy about three weeks old was found yesterday by Samuel Bolan, 1724 North Kedzie avenue, on his doorstep. The infant, who was well fed and clothed in white garments of good quality, was sent to the St. Vincent's orphanage. Neighbors of Bolan reported that they had seen a girl, apparently about 18 years old, approach the house and leave rapidly.

GIRL ENDURANCE FLYERS RIDE OUT HEAVY WEATHER

After a night of heavy weather and a day of clear skies and mild winds, Jean La Rene and Mary Owens, the girl endurance flyers, passed their first thirty hours in the air at 2:15 a. m. today. Their report to their ground crew at Curtiss-Reynolds airport, Glenview, was: "Everything is working perfectly."

is working perfectly."

During the daylight hours yesterday three refueling contacts were made. The first, at dawn, found the girl pilots nervous because their previous attempt came to grief on Wednesday when they were unable to make the contact. Yesterday's came off without a hitch, however, and after 80 gallons of gasoline and several gallons of oil were transfered to the endurance ship the girls were given a hot breakfast of bacon and eggs, apple sauce, and a big jug of coffee.

Two Afternoon Contacts.

At 1 p. m. another refueling contact was made with the girls' Curtiss Thrush plane, which they have named the Lone Star, since they both are natives of Texas. At 6 o'clock Kenneth Hunter, one of the four brothers who set an endurance record over the same airport in 1930, and who now is piloting the refueling ship, took up the girls' supper. An hour later 140 gallons of gasoline was pumped into the Lone Star for the night flight.

Hunter and Leo Sauerborn, who have charge of all ground arrangements on the flight, asserted last evening that the same schedule of refueling contacts will be maintained throughout the flight.

It is the intention of the girl flyers, they said, to work on the 225 horsepower Wright engine of their plane during the noon hours every day. This work consists of greasing the rocker arms of the motor and occasionally changing spark plugs and requires one of the girls to climb out on hand and foot holds to operate tools and a grease gun within a few feet of the propellor.

Plane Remade for Flight.

The Lone Star was remodeled for the flight. The seats for five persons in the cabin were removed, leaving only the pilot's. The rest of the space was filled with a pneumatic mattress and with tools, grease and oil cans. The girls have only a few articles of clothing and beauty aids with them in the ship.

During the afternoon Jean, who was at the controls of the ship on Thursday evening when bad lightning and heavy downpours of rain drove them to within 300 feet of the ground at times, took a long nap while Mary circled the ship slowly above the airport.

DICTATOR TELLS WHY HE REWED HIS FIRST WIFE

Hungary Is Stirred by Goemboes' Marriage.

He remarried his first wife and the mother of his three children after his second wife died.

Every one thought the country's dictator was so irreconcilably grieved over the death of his second wife, who was strikingly beautiful and young, that he never would go to the altar again, but her death eventually rekindled the premier's love for his first soulmate, who today is 38.

"Case of Reunited Love."

"When I took office as premier," said Goemboes, "I said my task was to build a new soul for the Hungarian nation. I find today that not only nations but individuals need new souls.

"That is why I decided to seek again the heart love and comforting presence of my first wife and our three children. It is a case of refound and reunited love."

In military and governmental circles Goemboes' remarriage was a subject of animated speculation because it is understood that his wife is Jewish. As the premier is head of the exclusive Vitez organization, or royal bodyguard, whose members are forbidden to marry into the Jewish faith, there was discussion on the question of whether he will retain his connection with the group.

Usually Obliged to Resign.

Ordinarily a member marrying a Jewess is obliged to resign.

It was said in some quarters that Goemboes' oldest daughter, who is 16, brought about a reconciliation between her father and mother. But it was considered more likely that the premier, a man of determined convictions, took the step himself.

G. O. P. CARAVAN DRAWS CROWDS IN FOUR COUNTIES

Campaigners Devote Day to Wabash District.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Newton, Ill., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The Republican state campaign caravan, headed by C. Wayland Brooks and Milton E. Jones, candidates for congressmen at large, cruised along the Wabash river today, holding meetings in four counties and everywhere meeting with large and interested groups.

There is very little distinction observable between so called Republican and Democratic counties. The crowds are of the same size and temper. They are made up of a bewildered citizenry who do not know what to think of the new order of things coming upon them so swiftly at the dictation of Washington.

"These Republicans are getting resurrected," said an old timer as he looked over a crowd of a thousand men, women and children at the Lawrenceville courthouse yard last night.

Band and Quartet Present.

The Young Republican league had organized a band which was discoursing sweet refrains. The colored men's quartet sang of their "Old Kentucky Home." The children played with toy birds on sticks. The women gathered close to the platform, as at a sewing bee. They listened for an hour to an oration by Mr. Brooks on the principles of government and the story of the constitution. Then they came up and shook hands with him.

This scene is being repeated in many places. Something is going on in the hearts of the Illinois electorate. They are figuring out a new deal for somebody. The farmers are wondering whether they have done wisely and the small business men think they are being legislated against. The state Democratic administration is not on trial yet, but things do not look good for them now.

As to the President, the NRA, and the AAA, much hard thinking is going on. These Illinois farmers and small town folk are worried about the trend of things. It is too early to say what they are going to do about it, but they are receiving the doctrin of the new Republicanism, the new Americanism, with deep interest.

Tells of Change Under New Deal.

Mr. Brooks, in the course of his campaign in Robinson, Newton, Greenup, and Marshall today said:

"Up until this administration in Washington no man had a right to make a law enforceable against the people unless he was elected by them. Now it is changed. We have new tangled ideas made into laws by professors who never had to compete with men who toil.

"What kind of a law shall we have tomorrow? The constitution of the United States is not something mythical, beyond us all. It is a set of rules, written by humble men in a time of hard thinking and distress.

Cites Evasion of Constitution.

"For one thing the spending of money, appropriations, can come only from the lower house. That was the power given these representatives of the people. They had no right to turn it over to the President and to Secretary Wallace. It does not need a lawyer to see that this is a clear evasion of the spirit of the constitution. The powers were divided so that no one man should ever get too great a hold upon this country. They created a free country. Shall we preserve it?

"In the face of promises to reduce bureaus and expenses they have put 90,000 more people at work enforcing new laws. Are we not dealing with a government a long ways off, with men who were never given a mandate? Are we abandoning our principles of government?

"Appropriations are made in congress without discussion. No doubt over an unheard of program for spending untold funds. A question vital to 120 million people is disposed of in 45 minutes. Three billions spent in ninety minutes; to be spent by Mr. Ickes, an appointee.

Government Competition.

"They start to make furniture in West Virginia. The closed furniture factories of the country asked why they could not turn their wheels and put their men to work. Congress would not tell them that the government was now competing with them, but Mr. Ickes appropriated $520,000 to go ahead with the factory at Reedsville.

"Dr. Tugwell says that statutory and constitutional limitations must be removed for their program to go on. He admits that he would cause farmers to plant or not to plant by the power of taxation.

"We have got to take the hand of government off individuals. This country has advanced the best and farthest under decent checks and balances. There is only one way to level out now and that is to send Republicans to congress. It is a hard job. They have billions to spend and government relief money. We haven't money or positions. Elect your home government first. Send men to the legislature to stop this march toward centralized control. Then vote against all attempts to destroy the constitution."

MRS. RAINEY NOT CANDIDATE, HER FRIENDS REPORT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Close friends of Mrs. Henry T. Rainey, widow of the late speaker, reported today that she would not attempt to succeed her husband.

They pointed out, however, that as his widow she would stand to gain all the benefits which tradition has developed for the immediate families of deceased congressmen.

She will receive a year's salary, which is $10,000. Rainey, as speaker, received $15,000; but it is customary, as upon the death of Speaker Longworth, that the widow be given only the salary which late husband would have earned as an ordinary congressman.

In addition Mrs. Rainey is on the government pay roll as secretary to the speaker, for which she receives $4,620 annually. This will continue until she either resigns or has been succeeded.

LIKENS BUSINESS UNDER NEW DEAL TO SLAVERY ERA

Ex-Gov. Harding, Iowa, Cites Many Chains.

Fairmont, Ind., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Business conditions under the New Deal were likened to conditions existing in the days of slavery in the south in an address delivered here today by W. L. Harding, former Republican governor of Iowa.

He pictured business as the "silenced" partner of the New Deal, referring to Undersecretary of Agriculture Tugwell's definition of the New Deal as a partnership between government and business.

"Slavery was a partnership between the government, the owner and the slave," he said. "The slave didn't have much to say about the partnership but he was a partner, nevertheless. He did the work, the owner did the bossing and the government caught the slave and brought him back if he was bold enough to run away.

Widow Punished.

"Under the New Deal of partners a widow is brought to task by the government because she makes a few artificial flowers in her home in order to make a living and support her children.

"A government under a monarch or a king was a partnership. The king was the big partner, but the subjects were also in on the partnership. After centuries of struggle the people finally developed what is now known as a parliamentary form of government. Then the representative form of government was established.

"And now, because of certain acts that have taken place in the world, the New Deal group came into being —a bunch of long haired professors who are as full of theories as a hound dog is full of fleas. They propose to destroy representative government and put in its place a dictatorial, regimented, planned government.

"Still a Partnership."

"But it is still a partnership, Tugwell says. In agriculture Henry Wallace is the big partner. He makes the rules and makes the farmer sign up in advance before he can get any gravy from the federal government. You do as he tells you or else you get nothing.

"In industry NRA is the big partner. They fix wages, hours, and everything else except incomes. A military dictator, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, knocks your ears down if you refuse to comply with his whims. No longer, under the New Deal, does the citizen run his own business."

Mr. Harding declared that the New Dealers started out on the incorrect theory that there was a surplus in the United States at the time the President took office.

"Never Been a Surplus."

"The cold facts are that since the civil war and the development of the country west of the Alleghany mountains," he said "there has never been a surplus in the United States."

"What we must settle," he said, "is whether the government is going to remain representative and be a government to govern instead of running business, or if it is going to change and become socialistic, communistic, or under the thumb of a dictator.

"The way to get out of the hole we are in is to keep our representative form of government, protect the American market, and keep it for American people, pay off as rapidly as we can our debts, reduce our interest charge thereon, and live within our means."

ROOSEVELT REBUKES PENNSYLVANIA FOR SHIRKING RELIEF JOB

Washington, D. C. Aug. 24.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today at his regular press conference that he expects Pennsylvania to carry its share of the relief work and added that the state is not now doing so.

Replying to inquiries the President said if it is necessary for the Pennsylvania legislature to be called in extra session to provide relief funds he expects that to be done.

ROOSEVELT FOR MAINTENANCE OF MERCHANT SHIPS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today he favored the maintenance of an American merchant marine.

Discussing at his regular press conference the recent letter written by Secretary Wallace arguing for the economic advantage of hauling some American goods in foreign ships, the President said that was only one phase of the merchant marine situation.

So far as that was concerned, he said, Secretary Wallace was right. He added that other arguments for maintenance of a strong merchant marine, including national defense and insurance in event of war between other nations, did demand the American merchant marine which the administration and Secretary Wallace favored.

PINCHOT 'CHECKS UP ON COLD' IN N. Y. SANITARIUM

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 24.—(AP)—The governor's office this afternoon announced that Gov. Pinchot is in a New York sanitarium "checking up on a cold."

Earlier statements said Pinchot was at his Milford estate, awaiting word to go to Washington to talk over the state's unemployment relief crisis with federal officials.

Pinchot was to return to his desk in Harrisburg the first of this week to arrange for the Washington conference on which he said hinged whether he would call a special session of the legislature.

He made speeches at Greenville and Erie last Monday and it was said he had gone to Milford.

"SOCIAL SAFETY" PLAN DRAWN BY HARRY HOPKINS

Relief Chief Gets Ideas in Europe.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Harry L. Hopkins, youthful administrator of federal emergency relief, returned to his office from a trip to Europe today with a vision of "social security" which he will reveal to President Roosevelt tomorrow.

Mr. Hopkins, a crusading New Dealer, said his tour of England, France, Germany ["right after the shooting"], Austria ["just before they assassinated Dollfuss"], and Italy had given him "many new ideas" on work relief, national housing, and unemployment insurance. Out of this background he evolved his plan for "permanent relief for all and unemployment for none."

The relief administrator mentioned, adventitiously, that some of these countries are on the brink of a total economic collapse and that all their unemployment insurance funds have gone bankrupt, but this did not dampen his blithe portrayal of the promised "social security for all."

"In Midst of New Era."

"Surely we are in the midst of a new era," he declaimed with gestures to a gathering of awe-stricken reporters, his sharp brown eyes beaming with the zeal of a Musselman. "And it is going over; the Tories can't stop it."

Before Mr. Hopkins had a chance to explain just what it is the "new era" is going over he was interrupted by a chorus of approvals from the admiring reporters. He paused at this stage long enough to pay his respects to the newly organized American Liberty league, which includes in its ranks the outstanding foes of radicalism in the Democratic party.

"I notice that all right thinking people have been invited to join up," he said. "That outfit is so far over to the right that I'm afraid it will never be found."

In Italy Mr. Hopkins said he found a work relief project that was truly remarkable—the Pontine marshes.

Building Whole Cities.

"They are building schools, churches, recreation centers, parks, playgrounds, roads—whole cities," he said. "All the roads in Italy are paved and kept clean. It is all public works, but they don't call it relief. They class the workers on these projects as employed. The people don't mind seeing all this money spent on keeping the roads clean, for it makes employment.

"In England they have had housing for years that is far ahead of anything we have even dreamed of. It was started by the government, but now it is being financed by private capital. The capitalists in England have learned that the way to maintain their system is to have a low but sure interest rate. They have quit talking about 6 per cent over there and are content with 4 or even less."

Finds New Deal Approved.

Mr. Hopkins said he found universal approval of the New Deal on his travels through Europe, except that the people of the old world seemed to find it a little conservative.

"In England, Germany, Italy—everywhere I went—the bankers, businessmen, everybody, laughed when I told them about the Roosevelt program," he declared. "They felt that nobody could possibly object to such a program."

It was while dwelling on Germany, Austria, Italy, and France that Mr. Hopkins mentioned "the terrible standard of living," but this was by way of emphasizing the superiority of the New Deal.

"Italy's foreign trade is completely gone and prices in France are incredible," said Mr. Hopkins. "That is because they are trying to cling to their precious gold standard. I am afraid some of those countries in Europe can't stand up very long."

Housing Boom On in England.

Then the administrator hastened back to England, where he found better conditions, with only 2,000,000 unemployed and the national housing program in full bloom.

"The Labor party is pulling the conservatives to the left and they are both pulling the tories to the left," he explained. They are doing things over there that would be regarded as more radical than anything ever suggested in this country."

In this connection it was suggested to Mr. Hopkins that England, somehow, had managed to balance the budget, while the New Deal was proceeding in the opposite direction at the rate of about 7 billions a year. He pooh poohed the reporters' credulity.

"Don't be taken in by that balanced budget talk," he cautioned. "That's for international consumption."

Details Are Lacking.

When Mr. Hopkins got down to details of his "social security" program it seemed rather nebulous, but it is to be presumed that he would not spill it all to the press before letting the President in on the vision. He indicated that it contemplates public works on a bigger and grander scale, with unemployment insurance based on "an American system" that won't go bankrupt as the European reserves did.

"On an actuarial basis," he added, "I doubt if there could be an unemployment insurance fund that wouldn't go bankrupt in a situation such as we have had with 14 million out of work. But then the government would have to step in, as England did. Mussolini wiped out the unemployment fund with a stroke of the pen, without any regard for the payments that had been made, but no other country would think of abolishing it."

A. W. MELLON, HOME AGAIN, IS PLANNING 12 HOUR WORK DAY

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 24.—(AP)—At 79 years of age, Andrew W. Mellon today turned to a littered desk and mapped out for himself a 12 hour work day.

Returning from a vacation spent in Scotland, the former secretary of the treasury under three Presidents stepped spryly from his train and soon things at the massive Mellon mansion were humming again.

The financier took over a desk piled high and announced through his offices:

"I am going back to work. I had a fine time and I feel fit. It looks as though it will be a 12 hour day for me for the next few weeks."

Mr. Mellon returns as the Aluminum Company of America, one of the corporations in which he is heavily interested, is in the midst of a strike involving several thousands of workers, but associates said the banker is not in control of the company and consequently in no position to act.

In fact, it was said, the aging financier takes little hand these days in the operation of the numerous corporations connected with the Mellon empire of finance which was founded by Andrew's father and grew under the direction of the three sons.

CANDIDATES GIVE VIEWS ON MONEY LADLING BY ICKES

Republican Raises Issue in 8th District.

Candidates for congress from the Seventh district yesterday expressed their views on charges that Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, head of the Federal Public Works Administration, has discriminated against the city of Chicago in ladling out PWA "easy money." The district, normally Republican, is located on Chicago's great northwest side and has a population of approximately 1,000,000.

The charge that Chicago is not receiving its share of the funds was made by the Republican candidate, Raymond J. Peacock, in a carefully worded statement, which did not mention Ickes by name. It was as carefully denied in a formal statement by the incumbent, Congressman Leonard W. Schuetz, Democrat, who is running for reelection.

Funds Withdrawn by Ickes.

Peacock's argument was based on Ickes' attitude on the outer drive bridge project. PWA had originally set aside $7,000,000 to complete the span, but a month ago Ickes withdrew the funds—on the ground that adequate security had not been offered—and said they would be used elsewhere.

"The federal government is making available billions of dollars for construction of all kinds of public works," said Peacock. "Surely no one would question the necessity of the outer drive bridge project. Chicago has not received its proper share of these funds when the amount of taxes, tarifs, and other moneys paid in to the government is taken into consideration.

"It would be a pity if differences between Washington and local officials should be allowed to stand in the way of Chicago getting this major improvement. The ruling of the state Supreme court holding the park merger legal should justify reconsideration for the needed federal loan to finance the construction of the outer drive bridge."

Cites Possible Time Saving.

Millions of dollars would be saved annually in time and actual expense for the people of Chicago if the link bridge were completed and put in operation, Peacock declared.

"Construction of the bridge would give gainful employment to hundreds of skilled workmen at good wages," he said.

"It would also take from the most congested area trafic that now is forced to flow through it and would improve the value of properties in the outlying sections by adding to their accessibility. Reducing time required to reach one part of the city from another always improves the values of properties in both districts."

Schuetz Lists U. S. Grants.

Congressman Schuetz made the request that his statement be printed in full or not at all. The statement in full follows:

"I have been reading the criticism in THE TRIBUNE of the Democratic administration and the PWA program, but I have never yet had any one tell the people of Illinois just how much money the administration allocated to our state, and perhaps these figures will be of interest to the readers of Chicago and Illinois.

"The official report mailed to every member of congress from Illinois issued by the department of the interior, dated July 20, 1934, shows that $74,958,970 was allocated through the PWA and $7,640,723 by the RFC. Chicago's share of this allotment for different projects through the PWA was $32,903,340 and through the RFC $6,813,250.

Expects More Easy Money.

"Taking an average for the forty-eight states in the union and the possessions, I do not think Illinois has fared so badly.

"This is not all Illinois will get, because many projects are yet under advisement, and Illinois will get many more millions as the different projects are approved. Many millions of dollars are held in reserve for worthy projects not yet approved."

The congressman declined to comment on political implications in connection with the PWA. He did say, however, that the outer drive bridge was a worthy project, and a new appeal for funds from the government should be made.

TRAILER TOO LONG; FINED.

Jerome Carroll, 23 years old, 4764 Hohman street, Hammond, was fined $5 and costs yesterday by Judge John J. Lupe for violation of the traffic code forbidding operation of a car and a trailer longer than 35 feet on the highway.

BIG CELEBRATION PLANNED AT FAIR FOR POLISH DAY

Wiley Post Gets Medal; Arizonans Feted.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Poland, whose history and cultural development is closely intertwined with that of the United States in many respects, will be honored by ceremonies at the Fair tomorrow.

For two reasons it is fitting that the Poles should take the honor rôle in Sunday's Exposition. Hundreds of thousands of Americans of Polish descent are taking part in today's advance in the United States, and Polish military men played equally important rôles in the war of independence which made possible the eventual union of states. These two phases of Polish life and history in relation to the development of America will be given emphasis in the ceremonies and pageantry.

At last year's Exposition Polish day drew more nationals than any other day in that category. Officials in charge of today's events predict that 60,000 Polish-Americans visit the Fair today. Delegations from forty Polish organizations and practically all the Polish Catholics in the Chicago diocese will attend, they said.

Good Will Envoys Arrive.

A good will representation from Poland arrived yesterday. Two young men, sailing a small boat across the Atlantic and through the Great Lakes, got here to bring Chicago good wishes from Poland. Their boat will be moved into the lagoons today and will remain on exhibition throughout tomorrow.

Visitors in brilliant native costume will parade from the Court of Honor to the Hall of States at 2 p. m. Music, drills, pageantry and speeches will make up the official program. Speakers will include ranking Polish officials, American dignitaries of Polish descent, and city and state officials.

Saturday throngs will have opportunity to visit the regular exhibits and enjoy the many amusements and entertainments since few special events are planned. The night clubs and cafés, an investigation showed, are of particular interest to Saturday visitors.

Honor Arizonans and Post.

Chief events yesterday were the observation of Arizona day and the presentation of the Harmon trophy to Wiley Post, round the world flyer, by Gov. Horner. The high light of the state program, honoring the land of cowboy and cacti, was an official reception in the lounge of the Federal building. Troops from Camp Roosevelt staged a review in the Court of States at the conclusion of the formal program.

Taking advantage of special rates, a delegation of 60 Arizonans came to the Fair for the day. Addresses were made during the program by Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair, and Miss Grace Sparkes, special representative of Gov. B. B. Moeur, of Arizona.

Yesterday's attendance at the Fair topped the 100,000 mark, but fell short of last Friday's 122,691. At midnight 107,380 had entered.

EXPECT 75,000 TO SEE NEGRO PAGEANT TONIGHT

The dream of famous Negro musicians will bear fruit tonight when for the first time the dramatic story of the Negro people from the days of savagery to their present place in western civilization will be told in pageantry and music.

In Soldiers' field the gigantic spectacle called "O, Sing a New Song" will be witnessed, it is estimated, by 75,000 persons, many of them of other races interested in the Negroes' efforts to portray what to them is their true racial history. This morning special trains from Memphis, St. Louis and Cincinnati will arrive bringing visitors to attend the production.

Cast of 5,000.

Last night the cast of 5,000 worked with renewed zeal to polish off their performance when they learned that Bill Robinson, world famed soft shoe dancer, had only a few hours earlier arrived from New York to go through the dress rehersal with them. Until a late hour Soldiers' field was the scene of feverish activity as stage scenery was shifted, choruses rehersed and principals went over their parts.

Under the night sky dusky natives wove baskets in an African village, cooking over open fires, with a background of native huts, palisades, and sacrificial altars.

Weird rites and dances will be performed to a background of descriptive symphonic music transcribed by the composers, Maj. N. Clark Smith, the son of an African tribesman, who is directing the production; Harry Lawrence Freeman, J. Rosamund Johnson, and Will Marion Cook.

The African village is the first of the three major sections of the spectacle, the other two being an authentic plantation scene in the southland, and the third the interpretation of Negro life since emancipation, including the part of Negroes in the world war.

During the plantation scene the great choir will sing spirituals, their beauty, according to Maj. Clark, lying in their vital rhythms rather than in their words.

In the modern section of "O, Sing a New Song," will be included a revue by Irene Castle McLaughlin featuring numbers made famous by herself and Vernon Castle and inspired by Negro music. There will also be the music of three jazz bands, and a "Mechanistic Ballet" in which 3,000 dancers will form a brilliant living machine to symbolize their part in modern industrial life.

Richard Harrison in Cast.

Among the principals in the cast are Richard B. Harrison, de Lawd of "The Green Pastures," who will be narrator; W. C. Handy, composer of the "St. Louis Blues," and Harry T. Burliegh, known for his "Deep River," who will lead the orchestra and chorus in their famous numbers, and Noble Sissle, who through the cooperation of the French Casino will appear with his band. James Mundy and J. Wesley Jones will direct the choir in the spirituals. Other performers will be Will Vodery, Abbie Mitchell, Mme. Carlotta Freeman, and Earl Hines.

A parade will precede the opening of the spectacle entering the grounds of Soldiers' field at 7:30, and many of the marchers will drill for the entertainment of early arrivals. Mayor Kelly, Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress and other officials, the 24 the infantry, civic and fraternal groups, and floats are expected to be in the parade. A twilight concert by Abbie Mitchell, a symphony orchestra, and a huge chorus, will be held from 8 to 8:30, when the show proper will begin.

Following the performance admission fees at all gates of A Century of Progress will be reduced to fifteen cents.

Century of Progress Notes

Fair officials yesterday began formulation of a demolition program, to start immediately on the closing of the Fair Nov. 1. No demolition in any form will start until that time. Everything will remain intact as long as there is a visitor within the grounds on that day. With few exceptions, all of the buildings now in the Fair grounds will either be destroyed or be moved by company owners to other locations.

A program of songs will be given by the Chicago and North Western Railway Choral club, directed by Harry Slater at 7 o'clock tonight in the Court of States.

Members of the Grand Trunk Western Recreation club of Detroit arrived on a special train on the Grand Trunk early today for a two day visit.

Eleven salesmen of the Public Service Gas and Electric Company of New Jersey, who won honors in a sales contest conducted by the Hurley Machine company of Chicago, are guests of the local company at the Fair.

Headed by their president, Herman Kletzsch, 50 members of the Steuben Society of Milwaukee arrived in Chicago yesterday on the North Shore Electric for a day's tour.

The three day convention of the National Bond Traders' club, now in progress in Chicago, will be climaxed tonight when more than 500 member attend a banquet in the Irish village.

RESCUED FROM STORM, HE ROBS FAMILY OF $790

The Town Hall police yesterday were asked to hunt a thief who stole cash, jewelry, and other articles with a total value of $790 from a home where he had been given refuge from the rainstorm and cold.

Miss Irene Marshall, 4320 Clarendon avenue, who lives with her sister, her husband, and their son, said she came home early yesterday to find a man in an army sergeant's uniform shivering in an areaway of the apartment building. Taking pity on him, Miss Marshall invited him in, gave him wine and food, and offered him the use of a spare bedroom, she said.

She and her sister and brother-in-law left home for work after daylight, setting the alarm to wake Miss Marshall's nephew in the middle of the forenoon.

Meanwhile the self-styled soldier had gotten up, set the alarm to go off at noon, and then made off with a $600 diamond ring belonging to Miss Marshall, a radio, a suit of clothes, and $90 in cash. Miss Marshall was to be taken to the army camp at the World's Fair in an effort to identify the man.

'PLOT' TO LAY OUT PIGEONS WITH RUM GETS JOLT

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Street Commissioner James Weedon today blamed the press for damaging his plans to lay pigeons out with shots of whisky. He said he feared reformers would get after him for his proposal to rid the city of what is regarded as a menace to sanitation.

"If was my intention to make this an undercover job," the commissioner asserted. "Some person let the news get out."

He was asked about his plans of soaking grain in whisky and feeding it to the birds.

"It's none of your business," he replied angrily, leaving his office with a shotgun under his arm.

STATE STREET, Corner WASHINGTON

4 CO-DEFENDANTS OF INSULL RETAIN NEW ATTORNEYS

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green was notified yesterday by Attorneys Charles E. Lounsbury and Harry S. Ditchburne, who successfully defended Marshall E. Sampsell in the state court on a charge of embezzlement, that they had been retained by four of the 16 co-defendants of Samuel Insull in the mail fraud case called for Sept. 18 in federal court.

In a conference with Mr. Green, the two attorneys declared their intention of filing appearance papers probably next week, and said they would ask at that time a six weeks' continuance to complete a study of the case. They explained that extra time was needed since they had been called to assist Attorney Amos Miller, who is ill, in representing the four defendants, Harold L. Stuart, head of Halsey, Stuart & Co.; his brother, Charles B. Stuart, and two officials of the company, Frank K. Shrader and Clarence MacNeille.

Mr. Green said that he would oppose a motion for continuance on the ground that there had been plenty of time before the date was set by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson for filing appearance and completing preparations for the defense.

WOMAN CHARGES RAPE ATTEMPT BY CO-ED'S 'DATE'

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 24.—(AP)—The co-ed murder mystery, baffling as any detective thriller, took a new turn today as Harold Taylor, accused of the slaying, was charged with an attempt to rape another woman.

Mrs. Clara Cost, in a warant sworn to in county court, charged Taylor picked her up on the streets Monday afternoon, drove her out the lonely Green Springs road, and attempted to rape her.

She jumped from his automobile, she said, and made her way back home.

This development came two hours after Judge Russell McElroy had ordered the grand jury assembled in special session Monday to investigate the death of Faye New, 19 year old Howard college student slain after she went with Taylor on an automobile ride late Monday.

Gold Rush Follows Report of Rich Strike in Canada

FORT CHIPEWAYAN, Alta., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Reports of a rich gold strike at Beaver Lodge on the north shore of Lake Athabaska, 140 miles east of here, have resulted in a gold rush of large proportions from this district. Assays show more than $150 worth of gold to the ton. About 100 residents of Fort Chipewayan are waiting impatiently for mining licenses permitting them to stake claims. The discovery was made by a lone trapper, Gus Neilman.

BITTEN BY RATTLESNAKE IN ORCHARD.

Logansport, Ind., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Bitten on the hand by a rattlesnake as he was picking up apples in an orchard, Perry Deakins, 68, saved his life today by applying a crude tourniquet. The arm below the tourniquet swelled to twice its normal size before he reached medical aid.

Paroled Indiana Convict Gets 90 Days in Jail Here

Harry Forester, 30 years old, on parole from the Indiana state prison at Michigan City, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Michael G. Kasper in the Town Hall court to serve 90 days in the Bridewell on a charge of possessing obscene literature. He was arrested recently after he had asked a witness in a robbery case to repudiate his identification of Joseph Plant, alias Parker, whose case was continued by Judge Kasper until Monday. After serving his Bridewell sentence, Forester will be returned to prison for violation of parole.

BRITAIN FORCES LATVIA TO PAY UP OLD DEBT

Uses Economic Boycott as a Weapon.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 24.—Although willing to carry the stigma of being a defaulter on her debt to the United States, the British government is still one of the world's best "had bill" collectors. It has taken London twelve years to force Latvia to agree to pay a $6,000,000 debt incurred by the city of Riga to a British bank.

Until now Latvia had refused to pay. The British bank and the British government did everything in their power to prevent Latvia from obtaining further foreign loans and credits. Although the debt was incurred by the city of Riga, the British organized a financial boycott against Latvia.

Britain Supports Bank.

It was only when Latvia came as a petitioner to London to ask the British government for larger import quotas for Latvian butter and bacon that the Letts finally were forced to recognize the need for paying this loan. Britain supported the bank and made the signing of a new trade treaty contingent upon the payment of the loan.

In the early part o 1914 Riga, at that time a prosperous Russian seaport, borrowed 1,322,751 pounds [$6,613,755 at par] in London. Lazard Brothers' bank floated this loan at 91½, calling for 4½ per cent interest. Coupons due on May 14, 1918, were not met and since them no interest has been paid and no amortization was arranged. The bank now claims 1,881,840 pounds from Riga.

Riga refused to pay because she had not benefited from the loan, which was used by the Russian czarist régime to pay for war munitions. The war also changed Riga from the largest timber port in the world, with a population of 500,000, to the capital of a small impoverished republic with 350,000 inhabitants.

Letts Refuse to Sign.

This is Riga's side of the story. Riga also made Lazard brothers what she considered a fair offer to settle the debt on the basis of paying one gold franc [20 cents] for each Russian gold ruble [49 cents]. Negotiations were concluded in London, but the Letts refused to sign because at the last minute Lazard brothers included an item of 20,000 pounds [$100,000 at par] as their commission. The Letts charged Lazard brothers were collecting a commission from the bond holders whom they represented and declared they did not see why the bank should exact a commission from them.

Britain supported Lazard brothers in their attempt to collect. On one hand British government set an example to Latvia by defaulting on her war debt to the United States and on the other she placed great pressure upon Latvia to force Riga to settle this debt.

With the British government imposing more and more restrictions against Lettish exports and paying for what she did buy with depreciated pounds, the economic situation of Latvia became worse. Karl Ulmanis, head of the Peasant party, staged a putsch and became dictator. He decided to bow to the demands of Great Britain and agreed to pay the debt.

57 CONVENTIONS IN NEXT MONTH BOON TO HOTELS

Fifty-seven conventions set for next month are expected to bring a sharp upturn in the business of Chicago's hotels instead of the usual late summer decline, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday.

The largest of the conventions, that of the International Typographical union, to be held Sept. 3 to 15 in the Palmer house, will bring more than 4,000 persons to Chicago, it was predicted. A special day at the World's Fair is planned. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins will speak.

More than 3,000 persons are expected to attend the joint convention of the International Garage association and the National Automotive Maintenance association which opens Sept. 10 for five days at the Stevens hotel.

Hundreds of stamp collectors will attend the convention of the American Air Mail society, which opens Friday for three days at the Congress hotel.

Boy, 8, Seriously Injured as Radiator Falls on Him

John Lepscier, 8 years old, was seriously injured yesterday when a steam radiator toppled over on him as he was playing on the back porch of his home at 6231 Stewart avenue. The radiator was one of several standing on the porch, preparatory to being installed. The boy's father, Oliver, rushed him to the Englewood hospital, where it was found he was suffering from a broken shoulder and a skull fracture.

SOUTH SIDE FISH CAN'T TAKE IT! NOW LOOK AT 'EM

Lightning Kills Scores; Needy Folk Dine.

It seems that the fish out in a water filled clay hole at 103d street and South California avenue just can't take it.

It may be rather unfair to blame the fish, however, since they were called upon to "take" a lightning bolt which struck the pool during the electrical storm of Thursday night.

The net result was that yesterday citizens of the neighborhood were both surprised and pleased to see the fish, either floating supinely or at best only swimming feebly on the surface of the water.

There were carp and bullheads and perch and sunfish and even dazed schools of minnows.

There was no Paul Revere, but the news spread rapidly, and citizens of all sizes, sexes and shapes hurried to the pool. Some caught fish in their hands. Others whacked them on the heads with clubs. A few more enterprising ones hired boats and speared them with pitchforks.

Unemployed and poverty-stricken families found this easy supply of food a godsend, and several persons, including Mrs. R. E. Long, 12502 Fairview avenue, offered the local relief station 300 pounds of fish captured by her son.

The Blue Island police, fearing that the fish might have been poisoned, notified the Chicago health department, which called for samples of the fish to be sent there and examined.

But nobody seemed worried, and fish graced the tables of hundreds of residents of the south side of Chicago and suburbs. [Did you remember it was Friday?]

Mussolini Orders Italy to Get Ready for War

Speaking appropriately enough, from the turret of an assault tank to 5,000 cheering officers and military attaches at the conclusion of Italian war maneuvers, the square jawed premier said, "War can break out from one moment to the other."

BENITO MUSSOLINI.

"No one in Europe wants war," Il Duce asserted, "but the idea of war is floating in the air.

Calls for Warlike Nation.

"It is not necessary to be ready for the war of tomorrow, but for the war of today.

"We must become a military nation, even a militaristic nation, even—I might add—a warlike nation."

While Capt. Francis Brady, United States military attaché, listened with the rest of the throng, Mussolini said war will accompany the fortunes of nations throughout the centuries, despite international good will conferences and treaties.

"At the end of July," he declared, "an unforeseen situation [the outbreak of Nazi revolt in Austria] developed which was similar to that which prevailed in the East."

Claims an Alpine Conflict.

"If we had not sent our divisions to the frontier complications might have resulted that could not have been settled save by the voice of the cannon."

Political circles attached great importance to the fact that Il Duce's martial utterances included one calling his officers' attention to the fact that the ground chosen for the war maneuvers resembled the Italian eastern forntier.

"The same broken terrain and even the same lack of water," Il Duce said, waving his hand toward the outstretched field—and his hearers recalled that Italy's eastern frontier faces Austria and Jugo-Slavia.

Observers believed the Fascist leaders wished to intimate that war, if it comes, will come along these borders.

Praise for Officers.

This they took to indicate Mussolini's anti-German, anti-Jugo-Slavian and pro-French attitude.

Praising the officers, especially those of the hydraulic service and the forest militia, for their excellent showing during the maneuvers, Mussolini said "the political, economic, and spiritual life of the nation ought to be based on its military necessities."

"Because certain nations rise and others decline it develops that despite good will conferences and treaties, war will accompany the fortunes of nations throughout the centuries."

The entire Italian people, he added, today is ready to respond as one man in case of need.

9 Die as Bus Hits Car and Plunges Into Sea; 2 Saved

DRIVE LAUNCHED TO END HOLDUP OF MOTORING PUBLIC

State Road Police Chief Hits "Ticket Fixing."

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Chief Taylor of the highway police is taking steps to prohibit "ticket fixing," roadside shakedowns, and fee grabbing by members of his department in the Chicago metropolitan area. Supervising Sergeant L. P. Bornhoeft, in charge of the northern section of Illinois, was in headquarters this afternoon arranging details of a program to clean the department of rumors, false or true, of such preying upon the motoring public.

The state men have borne the brunt of reports of illegal or reprehensible police conduct because many car owners look upon all highway motorcycle constabulary as Illinois patrolmen. The Cook county sheriff operates a separate department and most of the villages on the outskirts of Chicago have uniformed men on the roads in their respective jurisdictions.

New System to Cancel Fixing.

A new system of recording arrests and auditing justices of peace books is calculated to eliminate fixing. Hereafter, any summons issued by a state highway policeman will be numbered and will be made in durlicate. Once the ticket has been issued, the policeman will be unable to tear up the slip or to cancel it in the justice of peace court because its duplicate will be on file at Springfield to be checked against court records.

The likelihood of a shakedown by a state policeman has been minimized by the summary dismissal of three against whom evidence was uncovered by the chief.

Fee grabbing is as vicious a practice as any speed trap operation, but it has received little publicity. THE TRIBUNE recently questioned six justices of the peace in the metropolitan area and learned that a fair portion of the magistrates were dividing their fees, assessed as costs against the defendants, with the policemen making the arrests. Those who were not sharing their fees were not receiving many trafic cases; the police were filing their cases with more generous justices.

Sergeant Loses Job.

One justice of a western suburb, who declined to talk to THE TRIBUNE for publication, is reported to have been approached by a sergeant of the state police with a proposal that the sergeant and not the patrolmen share in the fees. This sergeant, for reasons unannounced, recently lost his post.

"We found one justice, southwest of Chicago," said Sergt. Bornhoeft, "who was penalizing defendants in motor vehicle cases $10 fine and $10 costs. Then the fine would be remitted and we didn't learn what became of the fees."

The statute provides that on pleas of guilty, which dispose of most of the minor trafic cases, the fee for the justice shall be $2 and that on a plea of not guilty the justice is entitled to $3 more as a trial fee.

FIND BAD BRAKES ON THIRD OF CARS AT SAFETY LANE

Lights All Good, Say Tribune Mechanics.

Faulty brakes again yesterday figured as the chief cause of failure of more than a third of the automobiles submitted for free safety inspection at THE TRIBUNE'S safety lane, 401 East Ontario street, to qualify for okay stickers.

Of the 375 cars tested yesterday, 117 were found to have defective brakes, a fault that trafic authorities hold to be a major cause of automobile accidents. Brakes on only 64.9 per cent were found to be satisfactory, while the remaining 35.1 per cent were in need of adjustment or repair.

Not one set of faulty headlights was revealed in yesterday's tests, but three cars, or .9 per cent of the total, were found to be equipped with inadequate tail lights. Poor wheel alignment caused ten, or 3 per cent, of the rejections.

Of the cars tested, 209 won okay stickers on their first trip through the lane and 85 cars qualified on their second trip. Thus 65 per cent of the motorists who took advantage of the free service yesterday are now displaying their trafic "badges of honor."

A total of 121 cars were rejected on their first trip over the lane, while ten submitted for second tests failed to pass.

Motorists who desire the free service are invited to fill out the coupon appearing elsewhere on this page and drive to THE TRIBUNE'S safety lane. The lane is open from 1 p. m. to 6 p. m. today and every other Saturday, and from 1 p. m. to 8 p. m. daily.

CHARLESTON BOY AWARDED LEGION PRIZE FOR ESSAY

William Adair, 16 years old, Charleston, Ill., was awarded first prize yesterday in the school medal essay contest of the Americanism committee of the Illinois department of the American Legion. More than 4,000 students from 102 high schools throughout the state submitted essays.

Miss Pauline Putnam, 641 South Elm street, Hinsdale, won second prize, and Miss Joan Wise, 628 East View street, Elgin, was given third prize. Hayes Kennedy of Joliet, state chairman of the Americanism committee, announced the winners. They will be presented with gold, silver, and bronze medals, respectively, at the annual state convention of the Legion at Peoria, which will open its five day session next Saturday.

The essays submitted were on the subject: "What provisions are there in the constitution of the United States for protecting individual liberty? When and under what circumstances were they put in the constitution? What responsibility should the individual assume to protect those liberties guaranteed by the constitution?"

DENY FAY WEBB'S PLEA TO PROBE VALLEE'S INCOME

New York, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Fay Webb Vallee's petition to the Supreme court for permission to examine her husband, Rudy Vallee, on his financial status prior to trial of her suit to set aside a written agreement under which he is paying her an allowance of $300 a week was denied today by Justice Aaron Steuer.

Justice Steuer held that some of the questions Mrs. Vallee proposed to have her husband answer were mere cross-examination, the answers to others she knew herself, and that the balance were made unnecessary by Vallee's admission that he has substantial means and income.

Mrs. Vallee contends the $300 a week payments are inadequate on the basis of Vallee's earnings, which she claims are more than $300,000 a year.

VOLCANO SPOUTS LAVA; ISLANDERS EVACUATE HOMES

STROMBOLI ISLAND, Italy, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Frightened inhabitants of this and other islands of the Lipari group spent last night in fields lest new eruptions from Stromboli volcano destroy their houses.

Repeated shocks yesterday and fiery discharges from the crater last night caused apprehension. A new flow of lava descended last night over an uninhabited area.

Reports from various centers indicated the shocks were felt throughout the islands, but no serious damage was done.

FALL INJURY KILLS BABY.

Injuries incurred Aug. 19 in a fall from the third floor porch of her home caused the death yesterday in the county hospital of Phyllis Townsend, 2½ years old, 1165 West Washington street.

HAMILTON CLUB TO HOLD PIONEER OUTING TODAY

A flag raising ceremony and a varied program of land and water sports are among the principal inducements to Hamilton club members to attend the club's Pioneer day outing today on Wooded island in Jackson park.

Flags of the United States and several foreign nations will be honored in an observance arranged by the military affairs committee of the club, and the organization's girl band will play the national anthems of the various nations represented in the flag ceremoney as each standard goes aloft.

Sports events include golf, baseball, swimming and foot races, a bathing beauty contest, and a water pageant. Another pageant, one of the main attractions of the day, will depict the early history of Illinois and the middle west. It will be enacted by the children of club members. Miss Judith Anne Jeffrey, 14 years old, the daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Walter R. Jeffrey of Beverly Hills, is the author of the pageant.

In the evening, Hamiltonians and their friends will see a Venetian night program and hold open house at the Jackson Park Yacht club.

4 MORE INDIANA PRISONERS FLEE; 3 RECAPTURED

Franklin, Ind., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Three of the four prisoners who slid down an improvised rope to freedom from the Johnson county jail here last night were recaptured by a posse tonight one-half mile north of Edinburg.

The men, who surrendered when they were surrounded in a field, are James [Jabo] Mathis, 35, Franklin, a burglary suspect; Virgil Witham, 18, Franklin, charged with housebreaking, and James J. Griffin, 32, Indianapolis, held for auto theft. Chester Carson, 22, of Indianapolis, charged with automobile banditry, is still at large.

A restaurant prorietor reported seeing the men at 5 o'clock tonight, and a posse led by Sherif Albert R. Mulkins of Johnson county, and including state police, Morgan county officers, and farmers closed in on the trio.

Drunken Driver Draws Ten Day Jail Sentence

Found guilty on a charge of driving while drunk, Jack Podgorny, 29 years old, 1428 North Campbell avenue, was sentenced to serve ten days in the Bridewell and fined $100 and costs by Judge John J. Rooney in Safety court yesterday. Podgorny was arrested Thursday night when he drove a car into a parked automobile owned by Jefferie Meyer, 2433 Warren boulevard, at Hirsch street and North Western avenue.

MRS. MARY RINEHART ARRIVES 'FLAT BROKE' FROM TRIP TO EUROPE

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Mary Roberts Rinehart, author of many novels, returning today aboard the Cunarder Aquitania, disclosed that she had taken a voyage to the North Cape and Russia because she has suffered from a blood clot on the heart for more than a year. She was able to walk up to the boat deck today, although it was only a few months ago, she said, that she had to be carried up and down stairs "by my battalion of sons." She thought she had entirely recovered.

"I've come home flat broke and am mighty glad to see my three sons on the pier, as I radioed them they would have to get me out of hock," she laughed. "I didn't buy much abroad except some bargains in Chippendale and Sheraton furniture in England. So my sons will have to pay the duties.

"I had a grand tour and was in Russia only three days, long enough to convince me that the present régime there is built up from peasant life. It may take generations for them to replace the intelligent people who once influenced and guided Russian life."

INDIANA LEGION OPENS MEETING TODAY IN GARY

City Prepares for 15,000 Guests.

Legionnaires of Indiana were gathering in Gary last night for the 16th annual convention of the American Legion, department of Indiana, which starts today and will continue through Tuesday morning. City officials were preparing for 15,000 convention visitors.

Today will be Forty and Eight day, as well as registration day. "Hommes" of the Forty and Eight will stage a parade down Gary's Broadway tonight, featuring costumes, clowns, and comic floats. The main event on Sunday's program will be a contest of thirty drum and bugle corps on Gleason field, in which 1,500 men will participate.

Governor to Lead Parade.

The big parade is scheduled for Monday. Gov. Paul V. McNutt, former national commander of the American Legion, has send word from Indianapolis that he will march in uniform at the head of the procession, and United States Senator Arthur R. Robinson, Republican of Indiana, and Sherman Minton, who will oppose Senator Robinson on the Democratic ticket this fall, also will join in the parade. Both are former members of the same regiment in war service.

Business sessions of the convention will be held Monday and Tuesday, with election of officers and selection of next year's convention city on the program. Indianapolis, Muncie, and Bloomington are bidding for the honor.

State Adjutant William Sayer, Indianapolis, said the Indiana department will consider no resolutions for the payment of the soldiers' bonus. Convention procedure requires the filing of intended resolutions some time in advance of the opening of business sessions, and that deadline has now passed, with nothing on file relating to a bonus resolution, Adjutant Sayer said. Last week Ohio Legionnaires voted on such a resolution, and the Illinois meeting later is expected to do likewise.

Delegates to Visit Fair.

V. M. Armstrong, Indianapolis, state commander, will preside at the Indiana meetings. The American Legion Women's auxiliary convention will be held concurrently, with Mrs. R. F. Robinson of East Chicago, state president, in the chair.

With the windup of the convention a noon Tuesday, a large number of the delegates will come to the World's Fair for the balance of the day. Gov. McNutt will head another parade of Hoosier Legionnaires down the Avenue of Flags at the Fair Tuesday afternoon.

Doll Buggy Parade Marks Cicero Avenue Festivities

Brightly decorated doll carriages in which rode the pride and joy of small misses in the Belmont Park neighborhood went on parade yesterday down Cicero avenue between Melrose and School streets. The doll carriage parade was one of the events of this week's celebration of the widening of Cicero avenue, conducted by the Belmont Park Chamber of Commerce.

Daniel C. Rich Reviews Books on Modern Art

Controversy Retains Its Hold on the Critics.

BY DANIEL CATTON RICH.
[Associate Curator of Painting, the Art Institute of Chicago.]

PRAISED, reviled, condemned, explained away, that art equivocally known as "modern" continues to fascinate the critics. There are four recent books, all treating, at least by implication, certain of its achievements or shortcomings.

Henry Rankin Poore, whose volume is engagingly called "Thinking Straight on Modern Art" [Putnams], is one of our learned academicians, having written in the past such studies as "The Conception of Art," "Pictorial Composition," and a few years ago a more ambitious treatment on the same theme, "Modern Art, Why, What, and How?" of which the present little book is in part a condensation.

"Art of Today," concludes Mr. Poore, "may be divided into three parts: Ultra Modern Art, Modern Art, and The Art of Modern Painters." Translated this means: First, the artists whom Mr. Poore can't stand (or won't); second, the artists whom he can tolerate [but would rather not], and, third, himself and his friends.

Solemnly considering such worn out subjects as "distortion," "lunacy," and "propaganda" in contemporary art, he ends by making obeisance to the Greeks and the Renaissance and in counseling "taste" and "common sense." Longing to follow the masters, and, as he says, be one of "the great exemplars of art who proceeded to their tasks with one hand on brush and chisel and the other touching the hem of nature's mantel," he has never learned the truth in the platitude that "the old masters of today were the moderns of their period." But one must not be too hard on him: the trouble with the book lies, after all, in its title; Mr. Poore doesn't really "think straight" on modern art; he merely "thinks straight" on the National academy.

Much more sweeping, vivid, and bad tempered is Thomas Craven's "Modern Art" [Simon & Schuster], a book which, like its predecessor, "Men of Art," is being praised in some quarters for precisely those qualities which it lacks. Actually Mr. Craven does not write art criticism at all and he gives little evidence of ever having had any experience one may describe as esthetic. You will find everything else in his book—history, sociology, biography, gossip, and rant—but when it comes to that final stage in which a critic reveals his profound insight into either the spirit or form of the object there is a significant lack.

"I have no use for an art that is founded upon the limited attention of specialists, or upon the eccentricities of monomaniacs," writes Thomas Craven. "I ask that art contain meanings which may be verified, shared, and enjoyed by a large and intelligent audience." Passing by the disingenuous appeal of these words to the lightly informed public, one might ask their author a few questions. First of all, does he really believe that the true "meanings" of Giorgione, El Greco, and Goya, to name a few typical names, are really "verified, shared, and enjoyed" by most spectators? No, for the public on the whole never senses them, being content, as is Mr. Craven, with a quick and superficial glance at their absorbed "meanings." Secondly, how can he hope to understand modern art when he willfully throws overboard just those basic elements of design which its creators have stressed in their work?

In vain one searches through the fulminations against Parisian influence or the flag waving paragraphs on a few Americans for any sane and simplified exposition of contemporary experiment. If painters have to do with the formal side they are dismissed as "merely technical"; if they search for the permanence of feeling we associate with classicism (Seurat is a ready example) they are "lifeless," "cold," "inert." Only when an artist spins a good story does he reach the heights and Daumier emerges as "the greatest artist of the 19th century."

The first part of the book with its attacks on French contemporaries is matched in a latter half with a series of testimonials to the artists of Mr. Craven's choice, among them George Grosz, Frank Lloyd Wright, George Gray Barnard, Jacob Epstein, and Thomas Benton.

Turning from Mr. Craven's crude distinctions between "Art" and "Life" to John Dewey's "Art as Experience" [Minton-Balch] one finds a high minded and serious discussion in pragmatic terms of the part art ideally plays in our existence. Let us admit at once that the farther the author goes in his later work with his concept of "experience" the more mystical it seems to grow, and let us say instantly, too, that while this fact may obscure the center of his philosophy, it does not keep him from proposing a number of brilliant ideas along the way. The book, unfortunately, is far too long; its 349 pages might be cut in two and the exposition gain in effect.

As one might expect, Mr. Dewey's strong point lies in stressing the immediacy and totality, as well as the complicated interweave of the esthetic experience [whether from its creative or appreciative angle], which allows him to criticize many theories as partial and one sided. "Every work of art follows the plan of and pattern of a complete experience, rendering it more intensely and concentratedly felt." By "experience" the author does not mean the casual recognition which the tired organism makes to save itself effort. His ideal is something far more organized, final, and complete.

Many of his shrewdest comments occur along the way of some larger issue, and among these one may recall passages on the creation of art, sanely and definitly put. Equally sound is his belief in the abstract element in all art, his ideas on the function of the medium, his remarks on tradition and change, his sensitive appraisal of intervals, balance, and rhythm in design. The illustrations are chiefly concerned with two arts—literature, with an accent on the English romantic poets, wherein Mr. Dewey seems to have read, perhaps, a little too widely, and painting, where he follows, as he admits in his foreword, certain theories of Dr. Barnes. Throughout the expressive qualities of art are stressed and the merely imitative discredited, and this attitude, as well as many others, allies him with recent experimentation in modern art. He differs from its most rabid defenders, however, by his insistence on the wholeness of the esthetic experience and by his integration of this experience with society.

"Art Now" [Harcourt Brace], by Herbert Read, the liberal new editor of the most learned British review, The Burlington Magazine, is a brief, to the point account of recent tendencies. As far as I know it is the first book in English to take full note of the newer beliefs in spontaneity, intuition, and preconscious thinking which lie behind so much of post-war painting. The return to primitive ardor with the subsequent destruction of the last traces of Hellenistic realism is duly discussed, equipped with a philosophic tradition and illustrated with a number of exciting plates which will make Mr. Craven's critical hair rise in horror.

The volume is compact, yet broad, treating the German Expressionists as well as the French Purists and Surrealists. Exposing the psychological side of the movement, it is certain to annoy those slightly "old fashioned" moderns who persist in their belief that creation in art is carried on in a mental vacuum. At a recent exhibit I saw a perplexed gentleman standing before one of Survage's surrealist works muttering, "Color, line, form, design, space," all the litany which once greeted and seemed to explain the art of the "tribal deity," Cézanne. "Art Now" is decidedly for him and others so firmly ensconced in the post-impressionist tradition that they cannot comprehend what has happened since.

James Johnson Sweeney's group of three essays, published under the title of the first, "Plastic Redirections in Twentieth Century Painting" [University of Chicago Press], like "Art Now," is written to clarify the more difficult art of our own time. "The difficulties surrounding the enjoyment of a contemporary work of art never lie so much in the novelty that is a part of creation as in the fustian which makes the bulk of criticism," is Mr. Sweeney's theme, and he proceeds to develop a closely knit analysis of recent experimentation. Particularly in tracing the rise of the "abstract" [like most recent critics he feels the term is "gratuitous" and "misleading" and to prove his word quotes, among others, Picasso's excellent comment that "from the point of view of art there are no concrete or abstract forms, but only interpreters more or less conventional"], and in exposing the philosophy behind it he is better informed than Prof. Read and a good deal more cogent.

Starting with the artist's reaction against the degenerate impressionism of Monet, the essay examines with careful attention those various influences which have made twentieth century art and reëvaluates, in a remarkably convincing way, the contributions of such masters as Cézanne, Seurat, Gauguin, and Henri Rousseau, emphasizing, for the first time in English, the exact rôle which the primitive played in the evolution.

The second chapter, "From This Side of 'Cubism,'" amplifies the first, while the third, "Superrealism," is the perfect answer to the question which has harassed lecturers, writers, and artists since 1925. "What is that new movement called Surrealism?" and I suggest that a copy of the book, laid open at page sixty-seven, be placed in the hands of all those who want to know. "The work of art speaks for itself, but the critic's duty is to hold the observer's or reader's attention to the work of art, while assisting him to place it historically and environmentally," writes Mr. Sweeney, and shows the debt of Superrealism to Futurism and Dada, which in turn was crossed by strains of Cubism. Not only is the reconstruction in itself a brilliant affair, but in passing he succeeds in elucidating the positive side of Dada, a movement which to me has always seemed a negative and futile gesture.

Enough has been said to show that the volume must be read by any one who wants to dip beneath the superficial chatter of galleries and studios to discover the seriousness of modern masters like Braque, Picasso, and Léger, or their later contemporaries in fantasy, Dali, Max Ernst, and Joan Miró. Books on modern art are too often dilute, obscure, or feverish. Mr. Sweeney has written one that is packed with original thought, clear in its expression, and level in its judgments.

"Plastic Redirections in Twentieth Century Painting" is the first in a series of "Studies of Meaning in Art," published for the Renaissance Society of the University of Chicago.

Sees Religious Weakness as Cause of Literary Weakness

The three Page-Barbour lectures which T. S. Eliot delivered at the University of Virginia last year have been gathered into a small volume with the title "After Strange Gods" [Harcourt-Brace]. In them the American idol of young English poets maintains that the weakness of modern literature, indicative of the weakness of the modern world in general, is a religious weakness.

Mystery of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

This has been a thin year for detective story readers. Instead of the usual summer flood a drouth, like that in the middle west, seems to have set in and I have been put to it to find one really good mystery to recommend each week.

Now suddenly and at one fell swoop comes what the publisher, Appleton-Century calls "The Tired Business Man's Library." It is a series of fifteen books of adventure, detection and mystery and among the authors are such well known names as Octavus Roy Cohen, Talbot Mundy, Clifton Robbins, Babette Hughes.

The Cohen offering is a series of short stories revealing the activities of that most inactive of fat detectives, Jim Hanvey, who invariably gets his man. The heroes of the stories are real heroes in that they are all reformed crooks whose past has risen up to smite them. Hanvey rescues them and neatly reroutes them on their upward way. "Scrambled Yeggs" is what he aptly calls the volume.

Another good one is "Death and the Dowager" by Bertrand Huber. The murderer is a man so disagreeable that you are glad to get him early out of the way. The plot unfolds in a lordly castle on the Isle of Wight, and the highest aristocracy is involved. A very nice new detective called Braddish is sent down by Scotland Yard and the local constable, Smoot, who assists in unraveling a pretty snarl, is smart and funny. I hope they will meet again in some other books.

"Smash and Grab" by Clifton Robbins is another story of English crime in which it is intimated that all that the English gangster knows of his art comes straight from the U. S. A. with Chicago as a center.

The range of the fifteen books covers all periods and countries and no business man, tired or otherwise, could do better than to range them on a convenient table and browse along through them. They ought to last him nicely through a two weeks' vacation and furnish a change of thought on each succeeding day.

Russell Will Describe Fight for Freedom

Uses Century Ending in 1914 for His Topic.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—The coming autumn season will see quite a spate of books dealing with various aspects of modern history, from Sir J. A. R. Marriott's orthodox survey of England since 1885 [Methuen] to "News from the Past," which is a collection of extracts and illustrations from English newspapers from 1805 to 1837, made by Yvonne French [Gollancz], with "An Outline History of England in Europe," by Mrs. H. A. L. Fisher [wife of an ex-minister for education], and "An Outline of European History," edited by J. Hampden Jackson [both Gollancz].

But the most important of all of them is Bertrand Russell's "Freedom vs. Organization, 1814-1914" [Allen & Unwin]. This last will not be ready until late in the year, but it is to be a rich and comprehensive work, written by a philosopher whose grasp of history and of political ideas will be as far as possible from the glib skimble-skamble of the man who writes without thinking.

Mr. Russell has an original mind and he is fearless. His book may not please everybody, and it may be open to serious criticism [that remains to be seen]; but it will, without any doubt at all, be a book. Probably one of the most important English books of the year, and possibly a landmark for the intelligent.

At the moment all bookish London is talking about the exposure of first edition fakes and forgeries which has been published under the title of "An Enquiry Into the Nature of Certain Nineteenth Century Pamphlets" [Constable]. Some of the material for this book is familiar to bibliographers of acumen; but the authors have given it a romantic quality by their Sherlock Holmesian skill. The result is both a work of great importance to collectors and a delightfully readable book for all who wish to know how first editions are faked.

The authors are two young men, both enthusiasts, named John Carter and Graham Pollard; and one of them manages the book selling business founded by Francis Birrell and David Garnett [and carried on under their names], while the other is in the London office of Scribners.

In October Dr. Inge, known to all English newspaper readers as "the Gloomy Dean," will retire from his post as dean of St. Paul's, and he will celebrate this retirement by the publication of a small book of memories and reflections upon life as he has found it since his school days.

The book will be called "Vale" [Longmans]. The dean is going to live in the country for the rest of his life [he is 74], in what we all hope will be fruitful contemplation. He is not at all a gloomy man, but an exceedingly adroit speaker, whose deafness has always enabled him to ignore what was said by others; and while his manner is at times brusque, he has never failed to appreciate originality and ability in his most ardent opponents. This is a sign of quality, and is rare in those who argue.

Head of English Espionage Writes of Work in War

"All's Fair" [Putnams], by Capt. Henry Landau, tells one of the most thrilling stories in history, the story of the two thousand secret service operatives behind the German lines during the great war. The author was in charge of all the British operations in that field, and now for the first time those of us on the outside can know exactly what information was sought, how it was obtained, and how it was relayed ultimately to the allied general headquarters.

PACT WITH CUBA CUTTING DUTIES IS PROCLAIMED

Tarif on Sugar Reduced as Concession.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt late today proclaimed the reciprocal trade treaty with Cuba which greatly slashes tarif duties on products of both countries. The treaty, first of a series of trading agreements the administration hopes to negotiate under the reciprocal trade act of June 12, 1934, was concluded this afternoon by officials of the state department and representatives of Cuba.

The principal concession made by the United States to Cuba is a reduction in the duty on her cane sugar from 1½ cents to 9-10 of a cent a pound. American sugar interests had been fearful that the government would cut the duty in half.

Cuba's chief concession to the United States was a reduction in the duty on hog lard from $9.18 per hundred pounds to $2.73, and by Sept. 3, 1936, to $1.45 a hundred.

Commerce Shows Decline.

A statement issued by the state department said that although the treaty was negotiated under the reciprocal trade act, it stood, nevertheless, in a separate category because of geographical propinquity and historical considerations. The statement declared that Cuban imports from the United States declined from a value of $191,571,000 in 1924 to $23,674,000 in 1933. Exports to the United States declined from $362,265,000 to $57,112,000 in the same period.

"In recognizing that the movement of goods has been seriously obstructed by tarif barriers," the statement continued, "the two countries have agreed to make substantial adjustments, which, without dislocating existing productive forces, will facilitate the sale of more American goods in Cuba and more Cuban goods in the United States. It is mutually advantageous."

Effective in Ten Days.

The treaty was signed on behalf of the state department by Secretary Cordell Hull, Assistant Secretary Sumner Welles, and Jefferson Caffery, United States ambassador to Cuba. Representatives of Cuba who signed the document were Secretary of State Cosme de la Torriente and Marquez Sterling, Cuban ambassador to the United States. President Roosevelt proclaimed the treaty immediately after receiving it and it becomes effective ten days after proclamation.

The state department explained that the reduction in the rate on Cuban cane sugar does not affect the present quota of 1,902,000 short tons allotted under the Costigan-Jones sugar act, which Cuba may not exceed. Cuba's export of sugar to the United States in 1933 was 1,495,992 short tons, and in 1924 it was 3,163,054 short tons.

Rum Duty Is Lowered.

In addition to the sugar concession the United States lowered the duty on Cuban rum from $4 to $2.50 a gallon, limited the total of all classes of tobacco imports to 18 per cent of the total quantity of tobacco used in the United States for making cigars during the previous year, and reduced the duties on tobacco and cigars. Wrapper tobacco is reduced from $1.90 to $1.50 a pound, filler tobacco, unstemmed, from 28 to 17½ cents a pound, filler tobacco, stemmed, from 40 to 25 cents, scrap tobacco from 24 cents to 17½ cents a pound, and cigars from $2.80 a pound plus 20 per cent ad valorem to $2.25 plus 12½ per cent ad valorem.

Moreover, there are certain reductions on Cuban fruits and vegetables which apply in seasons when they are not ready for marketing in this country.

Concessions obtained for American exporters included both reductions in certain import duties and increases in preference, the higher preference, when applied to the existing general rate, producing a lower preferential rate to the United States. Cuba also agrees to reduce internal taxes on certain American products, which, in many cases, have constituted a greater trade obstacle than the tarif duties.

Consumption Tax Lifted.

In addition to the decrease in the lard rate from $9.18 to $2.73, Cuba agrees to remove the $1 consumption tax per hundred pounds. The rates on crude cottonseed, corn and soya bean oil are reduced from $4.86 per hundred pounds to 88 cents. The preference on the crude product is increased to 35 per cent and on the refined to 30 per cent.

Cuba removes the consumption tax of 35 cents a hundred pounds on wheat flour, effective Sept. 3, 1936, which will make a rate of 41 cents to the United States. In addition Cuba increases the preference from 30 to 40 per cent on flour milled entirely from United States wheat, which will make a rate of 35 cents.

There are substantial reductions on American pork products other than lard, including a cut from $8.72 to $5.45 per hundred pounds on cured or smoked hams and shoulders; the rate of $1.81 a hundred on American potatoes was cut in half. There are certain preferential increases on American textiles and rate reductions on machinery and automobiles. The rate for automobiles with a factory list price of less than $750 is reduced from 24 per cent to 12 per cent ad valorem. Other reductions apply to iron, steel, copper, and other metals, certain types of lumber, paper, and cardboard products, glassware, paint, and miscellaneous items.

ILLINOIS RELIEF CHIEFS REJECT DENTAL PROGRAM

Sexton, Society Officers Clash on Control.

In a meeting enlivened by verbal clashes between Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton and representatives of the Chicago Dental society and the Illinois State Dental society, the Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday refused to approve the new program of dental care for indigents which would increase the taxpayers' burden by an estimated $200,000 a year and permit the private organizations to "run the show."

The controversy began when Mr. Sexton, a member of the commission, objected to the insertion of a sentence in the plan reading: "The commission agrees that no appointment to this service shall be made of any person who is adversely recommended by the local dental advisory committee."

Sexton Raises Objection.

"I don't see why we should be spending all this public money," said the corporation counsel, "and then turn around and have the men you recommend appointed. We want a man who will be our man and nobody else's man."

"I'm a taxpayer, too, Mr. Sexton," replied Attorney Harry E. Kelly, counsel for the Chicago Dental society.

"But you're not here representing the taxpayers," Mr. Sexton told him.

Attorney Kelly then resorted to a federal pamphlet of general instructions for medical and dental relief, and said if committed the state relief commission to "preserve and protect the dental profession."

"To state it the other way," Mr. Sexton objected, "the man we might want to appoint could be the most prominent dentist and if he were not a member of your society you would not approve the appointment."

Mr. Kelly said then that personally he would admit the objection was valid.

"What is the membership of your society?" Mr. Sexton asked.

"It's 60 per cent of the dentists," said Dr. Harold W. Oppice, chairman of the committee on public welfare of the state society. "We made that provision to keep out the charlatans. We believe we are the only society able to say who they are in the profession."

Corporation Counsel Sexton reminded him sharply that "we know the story of Dr. Louis E. Schmidt and Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, and the Chicago Medical society." He referred to the ouster of Dr. Schmidt from that organization, as the result of a controversy said to involve low cost medical care, and the resignation of Dr. Bundesen, who is president of the city board of health.

"This plan absolutely shuts the door to those you say can't afford to belong to the societies," said Acting Chairman Omar H. Wright of the commission. "It looks to me like a question of whether we're going to run the show, or you're going to run the show."

Tells of Free Service.

Dr. Stanley D. Tylman, president of the Chicago Dental society, arose in defense of the proposed program. He began to review the history of dental relief for the unemployed, stating the dental society members had contributed $500,000 worth of their services in the past.

"Please don't state again what we've already been over twice," said Mr. Sexton, cutting him short.

Dr. Tylman, however, continued to speak on this subject, despite several interruptions from the corporation counsel.

"You're not running this commission!" Mr. Sexton finally told him. "You can run your dental society, but you can't run this commission!"

Revise Disputed Phrase.

After the society president took his seat, a motion was made and carried unanimously to revise the language of the disputed phrase to the effect that representatives of the private organizations would be given no more than an "opportunity" to have their objections to appointments heard. The dental representatives promised to seek the approval of their societies on this point, and further discussion was deferred until the next meeting of the relief commission Aug. 31.

Examples of the increased prices under the proposed new program are: X-ray of all teeth, $4, as against $1.25; full sets of false teeth, both upper and lower, $46 as against $15.50; copper cement fillings, $1, as compared with 25 cents each, and synthetic porcelain fillings, $2, in contrast with the former charge of 75 cents.

Recently, after Dr. Tylman's election as president of the society, Dr. M. D. K. Bremner ousted as director of the examination and extraction clinic paid for by the commission and controled by the society.

Rare Farm Crops.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Aug. 24, 1934.

Rare crops are telling their own stories at the Tribune Experimental Farm near Yorkville, Ill.—some good, some bad. Some of the crops have succeeded in producing a fair yield even in 1934, one of the dryest years in the history of Illinois. Each crop teaches an object lesson. Farmers who visit the farm are being introduced to many new crops, some they have never seen growing in this part of the country before.

Hungarian millet has interested many visitors at the farm this summer. It survived the drouth and the first brood of chinch bugs. It showed promise of producing a good seed crop, even in an unusually dry season, until the second brood of chinch bugs appeared. The pests have almost killed the millet grown on the test plots near the farm headquarters. But Clarence Thurow has found out many interesting and valuable things about Hungarian millet and plans to plant a good sized field of it next year.

The test this year indicates that farmers in this part of the country may plant the crop with a reasonable assurance that it will produce a good forage even if there is a drouth and chinch bugs are present as they have been for the last two seasons. Observations reveal that Hungarian millet will produce a fine roughage crop when sown with a mixture or rape. Rape is not attacked by chinch bugs. The combination of these two crops make a tasty feed for live stock.

Next year the Tribune farm manager expects to sow a mixture of Hungarian millet and a small amount of Dwarf Essex rape and graze the mixture down with live stock before chinch bugs come along and kill the crop. He will not attempt to grow this millet for seed as long as he has chinch bugs to deal with. This year the first brood of the pests remained in the small grain and did not invade the Hungarian millet. The crop on the test plots thrived until the second or late brood of chinch bugs hatched out and began sucking the life out of the plants. At first the plants showed they were quite resistant to the bugs, but the pests came in such large numbers that the millet finally wilted and turned brown.

Despite the attacks of the pests the Hungarian millet heads are five to six inches long and have seed of fair quality. Most of the leaves, however, are dead. Under the plan that will be followed next year millet will be grazed down when the plants are about a foot high. The seeding will be done about the middle of May. This will furnish pasture by the middle of July, or perhaps within six weeks after planted, according to this season's experience. Some of the Hungarian millet plants at the farm have reached a height of thirty-six inches. No doubt a much better crop could be produced under more favorable weather conditions.

Today Dwarf Essex rape, growing in the test plots, is about twenty inches high. The rape plants not only resist attacks of chinch bugs but furnish an abundance of shade which is disliked by the pests. It is considered a good companion crop to mix in with Hungarian millet where the crops are to be used for grazing purposes.

LOUISIANA HEARS LONG PLANS TO IMPEACH JUDGES

Would Convene New Session of Solons.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Louisiana seethed today with an unconfirmed report that Senator Huey P. Long plans to call another special session of the legislature. This session would have as its aim the starting of impeachment proceedings against three New Orleans judges who held the commanders of state troops in contempt of court after they had been ordered by the courts to disband their forces.

Long laughed at the courts and maintains his troops in the registrar's office here. The adjutant general remains unserved on charges of contempt by continually remaining in hiding surrounded by heavy guards.

Long "Don't Know Nothin'."

In Baton Rouge, when asked about a special session of the legislature Gov. O. K. Allen said:

"We could get the legislature here in a hurry if we wanted to. It wouldn't take long to attend to the cases of certain judges."

Senator Long said:

"Don't ask me. I don't know nothin'. I'm just a United States senator. It takes all my time to keep things going up there."

In the meantime it is reported that at the legislative inquiry into the affairs of the city of New Orleans, evidence will not be lacking that vice pays for protection in this city. It is understood that several of the leading gamblers have been in conference with Senator Long and have furnished him with evidence which he deems sufficient to bring about a political upheaval, even to the ousting of the present city government.

Long's enemies, however, are unable to proceed against the two parishes controled by the senator, where gambling is now again wide open and all kinds of vice is flourishing.

U. S. Begins Oil Lease Quiz.

In addition to the grand jury inquiry into the alleged evasion of income taxes by Senator Long and some of his leaders, the United States government today at Washington started an inquiry into certain oil leases that have been made in Louisiana.

The inquiry is aimed at the Leesville field in which the Lincoln Oil company holds leases on large areas of state owned land. It is charged by the government that these leases have been so juggled that the Lincoln Oil company has been favored above all others. It is charged that many state administration leaders and officials are interested in the Lincoln Oil company.

SEES HER FATHER FOR FIRST TIME AFTER 26 YEARS

Mrs. Marie Ramsey, 26 years old, who operates a taxicab business in Elizabethton, Tenn., saw her father for the first time yesterday. Here to visit the World's Fair, she learned from relatives that her parent, Mack Goodwin, 47 years old, a farmer, was living in Crete.

Mrs. Ramsey drove to the little town south of Chicago in the taxicab in which she brought seven girls with her to see the Exposition. Goodwin admitted her to the house and stared at her without recognition until she announced she was his daughter. "Of course, I can see the resemblance," he shouted then, and proceeded to introduce her to several of his ten other children by his second marriage.

Goodwin said that he lived in Chicago for a short time with his first wife, Mrs. Bonnie Goodwin, before she returned to her home town in Elizabethton. Mrs. Ramsey, the only child of their union, was born soon afterward, where the mother still lives. The Goodwins were divorced in 1911 and only a few letters have been exchanged since then.

Police charged that Mrs. Burger had persuaded her 6 year old daughter, Theresa, to steal $36 from the till of a beauty shop while the mother was having her hair dressed.

PERMANENT NRA IS PIGEONHOLED BY ROOSEVELT

Plans New Temporary Setup in 3 Weeks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.] — President Roosevelt today shoved back into the indefinite future the troublesome question of planning a permanent NRA. At the same time the President disclosed that a new interim organization, designed to function until congress enacts a permanent setup, will be decided on within the next two or three weeks.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, chief of the NRA, will, in the meantime, remain as recovery administrator, Mr. Roosevelt said emphatically. The general will be relieved of detailed work, but he will continue to be the supreme officer of the NRA, the President averred.

No Final Decision.

Present White House discussions on shaking up the NRA are obviously aimed at whipping into shape a permanent industrial recovery law which will supplant the NRA on its expiration date, June 16. No final decision on what features of the Blue Eagle régime should be retained as fixtures has been reached by the President and his advisers.

Mr. Roosevelt suggested that some of the points which may be kept in the permanent organization are abolition of child labor, abolition of some unfair practices, and maximum hour stiplations. He called these three things noncontroversial aspects of the NRA.

On the much criticized question of price fixing under a permanent recovery administration there is as yet no agreement. The President admitted that his advisers have been unable thus far to fit price fixing and the anti-trust laws together.

Permanent Law by January.

Within the next two or three months, or certainly before congress meets in January, the President hopes to have the permanent law drafted. Meanwhile, the NRA, as such, will continue to function under an interim organization.

Details of this temporary setup are to be decided when Gen. Johnson visits the President's Hyde Park home for conferences some time within the next two or three weeks. It is expected that the interim organization will be under a board of directors with Johnson as its presiding officer.

The President partially verified this report when he explained that Johnson was most emphatically to remain as recovery administrator but is to be given greater freedom from routine work.

Johnson, Richberg Confer.

Johnson and Donald R. Richberg, general counsel of the NRA, conferred with the President again today on making over the recovery machinery. Johnson interrupted a vacation at Bethany Beach, Del., to return for the conference by airplane, but he departed for the seaside resort again shortly after the White House session.

The recovery administrator was again in high spirits, joking and insisting that all is peace and harmony in the NRA. He laughed at reports that he was resigning.

Jailed for Toting Gun, Youth Gets Year in Jail

ARTHUR W. CUTTEN AND 7 ON GOLD COAST ARE SUED FOR TAXES

Eight additional residents of the Gold Coast and other fashionable localities were sued yesterday for a total of $39,131 in 1932 personal property taxes the state's attorney's office alleges are unpaid. Thus far 41 similar suits, seeking collection of $176,473 in delinquent taxes owed by prominent defendants, have been filed in the Circuit court, where tax suits are being brought at the rate of more than 50 a day.

ARTHUR W. CUTTEN

Arthur W. Cutten, 209 Lake Shore drive, wealthy capitalist and one of America's leading grain traders, owes the largest amount sought in yesterday's suits, according to the bill, which alleges his $13,103 personal property tax bill for 1932 has not been settled.

Second on the list is James E. Bistor, 219 Lake Shore drive, former president of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, a "tax strike" organization which in 1932 lost a court battle to invalidate realty assessments. Bistor owes $8,735 in personalty taxes for 1932, one bill charges.

The other six, and the amounts allegedly owed by them are: Fred H. Bartlett, 33 West Washington street, $4,367; Albert Mayer, 179 Lake Shore drive, $5,459; J. T. McCarthy, 1209 Astor street, $2,664; Maurice L. Rothschild, who lives at the Drake hotel, $2,183, and Clarence T. Seipp, 232 East Walton place, and Hugh McLennan, 219 Lake Shore drive, both of whom are sued for $1,310.

BRITISH TO BUILD 'POCKET' WARSHIP TO DEFEND COAST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The plan for a pocket battleship modeled after the style of Germany's Deutschland has been approved by the constructional department of the admiralty. It is understood work will be started on the vessel as soon as possible.

The dimensions of the new vessel will be unique in the British navy. Her tonnage will be 10,000, like that of the German warships of the same class. Thereafter all comparison ends. The British battleship will be 660 feet long or fifty feet longer than the Deutschland. The beam will be 74 feet and the draught 21 feet.

Carries Bigger Guns.

While the German pocket battleship's capital armament consists of only 11-inch guns, the British ship will have six 12-inch, four 11-inch and six 6-inch guns, as well as 25 machine guns in turrets above the water line. The vessel thus exceeds the armaments of the German ships, and in action would have the advantage of nearly three miles' range superiority with her large guns.

The engine power is derived from eight sets of Diesel engines developing 8,000 horse power, permitting a speed of 28 knots without "driving" the vessel. The Deutschland can attain a speed of 25 knots. Both vessels have a cruising range of 10,000 miles, but the projected British ship will be able to keep up a steady 25 knots on the long run, as against the German's capacity for 20 knots.

Tonnage has been economized to keep within the 10,000 tons by carefully distributing heavy armor plating over vital spots alone. Besides, the British claim to have a new method of hardening steel which permits a lighter plating to be used with adequate resisting power.

Guided by War Experiences.

In deciding to build a vessel of this type and caliber, the naval authorities are said to have been guided by the experiences in the world war. Then, despite the 60 per cent superiority of British sea power over German, the kaiser's cruisers were able to shell Hartlepool, Scarborough, and Yarmouth, while German destroyers raided Kentish coasts with comparative immunity.

The building of the German pocket battleship with its 11-inch guns and high speed has accentuated this danger in the eyes of Britain. Her answer has been to lay down plans for similar ships, more powerfully armed and capable of outgunning and outpacing a world-be raider. The admiralty feels that though the damage by shelling was insignificant during the war, it did much to lower the morale of the people and shake the faith in the British navy's capacity to perform its first and supreme duty—the guarding of the island shores.

NEW BEACH CAST UP IN TRINIDAD AFTER EARTH MOVEMENT

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The earth moved mysteriously here today, and suddenly Trinidad's south coast had 300 feet of new beach.

Inland, however, nature took compensation for her generosity. The earth sank in serried furrows, presenting the appearance of plowed fields. Trees tipped and leaned at odd, drunken angles.

The phenomenon—credited by authorities to gas pressure which, they believed, changed the earth's substructure—occurred between Chatham and Erin on Erin bay, 70 miles from Port of Spain. Access to the bay is difficult by land.

Strangely enough, out at sea just opposite the strip of cast up beach is the spot where an island rose mysteriously from the sea in November, 1909, lingered a year and then dropped again into the deep as queerly as it had appeared.

I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed. —Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

AIR MAIL—BEFORE AND AFTER.

Aeronautics supply history with a kaleidoscopic effect. Aided by mail pay, miscalled a subsidy because the government realized substantial returns from the sale of air mail and special delivery stamps, transcontinental passenger service was inaugurated in 1926 on a thirty-one hour schedule, with three "fast" flights—seven and one-half hours—between New York and Chicago. By 1933 mail, passenger and express service had been expanded to a point where our air lines were flying a million miles per week on established routes. Night service had been made possible through completion by the department of commerce of beacon marked trails.

Then politics took a hand. A congressional committee subpenaed the operators of the infant industry to appear before it and from their testimony conceived the thought that political capital was available. From its report Mr. Farley found evidence of collusion, fraud, knavery and what not—he has stolidly refused to divulge the exact nature of the skullduggery—and ordered the army to fly the mails, canceling all contracts. After a series of shocking fatalities public opinion was so aroused that it was found expedient to restore temporary contracts to the private companies and the incident apparently was closed. The air lines continued their astonishing development. The flying time between New York and Chicago was cut to four hours and twenty-five minutes, hourly service was established, sleeper planes made their appearance, and, most recent of all, overnight transcontinental service with first one and then two scheduled flights.

But if we penetrate the veneer of the emergency air legislation we find that the mail service has been wrecked. To the east a very few of the slower flights carry mail. To the southeast and southwest air mail service is little better than rail because the planes arrive at their destinations in the late afternoon. Our trans-Kansas service has been discontinued altogether and the fast transcontinental flights do not carry mail at all. Passengers and express can be moved from coast to coast in sixteen hours, but the flying time of the mail is from two to eight hours longer. Western mail arriving at Chicago from the east on early morning flights lies idle in the postoffice for twelve hours, increasing the transit time for this section to a parity with rail service.

Coupled with government incompetence, the twenty-one conditions of the new act hover over the whole industry. If an air company is to carry mail it must subject itself to the jurisdiction of five separate commissions or regulatory bodies, each of which has been given sufficient power to destroy its efforts to serve the public.

GOVERNMENTS SHOULD NOT DISCRIMINATE.

Whatever may have been the experiences of the past, the AAA is entirely sold on the principle of improving the financial condition of the country through the destruction of the very necessities that create wealth—cotton, grain, and live stock. In the consummation of a program under this method of reasoning the farmers would be made to suffer for a national benefit. Therefore the nation's taxpayers should compensate them for any loss incurred during the course of the experiment. Their acres have a certain capacity for producing wealth. When this capacity is limited by government mandate they are to be paid for crops and live stock they do not raise.

But what of the railways? They also have investments in right of way, structures and rolling equipment to serve the agricultural sections. The capacity of this plant has been gauged as nearly as may be to carry the peak production of the territory. They are in pitiable condition, entirely due to lost volume of traffic, which the government proposes further to curtail. Why is it not logical to assume that they are fully entitled to government compensation for the live stock, grain, and cotton they did not haul in compliance with federal policies? Has not congress sharply discriminated against them in suggesting that they aid drouth stricken farm areas and the building industry through rate reductions on the one hand, while destroying prospective earnings considerably greater than the difference between their gross revenues and actual operating costs on the other?

Of course, we are aware that such action would start a vicious chain. Commission men would demand brokerage on farm products they do not handle. Elevators and stockyards would have an equally valid claim.

UNDERMINING AMERICAN LABOR.

No further proof is needed of the mischievous character of some of the current labor disturbances than the interference with the federal emergency relief workers in Wisconsin which is miscalled a strike.

In this instance there is and can be no labor principle involved. Those who stay at work take no jobs from men who have left them in a fight for a principle. Whether they quit or keep on working creates no question of fairness to other workmen.

Whether they are permitted to keep on working if they wish, however, creates a vital question to every person who has faith in the principle of law and order and a decent regard for the rights of others.

The projects were conceived and the jobs created solely to enable those who wished to avoid public charity to do useful work for the aid they received. Jobs were given to those who have been getting public help. The hours of work and the wages provide only a little more than the supplies which otherwise would be furnished without question if they chose to loaf rather than to labor.

The program is admittedly a substitute for a dole, a means of providing occupation for those unhappy at being charges on the community. No pressure has been put on any to get them off the relief lists and into the ranks of workers. It is most creditable that a large percentage of the idle responded at once to the chance to earn their daily needs.

The interference under pretense of a strike has been by men of a different stripe, those not only unwilling to work but who are seeking deliberately to add to the confusion and distress of an unhappy period of history. What they call a strike is nothing more than an opportunity for creating disorder and trouble.

In this the influence is apparent of politicians who have done their utmost to stimulate the unemployed into disorder. Potential riots are provoked by politicians who hope for selfish advantage in exciting hatred not only against the more fortunate but against all symbols of law and order.

The strikes in the industries have not been free from the suspicion that disorder and rioting were provoked by men outside the crafts involved, by Reds and representatives of political thought completely subversive of Americanism.

The threats against the men who maintain their pride and self-respect by laboring voluntarily for their needs are proof positive that there is an element in America seeking the overthrow of its standards of living and decency.

They apparently have found their best opportunity in identifying themselves with labor. The American Federation of Labor faces no greater task than the need to single out this element and make it harmless.

THE VOICE OF THE FOX VALLEY.

The Fox Valley Mirror has completed its first year under the able editorship of Mr. Leonard Fowler. There was need for such a publication and it has been met. The Fox valley from the lakes at the north to Ottawa on the Illinois is a geographical unit as rich in historical associations as in scenic beauty. A publication was needed which would remind the dwellers in the valley that they are the inheritors of a great pioneer tradition and trustees of as handsome a natural domain as this region affords.

If not throughout its length, then at least from Dundee south to Oswego, the valley is, for all practical purposes, an economic unit of great productive capacity. Its cities and towns are almost contiguous. Each of the more important communities has its newspaper, but there was need, in addition, for a publication which would speak for and to the whole valley, reminding the citizens that they had common interests to guard and forward. That need has been met, and ably met.

FUSION AGAINST REDS.

Encouraging news comes from Minneapolis that a citizens' organization has been formed to unite loyalist voters in Minnesota against the Farmer-Labor ticket headed by Gov. Olson. The new organization is called United Minnesota Voters, its object being to make up a fusion ticket which all opponents of the revolutionary program of the Farmer-Labor party will be invited to support at the November election.

This fusion should have been arranged between the Democratic and Republican party organizations, but the usual jealousies and ambitions of party politics overruled common sense and patriotism. The new organization, headed by a leading Democrat and a leading Republican, has broken this stalemate and we trust will be given the strong support of all Minnesotans, regardless of past party affiliation, who are opposed to abolishing American principles in their commonwealth and to turning over to politicians the private enterprise and a good part of the private property of the people of Minnesota. The scheme of confiscation put forward by Olson and his party shrewdly leaves the farmers out, for there are many farmers in Minnesota, but the United Voters should be able to show them that the confiscation of the property of their fellow citizens proposed by the Farmer-Labor political bosses and the establishment of politician management of industry and business in Minnesota would put a blight upon their own hopes of prosperity and progress as well as upon those of their fellow citizens of the towns and cities. If the farmers of Minnesota are informed upon what has happened to farmers under another coöperative commonwealth in Russia they will not adopt the Olson scheme, which is founded on the same fallacies and will produce the same unpleasant results.

[Rockford Register-Republic.]

Sales of new motor cars in Rockford showed an astonishing vitality against the customary July slump, being practically equal to the preceding month, although usually a sharp decline is shown.

Not only that, but there were 1,098 new cars sold in Rockford during the first seven months of 1934, compared to 735 for the same period of 1933. These are official registration figures.

The inference is obvious. The local response to improvement, as indicated by the most barometric of capital goods, shows a trend that carries encouragement. New automobiles are not purchased by people in want or even in serious doubt of their economic future.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE LINE: My first visit to the big city was in 1874 after I had completed my apprenticeship in the old Weekly Times office in Cedar Rapids, and it was a big event for me. Stopped at the Clifton hotel on Monroe street opposite the entrance to the Palmer house. Rates were $3 per day, including meals. That was before the owner of the old Windsor on South Dearborn closed that hostelry, purchased the Clifton and renamed it Windsor-Clifton.

The darky boy at the dining room hat rack was one of those memory wizards who took a casual look at you when you handed him your lid and never failed to return the right one when you were ready to leave. No tips were given or received.

High lights of that first trip to Chicago were a boat ride on the lake, visit to the water tower, and an evening at the old Academy of Music on the west side. The bright particular luminary there was Leona Dare on the high trapeze. At the impressionable age of 20 years she surely made a great hit with yours truly. Scotty.

Few boys and girls of the '70s had opportunities to travel. Many grew up without having been 10 miles from home. St. Joseph, Benton Harbor, and Milwaukee were not then excursion points and seemed very far from home.

Many of today's oldsters experienced their first railroad train ride at some lodge or Sunday school picnic to such places as Thatcher's Woods on the Des Plaines river, which had echoed the whistle blasts of Chicago's first locomotive—the Pioneer—or to Washington Heights, Des Plaines, Willow Springs or the old south parks, which in those days were natural woods with a good lake beach. The breakwater was made of strips of bark weighted down with large rocks. Wild crab apples and hazel nuts abounded there. Choice long rides were to groves on the Fox or Kankakee river.

About 1881 some enjoyed rides on the Chicago, Harlem and Batavia dummy, which consisted of a small locomotive and one car, running from the Madison street car terminus at 40th [Crawford] avenue out through the country to Oak Park and Harlem, now Forest Park. Another rural ride was on the Hyde Park steam dummy from Cottage Grove avenue and 39th street south to 55th and east to Lake avenue. Those trips were regarded as treats. Fred A. Ebersold.

After the first big snow of 1888 the popular pastime was for a party of 10 or 12 couples to rent a long bobsled drawn by four horses. The bed of the sled was filled with straw with plenty of robes on hand. Then for a two hour drive. Near its end the driver usually whipped up the steeds, took a sharp corner at full speed and managed to upset the party into the drifts. Great laughter and good nature. Then to some one's home for an oyster stew. Jim Waters.

LITTLE MAN.

Solemn at your playing as the evening softly falls,
Putting up your makeshift bridges and building high your walls,
Going on your searching quest with eyes so cleanly clear,
Puzzled by the grownup things you see and overhear.

Eileen Quinlan.

WELL, WE'RE GLAD NOT to be a love bird after reading of the bird, grieving for its mate, which was restored to cheerfulness by a mirror in its cage. Wouldn't it be disconcerting to work facing a mirror? But the use of the mirror which irritates us most is when the barber places it behind our head after finishing a haircut to show how well the job has been done. Now from the front enough of one's hair, even if graying, still remains for the semblance of parting. But that mirror at the rear! There's that bald spot just as sure as shooting. Why does one have to be reminded of it?

THE PREVAILING "CODE."

Harvey: My boss just came down and he looks very sad. His eyes, usually so merry and brown, are swollen and red, and they are filled with tears. His shoulders droop and he holds a handkerchief in his hand. He must have lost a dear friend, perhaps a relative. There goes the buzzer. I'll learn his great grief. It wasn't what I thought at all. This is what he dictated:

"Pursuad to our phode codversatiod ob yesterday, I wish to idforb you that by ledder ob the sebenteedth explaids the eddire siduatiod——kerchooooooo!"

THIS IS THE BIRTHDAY OF R. H. L., now at Nantucket looking out over 3,000 miles of water. Last year on this date we held a Birthday party for him. It was a surprise. Likewise a good time was had by all, for we were able to tell things about him which he could not, probably would not, tell about himself. He took it good naturedly, enjoyed it. In fact, it was such a success one naturally would expect it to be repeated. It isn't. That's where the surprise comes in this year. See the purpose? Well, if the same pinch hitter is called to service again next year, R. H. L. won't know whether or not he's to have a birthday party. So it will be something of a surprise either way.

THOSE KEYS AGAIN.

Harvey: When you started your pinch hitting you were having trouble with keys similar in appearance to unlock the door to the outer sanctum and related that you picked the wrong one seven of eight times. Then that chinquapin argument started and you failed to tell us whether you improved your average. If you didn't I have a suggestion to make. Take out what you think is the right key. Then drop it on the floor and use the other one. That will be the right one.

BEZOARS IN THE STOMACH.

DATING from the twelfth century numerous manuscript notes describe firm, indigestible masses recovered principally from the stomachs of animals. To these masses the term bezoar, signifying counter poison or antidote, was applied. For several centuries bezoars were highly prized as remedies against plague, pestilence, and various forms of poisoning, including the bite of a mad dog. In recent times they have occasionally been referred to as madstones.

The so-called madstone, to which superstition attaches great virtue, is usually nothing but a ball of hair or vegetable fiber that has become molded into a hard lump through contractions of the stomach wall. In some cases light deposits of mineral salts have aided the hardening process.

In human beings bezoars are reported as composed of hair, of indigestible plant substances, of shellac, and of certain chemicals. Ordinarily plant material is not retained by the stomach. Occasionally, however, tough fibers such as are found in coconuts, in persimmons, or in certain other plants are not digested, and may accumulate in the stomach and attain a size too large to pass through the stomach outlet.

Hair bezoars are probably the most common and occasionally follow the habit of chewing the ends of the hair and swallowing the particles. Furniture workers occasionally drink an alcoholic solution of shellac. The shellac is precipitated in the stomach and, because of its resinlike consistency, forms an indigestible mass.

There are several reports of persimmon bezoars found at operations undertaken for obscure stomach symptoms attended with pain. Donald Balfour collected from the literature fifteen cases of persimmon bezoar. In one of his own cases he removed a bezoar from a man 24 years old who had eaten rather freely of ripe persimmons a year earlier. The feeling of fullness in the stomach that followed this experience was not relieved until operation and removal of a mass that was bluish-black in color. It weighed approximately two ounces, was nearly spherical, and was composed of indigestible fibers and fragments of skin of the persimmon fruit.

One can readily understand how difficult it is for the stomach to thoroughly rid itself of loose hair by recalling the annoyance that may be experienced in expelling a wandering hair from the mouth. Hair particles that are swallowed in any appreciable quantity will, by the very nature of stomach contractions, accumulate and form a ball-like mass.

The stomach will stand a tremendous amount of abuse. In the case of the persimmon, although the fiber content is relatively low, yet the juices and pulp contain, according to Balfour, 14 per cent of gums and pectin. This latter substance is the material that leads to the jelling of fruit juices.

In most of the cases studied Balfour found that the muscle wall of the stomach was normal. He suggests that proper mastication, adequately mixing the fruit with saliva, or mixing the fruit with other food substances, will prevent persimmon bezoar formation.

BOWLEGS.

J. K. writes: How could I straighten bowlegs? I take many kinds of exercises, but this does not help. I am 13 years old.

REPLY.

You no doubt have had rickets, which is a food deficiency disease. You may not be able to straighten the legs entirely. A good bone surgeon can no doubt provide braces which, if worn for a few years, will greatly relieve the condition. You are young enough to secure a good result.

MAY BE A HERNIA.

Mrs. H. D. M. writes: My husband has a small lump, about the size of a walnut, in the lower part of the abdomen. Sometimes it is sore to the touch and sometimes he has what he calls a drawing pain and other times a shooting pain. The pain is not at all severe nor does he feel sick. He works all the time. He noticed the lump about a year ago.

REPLY.

This lump may be a hernia.

STARTING YOUNG.

P. L. writes: I am 16 years old and have started smoking a pipe. Can this affect my health in any way?

REPLY.

You are rather young to begin using a pipe, although many college boys take to this style of fumigation. The bad effect of tobacco lies entirely in the excess amount that is sometimes used. Too much affects growth.

HAVE TEST MADE.

N. B. S. writes: Do you think that ovarian tablets would help a young woman in her early twenties who is very nervous, irritable, and restless?

REPLY.

No, in the event the menstrual periods are normal. Have a metabolism test made. The nervousness may be due to a toxic thyroid.

BANK LIQUIDATION.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—[Friend of the People.]—I had nearly $700 on deposit in the Reliance Bank and Trust company when it closed. The statement printed recently in your paper shows that nearly $33 out of every $100 on deposit seems to have been classed as preferred and secured claims and paid back to depositors. Just what are preferred and secured claims? Why should part of the depositors get their money ahead of the rest? Wasn't our money the same and deposited under the same conditions? A little light on this seeming legal robbery would be appreciated. M. L. R.

Please be advised that our explanation is as follows: Preferred and secured claims paid are for the most part made up of the following: Bills payable, $1,118,436.69; trusts, $130,800.13. The remainder is used for the payment of sundry preferred claims authorized by court order. At the present time the balance due on bills payable is $237,000.00, and for security to this a great many of the better assets of the bank still remain pledged. Upon the payment of the above mentioned bills payable future liquidation will be available to the depositors.

SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

Decorah, Ia., Aug. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—B owned 100 acres of land with two mortgages on it. The first mortgage is $2,000 more than the land is appraised for. Second mortgage is $1,000. She had not lived on farm for ten years. She had no personal property at the time of her death. 1. Must lawyer for B's estate and administrator sell property to pay off debts against estate? 2. Lawyer for estate has prolonged settlement just to collect $150 from A, who owes estate that sum. A is a laborer and hasn't worked for some time. In these circumstances shouldn't lawyer close estate? 3. Heirs of B haven't heard from insurance company holding mortgage. Should heirs write them telling they wish to abandon property? 4. If heirs do not write and insurance company does not foreclose, can it hold heirs for any further debts? 5. If lawyer for estate forces sale, does insurance company usually bid in? 6. Lawyer tells heirs they must sell land to pay debts. Are debts of estate paid first? 7. If heirs notify insurance company they wish to abandon land and write lawyer to close it now, would that stop sale of land? 8. Would you advise heirs to do this? 9. If land is sold, can administrator buy land cheap? 10. Does man owning second mortgage lose his money? 11. Are heirs supposed to tell lawyer for estate when to close it? 12. If heirs do not wish land sold at auction, can they ask lawyer not to sell it?

S. E.

1. We see no object in selling the property to pay debts if there is no equity.
2. The lawyer is in a better position to say than we are.
3. We see no objection to this.
4. The heirs would not become liable on the mortgage unless they expressly assumed it, if that is what you mean to ask.
5. If only the equity is being sold to pay debts, so that the mortgage would follow the property into the hands of the purchaser, we see no reason why the mortgage holder should do anything about the sale.
6. Yes.
7. We see no reason why the lawyer should be considering proceedings to sell the real estate to pay debts unless he disagrees with you on some of the facts stated in your present letter. We are not in position to pass upon the facts.
8. We would advise them to get the facts.
9. If the land is worth less than the mortgage, then presumably there would be no bidders at the sale, and if any one wished to make a bid, however small, his bid would win.
10. A second mortgage is wiped out by foreclosure of the first mortgage if there is no redemption.
11. The administrator should, of his own volition, close the estate in due course.
12. Of course they can ask him.

From Across the Sea

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—First steps have been taken to set up the vast machinery—with its 6,000 employes—that will carry out the work of the new unemployment assistance board, the chairman of which is Sir Henry Betterton, former minister of labor.

More than 16,000,000 persons will come within the scope of the board, which is to be responsible for the administration of what is now known as transitional payment. This payment is made to a person whose ordinary unemployment relief has expired and who can prove that he has no means of subsistance. The board will also deal with relief of the able-bodied unemployed who at present come under the poor law authorities. This applies to a person who has exhausted both unemployment relief and transitional relief. In such a case food and clothing is provided, and in some special cases small sums of money.

The work to be transferred to the board represents an expenditure of $250,000,000 a year.

To accomplish its huge task the body will have, in addition to a headquarters staf of 300 in London, stafs in some two dozen provincial towns. These, in turn, will control about 250 area offices.

The districts will be in London, Birmingham, Bristol, Cardiff, Carlisle, Dundee, Durham, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Hanley, Inverness, Leeds, Liverpool, Manchester, Middlesborough, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Newport, Monmouthshire, Norwich, Nottingham, Preston, Reading, Sheffield, Swansea, Wrexham, and possibly other places.

In addition to working through district and area offices, the board contemplates arranging with local authorities to act as its agents in rural and sparsely populated areas.

FRIED CHICKEN DEPARTMENT.

Libertyville, Ill., Aug. 23.—Even my milk-fed chickens, doomed to get it in the neck at an early date, cackled derisively at the criticism Fannie Patz hurled at Mr. McCutcheon's recipe for fried chicken.

I operate a restaurant, specializing in fried chicken dinners, and for four years I have cooked chicken a la McCutcheon. Many real connoisseurs of good food have informed me that neither in the south nor abroad have they tasted such delicious chicken.

With this in mind I cannot afford to let Fannie's claim to superiority go unchallenged, and I hereby invite her to meet me in a fried chicken contest. This could be staged, say at A Century of Progress, with the outcome to be decided by competent, impartial judges.

What say, Fannie?

D. H. Holmes.

Dubnque, Ia., Aug. 23.—So many people seem to be interested in the proper preparation of fried chicken that I have decided to divulge a secret that I have kept for years. It is necessary to start the day before by securing a porterhouse steak about 1½ pounds and a piece of suet about as large as a medium sized orange. Slice and slowly render the suet till crisp. Remove the cracklings from the pan and fry the steak to suit the diner, then add a tablespoonful of butter and turn the steak twice before serving. Don't make pan gravy. Cover the skillet and set aside for the following day when the chicken is to be fried. Joint the chicken, wash it carefully and dry with a clean towel, of course. Roll lightly in flour and fry in the residue of the steak drippings. You will have fried chicken that will surpass anything you have tasted in your life time before.

I rarely fry chicken this way because I do not wish to be annoyed by having my friends tagging me around and insisting that I fry some more.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Sunday we were sitting in the back of our Ford going to Rockford and, looking over The Tribune, we were fascinated by the Fried Chicken cartoon.

After we arrived at the farm home of our friends we started to help with the dinner preparations, and our hostess asked us to pick over some spring chickens she had cut up and had lying in salt water for about two hours. Then she took over the task of frying the chickens, and, after browning them on top of the large cook stove, the kind most farm houses have, she placed the pieces in a covered roaster and put them in the oven for an hour.

Yum! Yum! Was that the wonderful meal, and positively the most delicious fried chicken I ever ate!

After dinner we showed the cartoon to our friend, and she was surprised, for she had been preparing chicken that way for years. Irene Liberty.

AND WENT RIGHT ON.

South Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 22.—Defenders of the New Deal usually reply to criticism which they can't meet with the taunt: What would you suggest in its place?

Hence the following parable is in point. Once there was a very sick man. The quack doctor who was attending him kept feeding him a slow poison. The patient rapidly got no better. Some friends who, not being doctors themselves, didn't know what to prescribe, but who did know slow poison when they saw it, and who could clearly discern its effect upon the patient, raised a howl against the quack doctor and his crazy prescription. But the quack doctor silenced them with the taunt: Unless you have something better to suggest, shut up. And went right on killing the patient. Ralph Milne Farley.

WE TRUST NOT.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 21.—Would the Chicago policeman who parked the squad car behind the box cars on Diversey parkway, beyond the Stewart-Warner building, on the evening of Saturday, Aug. 18, and went up the North Western train tracks with a girl, and sat down in a spot where he could not be seen, tell us what he was up to, instead of being on duty? Stanley Chisley.

STUTTERING IN THE MOVIES.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Those who are seeking to clean up the movies ought not to overlook the stuttering comedian. Before and after overcoming an impediment in my speech I have come in personal contact with hundreds of stammerers and can fully appreciate their disgust and humiliation when forced to sit through a picture and listen to the laughter provoked by this low form of comedy. Children and grownups, in an attempt to be funny, often imitate screen characters. As mimicry is the cause of many cases of stammering, parents should be warned of this before allowing their children to see a show featuring a stuttering actor.

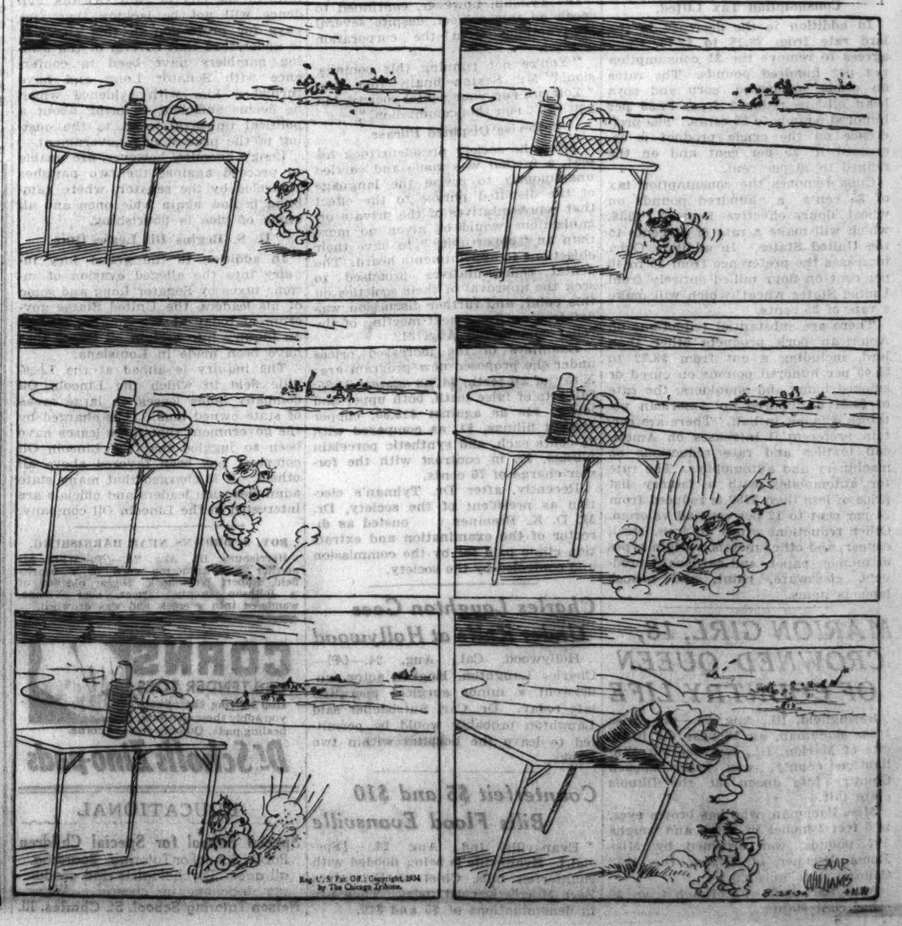
Albert C. Ma[illegible]ns.

FOR A PERMANENT FAIR.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—When the Chicago World's Fair can draw more than 86,000 people through its gates on a dark, dreary and rainy day like last Wednesday, Aug. 15, it is time to consider seriously the necessity of making this into a permanent exposition.

This is the brightest, most optimistic and cheerful spot on earth today, and as a result of its popularity the city of Chicago has become the nation's playground. To destroy this wonder of wonders after the close of this season would be a national as well as a local calamity. It's the greatest show on earth and should be continued and made permanent. A. Bogstad.

ZIPPER



That the Public May Know!

GENERAL JOHNSON has ordered the removal of the Blue Eagle from our buses. We have complied with his order.

The Blue Eagle has been of no benefit to us. It has increased our costs. It has not increased our business. It has reduced the wages in the weekly envelopes of the older employes, although we restored the 1929 rate of pay last October. It has not protected us against acts of violence of professional labor organizers. It has brought only headaches, heartaches, discouragements, and disillusionment.

The issue is very simple. The National Labor Relations Board ordered us to reinstate 25 employes, claiming they were discharged because they joined an outside professional labor union.

These 25 men were discharged because they were dangerous and incompetent. We refused to reinstate them. On this refusal, they ordered us to remove the Blue Eagle.

The safety of the 200,000 passengers who ride our buses every day and the safety of every one who uses the streets of Chicago is our first responsibility. We cannot have men operating our buses who are a menace to the passengers and to the public.

Ordering the Blue Eagle taken off the buses is one thing. But the demand by bureaucrats that we rehire incompetent men is quite another matter. A matter that involves your safety.

We are quite willing to sacrifice the Blue Eagle rather than endanger your safety by putting men back to work whose records prove beyond a doubt that they are not fit to continue in our service.

The discharge of these 25 incompetent and unsafe drivers was made the excuse of the "strike" which was called on our lines August 16th. It was called by these 25 disgruntled ex-employes. They were joined in the "strike" by 75 employes of the company, while 1,187 loyal workers, members of the Chicago Motor Coach Employes' Fraternity, stayed on the job and maintained and are maintaining service as usual on all of our lines.

Most of the 75 men who signed up with the Amalgamated union did so not because they wanted to, but because they were bullied, intimidated and beaten up and threatened with further physical violence not only to themselves but to members of their families.

Trustees of the Chicago Motor Coach Employes' Fraternity, in conference this week with federal mediators, said if the 25 men discharged for incompetence were rehired the 1,187 loyal employes that the trustees represent would walk out.

There is still another reason for the decision not to resist the removal of the Blue Eagle.

Employes ask removal of Blue Eagle

When our employes learned through the newspapers that the N. R. A. was considering ordering the Blue Eagle off the buses they circulated a petition, signed by more than 90 per cent of our men, asking that the company make no objection. This was dated August 6.

And this is the second time our employes have made this request.

There is no labor dispute between this company and its employes.

The whole argument is between two unions.

One of these unions is the Chicago Motor Coach Employes' Fraternity, to which 1,187 employes of our company belong. The other is the Amalgamated union, which, since the strike, has been joined by 75 men.

The employes' union has a contract with this company, dated September 30, 1933, covering rates of pay and working conditions.

This contract was entered into by both parties in good faith. We will live up to the contract we made.

On the other hand, the management has never had any dealing or negotiations of any kind with the Amalgamated union.

For over 18 months, professional organizers and agitators now in the employ of the Amalgamated union, have been engaged in an effort to destroy the employes' union. These efforts to date have been unavailing—an utter failure. Why? Because the men of this organization know only too well that millions of dollars which make up the golden stream which annually flows into the treasury chest of labor unions in the form of exorbitant initiation fees, heavy dues, fines, penalties and what not, and for which union officials make no accounting to anyone but themselves, go to enrich labor czars and maintain them in luxury. It is their business to "grab the dough."

In their desperation, officials of this Amalgamated union now have called this "strike."

There is involved in this issue no question of rates of pay, working conditions or collective bargaining.

	Chicago Motor Coach Employes' Fraternity	Amalgamated Union
Membership	Optional	Compulsory
Initiation Fee	$1	$9 to $28.00
Monthly Dues	$1	$2 to $2.50
Death Benefits	$1,500 to $3,000	$150 to $1,000
	Effective immediately	Effective after 1 yr. membership
Sick Benefits	$21 per week	None
Medical Attention	Free	None
Loans	$50 without collateral or interest	None

In addition, if a member of the Amalgamated union is delinquent in dues, no matter what the cause, he is apt to lose all death, disability and old-age benefits. Should his delinquency continue, he is suspended from the Union and loses his job. With the Employes' Fraternity dues are remitted in case of sickness.

Company offers compromise

The Chicago Motor Coach Company early showed its willingness to go along with President Roosevelt and the National Recovery Administration in their efforts to bring about better times.

Although the company was not included in the provisions of the National Industrial Recovery Act, the company volunteered to comply with the N. R. A. code.

In the recent efforts of Mayor Edward J. Kelly to effect a compromise of the present dispute, the company went the full distance in an effort to reach an amicable settlement. We even offered to reinstate the discharged men, subject to a review of their service records by an impartial group of Chicago citizens. Even this offer was turned down by the N. R. A.

Shortly after the Blue Eagle was placed on our buses, professional labor agitators, seeking to take advantage of the provisions of the N. R. A. code, began efforts to force our men to join the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America. Our men resented this attempt to force them into an outside union. They have enjoyed collective bargaining with the company for more than ten years—ever since the organization of their own union—the Employes' Fraternity.

We have tried to get the National Labor Relations Board to send an investigator to Chicago to get the facts in this case. This request has been refused.

Ask the men themselves?

All right. Now, we're willing to let any group of representative and impartial citizens interview our men. Ask them if they want their own union or an outside professional labor union. We don't want to know the names of the men questioned—or what answers they make.

But we know that 95 per cent of the workers will say as they have on numerous occasions before:

"We want our own union—the Employes' Fraternity."

And just because the bureaucrats find in our company working conditions that ARE happy, where the workers have enjoyed, as a result of collective bargaining, higher rates of pay and harmonious working conditions and relations with the management, they say:

"It can't be on the level."

Well, it is on the level. Ask any of our men.

The Chicago Motor Coach Company is not engaged in making hats, caps, clothes or shoes. It is engaged in the safe, efficient and dependable carrying of human lives. The company carries close to 50,000,000 passengers a year over 146 miles of the busiest and most crowded streets of Chicago.

Naturally, in such a business, there must be rules of safety—rules learned through experience. Discipline must be applied with knowledge of facts and local conditions. And, employes who won't observe rules of safety have no business operating our buses. The men, women and children who ride the buses and use the streets must be protected from incompetent and dangerous employes. To that end, we have resisted and shall continue to resist interference by any outside tribunal qualified neither by experience nor knowledge of facts to pass on such matters.

Do you want reign of reckless disorder?

The whole issue in the "strike" clearly is:

Whether this handful of disgruntled and thoroughly incompetent ex-employes of this company, who have become the tools of professional labor organizers and agitators, should be permitted to foment discord and labor trouble in Chicago and

Whether they are to be permitted to substitute for industrial harmony and progress, a reign of reckless, lawless disorder such as Milwaukee, San Francisco, Minneapolis and Toledo have experienced.

We are taking a stand for:

1. The right of the company to determine which drivers it should and should not entrust with your safety;

2. The right of our employes to choose their representatives in accordance with Section 7a of the National Industrial Recovery Act—a right which VITALLY concerns every worker.

We will continue the collective bargaining the company and its employes have enjoyed for more than ten years—since the organization of the workers' own union.

We will continue to support the right of our men to choose their own representatives, regardless of the efforts of paid professional labor organizers to force them into an outside union.

And, in obedience to General Johnson's order, the company's convictions and the workers' wishes, we have removed the Blue Eagle from our buses.

On behalf of the 1,187 loyal, industrious, law-abiding citizens, employes of this company, who ask only that they be let alone to work in peace without interference or dictation from outside sources, we earnestly solicit the whole-hearted co-operation of the people of Chicago.

Five Weddings of Interest to Society Today

Four Take Place in Chicago and Suburbs.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WITH five weddings holding the attention of society this last Saturday of August the vacation month winds up with an interesting flare of romance. Excepting the San Diego, Cal., ceremony at which Robert Chadwick Woodhead of Barrington will take Miss Martha Pauline Boyer for his bride, all of the services will be held in and about Chicago.

At 11 o'clock this morning in the vestry of the Holy Name cathedral Miss Claire Treat, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Treat of Boston, will become the bride of Franklin Ames Morse of South Bend, son of Mrs. Charles F. Morse and the late Mr. Morse. At 4:30 this afternoon in Trinity church in Highland Park Miss Elva Eitel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Henry Eitel of Highland Park, and Theodore Brentano Bersbach, son of Mrs. Frank J. Bersbach of Indian Hill, will exchange their wedding vows. And at the same hour in the garden of her parents' Wilmette home, that of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Underwood Clark, Miss Sally Clark will become the bride of Bentley Grimes McCloud Jr. of Kenilworth. The fifth wedding is that of Miss Mary Elizabeth Michel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick John Michel of Oak Park, and William Henry Kirk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Kirk of New Castle, Pa., at 8 o'clock this evening at the First Presbyterian church house in Oak Park.

Sister to Attend Miss Elva Eitel.

Miss Jane Eitel is to attend her sister Elva as maid of honor when she marries Mr. Bersbach, and six intimate friends will precede her to the altar as bridesmaids. They will be the bridegroom's three sisters, Barbara, Joan, and Helen Bersbach, Miss Barbara Bullard, Miss Welthyan Harmon, and Miss Jane Holmes.

John Bersbach is to serve his brother as best man and ushering will be Hubert Messinger Eitel, the bride's brother; William C. Fowle, Frank C. Fowle, Lars Holloway, Pierre Bouscaren, and Whiting Shepard of Toledo.

The Rev. Christoph Keller of Trinity church is to read the service and then all the guests will gather at the Eitel home for a reception. Mr. Bersbach and his bride will leave tonight on a wedding trip from which they will return before Sept. 15 in time for the debut of Mr. Bersbach's sister, Barbara.

The Rev. Hubert Carelton of St. Augustine's Episcopal church in Wilmette will read the service for Miss Clark and Mr. McCloud before an improvised altar in the lovely garden surrounding the Clark home. The ceremony climaxes a round of parties for the young couple that finished last night with the bridal dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Clark.

Elizabeth Quinlan Maid of Honor.

Miss Elizabeth Quinlan will be Miss Clark's maid of honor and Mr. McCloud's two tiny cousins, Suzanne and Mary Florence Olmsted, daughters of the junior Robert H. Olmsteds of Glencoe, will be flower girls. Robert McCloud is to serve his brother as best man and ushering will be Ben Kittridge of Fairfield, Conn.; George Kingsley of Kenilworth, and Hinman Bisbee of Evanston.

There is to be a garden reception after the service and then Mr. McCloud and his bride will leave on a wedding holiday at the Lake Placid club. Upon their return they will make their home at 613 Sheridan road in Evanston.

Only the immediate families and a few close friends will witness the marriage this morning of Miss Treat and Mr. Morse in the vestry of the Holy Name cathedral. Afterwards there will be a reception and breakfast at the home of the bridegroom's mother on Fullerton parkway.

Bridegroom's Sister Only Attendant.

Mrs. Kinsley B. Thorndike, the bridegroom's sister, will be Miss Treat's only attendant, and Woodson Carlisle of South Bend will serve Mr. Morse as best man. Because of illness the bride's mother is not here for the ceremony, but her father and brother flew from Boston and New York, respectively, for the occasion. The bride attended Wellesley college and the bridegroom prepared at Asheville for Williams and later attended the Sorbonne in Paris. He served in the world war. Mr. Morse and his bride will make their home in South Bend after a wedding trip by boat and motor.

Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Frost are coming in from Lake Geneva today to be among the guests at the wedding this evening of Miss Michel and Mr. Kirk. The marriage of the young couple climaxes a college romance that developed when Miss Michel was a student at Mount Holyoke and Mr. Kirk a student at Amherst.

Miss Carolyn Michel will attend her sister as maid of honor and Harry Knight will be best man for Mr. Kirk. After Oct. 1 Mr. Kirk and his bride will be at home in Cambridge, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Woodhead, parents of Robert Woodhead, who will marry Miss Boyer, daughter of Mr and Mrs. J. C. Boyer, in San Diego today, have not made the trip west for the ceremony, for young Mr. Woodhead will soon be bringing his bride east to live. The service is to be read at the Boyer home with a small reception following. Then Mr. Woodhead and his bride will leave for a wedding holiday in the mountains before coming east to live.

Good Morning!

Witness, then, the regrettable plight of lovely Lady Clare, whose sadist husband, Sir Gerald Corven, has belayed her with a riding whip away off in Ceylon, where he has some government berth or other.

Milady takes the next boat for home. And who shall blame her? And meets, aboard ship, a fine, upstanding young man named Tony who falls madly in love with her. SO madly that he agrees to the absolutely platonic arrangement upon which his adored insists.

Platonic though relations are; mean cuss though the husband is—when the Corven case finally comes up in a court of law—ah, well, let's go no farther into the story. But there seems no easiest way to a divorce in England.

The film, adapted from the late John Galsworthy's posthumously published novel, is adult entertainment of worth. Intelligence and good taste went into its production. Dialog of the reticent type—and there is a great deal of it, though smart direction keeps you from realizing the fact—is thoughtfully and pointfully delivered by the practically all English cast. Considerable suspense develops as the action proceeds, with the lovely Diana Wynyard—her first starring vehicle, by the way—securing sympathy at the start and holding it and your interest intact.

You also like and admire Mr. Lawton, though he seems a bit light—not quite the mental mate for Lady Corven. In passing—Mr. Lawton believes in black cats for luck and the one presented to him upon his arrival in Hollywood seems to have done a nice job of scaring away the furies of camera shyness and difficulty of adaptation to strange surroundings and ways. The young actor's performance is spontaneous and smooth.

Colin Clive rather gives you a heartache. You hate to see him cast as the cad Sir Gerald is. Such a likable chap—and such a grand actor! Will you EVER forget him in "Journey's End"? James Whale, who directed that remarkable movie, is, you'll notice, the efficient "man behind" "One More River."

Other characterizations are keenly handled, with the exception, I thought, of Mrs. Pat Campbell's depiction of one Lady Mont. Didn't care for her.

Altogether I believe you'll enjoy this photoplay with its one more proof that America's a pretty good place to live in.

American Florists to Open Convention Here Tuesday

Hundreds of florists will gather next week to attend the midsummer convention of the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists, which is sponsoring the Horticultural building at A Century of Progress this year. The program opens Tuesday with the National Florists' golf tournament at the Medinah Country club. A business meeting in the Stevens hotel will be held Wednesday.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Some excellent creams, powders and lotions that are a good choice for the business girl who must be economical have the added virtue of being free from some ingredients that aggravate hay fever.

Not new but too little known are some reasonably priced cosmetics that we've been recommending recently to the working girl who has to be economical. There is a most complete line and we like almost everything with which we've experimented.

But since it's the hay fever season and so many people we know are gasping for breath and praying for the first frost we're telling you about these today because they're your cosmetic dish if you have a hyper-sensitivity to orris root. A medical group has given them indorsement, and some hay fever sufferers who didn't think their creams or face powders had anything to do with their exaggerated sneezing and wheezing report that using these helped considerably.

Heaven knows we're not saying that using these will make hay fever disappear; would that something could! We merely report that in cases where it's aggravated by orris root using cosmetics such as these, which are free from it, may make for fewer sneezes.

The cleansing cream is the light type and most efficient in its working action. Its very faintly scented with a fragrance that's thoroughly pleasant . . . not a trace of the blatantly cheap perfume that is so often used in creams of the definitly inexpensive class. There is a cold cream, too, for the woman who doesn't like liquefying creams.

The powder is light, but stays on very well, and we know you'll like the shades.

Belts Assume Striking Role in Fall Styles

Return of Waistlines Makes Buckles Important.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Since real waistlines have returned, you should see the grand collections of belts about the town. If you're wise and properly appreciative of the magic these belts can accomplish you'll practically buy them by the dozen.

You wear belts to accent the big buttons that streak down the chest of your newest woolen street costumes; you'll pull a belt smartly and snugly into place around the middle of snappy thin wool street suits; and, of course, you've seen how the belts have got around the fur coats, as well as wool affairs loaded with fur trimmings.

A good belt collector can rejuvenate, revive, and completely change a dreary looking one piece dated frock into a thing of startling splendor with a new belt. The busy belt makers have used everything for clasps and trimmings. You'll see blobs of copper, knobs of brass, big gold metal balls, a combination of clear prystal and shiny black composition, and some chromium numbers that will almost blind you, so great is the glitter.

Look for the wide kidskins. The six inch width crushes swankily and is held in place by three huge clamps of gold that fit one inside the other. This outsize model comes in brown, scarlet, and black

Also watch the black suedes. See the one with an almost life size replica of a maple leaf, done in dull silver metal, that will certainly be the center of interest on any dress you wear it with.

The hook motif is going strong. Some of them look like glorified bits of hardware for screen doors, done in smooth chromium, silver, or gold metal. Also there are clanking chains, fastened from a chromium bar on one side to the other, for all the world like a fence gate. Wooden clasps that can be matched to hunks of wood that double as buttons are what you want for fuzzy wool frocks.

Sea shells in either silver or gold metal, brown suedes dripping with gold trimming, and the silver and gold kidskins are bright new merry-go-rounds for your fall wardrobes.

Blames Garbo for 'Horrible U. S. Females'

New York, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The modern American girl has made herself unattractive by trying to imitate Greta Garbo instead of being herself, Hayden Hayden, poster artist, asserted today.

"There isn't a woman today I can paint as she is," he exploded, sitting before an easel depicting a glorified bathing suit girl.

"Great Garbo has had more to do than any one else with the horrible females you see everywhere. That lack-lustre expression, that lack of color—they all try to be like her.

"You never see a girl walking along all full of health, color, and vigor. They all want to be hollow chested. They don't realize how much more attractive they'd be if they had a straight line down their backs. They don't want to be healthy, and this is undoubtedly due to the movies.

"You can prove it by almost any girl from 19 to 25. Ask her if any one has told her she looks like Garbo. She'll blush and laugh and say, 'Well, yes.' She's done her hair like Garbo's, made up her face that way, and done her best to be like her."

Hayden had words of praise, however, for the Swedish actress herself. "She has something that's grand," he asserted. "But instead of developing their personalities as she has done, these girls only copy her outward characteristics."

Working girls and debutantes of recent years were both assailed by Hayden as persons who "just drape themselves around."

"When they come into a room, they slouch in," he said. "They have no vitality any more. You have to have vitality to draw a person, and the vitality may be mental as well as physical. They seem to have forgotten all that."

Mother and Son Awarded Degrees at U. of C. Exercises

Among the 416 University of Chicago students who received degrees at the exercises in the university chapel yesterday afternoon were Mrs. Lora Townsend Dickinson and her son, Leon Townsend Dickinson, of 1228 Scott avenue, Hubbard Woods.

Standing together in cap and gown, Mrs. Dickinson was granted the bachelor of philosophy degree, and her son the master of arts. Each had received previous degrees, Mrs. Dickinson the A. B. from Lombard college in 1899 and her son the A. B. from Williams college last year.

Two army majors also received degrees. Maj. Donald B. Sanger of Fort Bliss, Tex., was awarded the doctor of philosophy degree in the department of history, and Maj. Walter B. Zimmerman of Camp Custer, Mich., the master of arts degree in the divinity school.

Dr. Gordon J. Laing, dean of the humanities division, gave the convocation address, on "The Academic Prospect in 1934," and Frederic Woodward, vice president of the university, presided and awarded the diplomas.

THE lack of sophistication of the old lady who approached a check girl in one of the hotels the other day deserves recording. She had a dime in her hand, and handing it to the check girl, she said:

"My daughter told me to give you this. Tell me, is it the contribution for the Salvation Army?"

MR. DOUGLAS LAWSON, in town from Boston, was reminded of the story of Mr. Cabot and St. Peter. Mr. Cabot knocked at the door of heaven and St. Peter, peering out, asked who he was.

"Mr. Cabot," came the answer.

"Yes, but who are you? I'd like to know a little about you," said St. Peter, calling over the recording angel.

"Well, I don't know what else to say. I'm Mr Cabot," repeated the applicant for admittance to heaven.

St. Peter was still insistent, and Mr. Cabot, after iterating his name, added:

"I hardly know what else to say except that I'm Mr. Cabot. I was born on Beacon hill, of course. And I went to Groton, then to Harvard. I married a Saltonstall. I'm a director of a number of worthy institutions. I belong to the Somerset club. . . . I really don't know what else to tell you . . ." he broke off.

St. Peter shook his head in discouragement.

"All right, you can come in, Mr. Cabot. But I don't think you'll like it here," he said.

IN one of the numbers in the Music hall at Radio City a girl danced, with a huge light shining on her from below. It cast the reflection of her movements on the curtain back of her, producing a striking effect. A Chicagoan in the audience overheard the woman sitting back of him voice her comment about the performance.

"I think the one in back is the best dancer, don't you, Mabel?" she said.

Peace, Social Questions Up to M. E. Youth

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Seven hundred representatives of 1,000,000 youths of the Methodist Episcopal church will assemble in Evanston next Thursday for a four day convention. According to the Rev. Blaine Kirkpatrick, head of the Epworth league, youth organization of the Methodist church, the effort of Methodist leaders will be toward "plumbing the mind of the younger generation" of the church.

The Rev. Mr. Kirkpatrick pointed out that the 700 delegates come from the "post-war period." This, the league leader asserts, offers a unique opportunity for studying youth and its reactions toward war and other problems. Previous youth conventions, it was pointed out, were colored by direct or indirect war experience.

Inasmuch as the program has been set up to get opinion of youngsters, set speeches by oldsters have been reduced to a minimum. It is indicated that the youths will take action in regard to peace, capitalism, and military training in universities and colleges.

The Epworth league organization in Los Angeles has drawn up a new "pledge" of membership for consideration. This pledge, recently given wide public notice in the more radical religious journals, demands that Epworth league members repudiate "the profit motive" in industry in favor of a Christian "service motive."

The Rev. Mr. Kirkpatrick announced that one forum would be devoted to "the program needed in our church to build a new world."

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Tomorrow's TRIBUNE will solve all your difficulties, boys and girls—because as soon as you read it, you'll know whether your letter was good enough to merit an invitation to our next gay party. I read them all carefully and I know from the real interest shown in your notes that those who win invitations will be delighted.

I'm truly sorry that I can't take every one who might like to come along, but 100 lively boys and girls is just about enough for any one at one time.

If you look at the list carefully and find your name there, you can expect the mailman just about any time after that—and he'll ring the bell and present you with a personal letter from me. It will contain instructions for meeting at the Roosevelt theater next Thursday, to see the exciting film which has been made from Robert Louis Stevenson's fascinating book, "Treasure Island."

Her Husband's Fiancee

BY ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

SYNOPSIS.

Cecily Marshall returns after a year's absence to the home in Bellchester, England, where she had lived with her husband, David Marshall, the city's leading merchant prince. Cecily had been a shoplift at Marshall's. Beautiful Audrey Lowe, who had wanted David herself, bribed an innkeeper to swear that Cecily had shared the same room with Audrey's cousin, Reggie Davies, a night they were marooned due to motor trouble. David won a divorce from Cecily and the custody of their small child, Rose Ann. The child grieves for her mother. Fearing for her health, Nanna, her nurse, secretly wires Cecily. When David, who is about to marry Audrey, discovers Cecily's presence he orders her and Nanna from the house. Rose Ann develops brain fever and David is forced to send for Cecily. Rose Ann recovers. Cecily takes rooms in Bellchester, with Nanna, and determines to prove her innocence. She sees Rose Ann daily. Audrey is blackmailed by Mrs. Partridge, the wife of the deceased innkeeper. To get her to leave Bellchester, Audrey gives her a valuable brooch, which was a present from David. Audrey tells David she lost the brooch. He insists on advertising for it. Audrey hears from Mrs. Partridge that the jewels of the brooch are being disposed of separately. As her father's wedding draws near Rose Ann manifests her hatred of Audrey. Cecily calls on Mr. Dodds, the station master, who was her father's old friend. He tells her that Mrs. Partridge returned from London. On the eve of his wedding David calls on Cecily to arrange about Rose Ann. Cecily is leaving to see the Partridge woman and David goes with her. They find Audrey with her and the second hand dealer who had bought the brooch. David has proof of Audrey's treachery.

INSTALMENT XXXVI.

HER DADDY'S WIFE.

The snow was over the tops of her shoes now and her ankles were wet with it, but Cecily did not feel in the least cold. David's arm was around her, their bodies close together.

"What are you going to do about Audrey?" she asked. It was taken for granted that all those wedding preparations would be canceled.

"As soon as I get back to the Grange I'll ring up Branchard and let him deal with the situation. I do not intend to see Audrey again, myself. . . . Or her mother," he added.

"And Mrs. Partridge?"

David shrugged his shoulders.

"We might be able to send her to prison for perjury, but I rather doubt it. The woman's as sharp as they make 'em. Nobody will ever get the truth out of her and I think she's got a fairly strong defense. I'm inclined to leave her alone. We've gone through enough, you and I."

They were in Standish crescent by this time.

After all, Mr. Dodds did not eat his Christmas dinner at the little house in Standish crescent, but as it happened nobody else did, either.

Mrs. Leach took her turkey and pudding and mince pies to Maple Grange, and it was a very mixed party which eventually sat down at table.

But we are anticipating.

Christmas day dawned bright and sunny, with Bellchester strangely and beautifully transformed by the dazzling snowfall.

"It looks like a wedding cake," said Rose Ann, hopping about on one foot to get a look out of the window.

"If you don't let me dress you properly, you'll be late," said Nanna.

"Late for what?"

"Never you mind—but your ma's set on your going along with her to Mr. Branchard's office this morning."

"What do we want to go to Mr. Branchard's office for? This is Christmas. We're going home today, aren't we?"

"Yes, my lamb. Come, let me put on your other sock. You'll be catching your death of cold."

They were still at Mrs. Leach's, but a miracle had happened.

They were going to have dinner at Maple Grange and afterwards a Christmas tree. To be sure, it was Tommy's tree, but he was generously lending it to Rose Ann and her family.

"It will be so nice for his grandma not having to cook the dinner," said Nanna. "Give her a bit of a rest. Now turn around and let me button you up."

Cecily in her room across the hall was taking something out of a big box which had come last night from Marshall's after she had gone to bed.

David had sent her a lovely new dress in a shade of blue gray that matched her eyes, and a squirrel coat and hat to go with it. Early this morning had come a bouquet of violets.

"My wedding day," she said to herself. But there were tears behind the pensive smile which accompanied her thoughts.

This wasn't her real wedding day, at all. This was only a concession to legal convention. She had rebeled when David said they would have to get married all over again and that he and Mr. Branchard had effected a record in special licenses.

"We were always married," Cecily objected plaintively.

"To prove it, you'll have to meet me at Branchard's at eleven o'clock," David replied. "I'm afraid we can't escape it."

"I shall bring Rose Ann," said Cecily.

David didn't think that was at all necessary, but he said nothing. Rose Ann could cool her heels in the reception room for the necessary five minutes.

They set out, Cecily and Rose Ann, the latter reveling in a new pair of fleece lined Wellingtons.

"I'm glad daddy thought he wouldn't marry Miss Lowe. It was lucky he found out in time. I could have told him it was a mistake, but he didn't seem to want to talk about it. Perhaps it was because I cut up her coat that he changed his mind."

"And I don't think we will talk about that, either," said Cecily.

"It was a horrid thing to do," Rose Ann replied serenely.

She began to skip, scuffing up the soft snow with her new Wellingtons.

Bank street and its environs appeared to be deserted.

"Why aren't the shops open? It isn't Sunday," said Rose Ann.

"It's Christmas—a holiday, darling. Here we are. I hope we haven't got here ahead of daddy. That would be contrary to tradition."

"What's 'tradition'?"

He kissed Cecily first. Then he kissed Rose Ann. And then he kissed Cecily again.

"She's my mummy," Rose Ann said jealously.

They left her in the reception room, but Rose Ann was not only bored but inquisitive, and she opened the door a crack to see what was going on in there.

She saw her father and mother standing together before Mr. Branchard's desk, where a strange man was sitting asking them very queer questions while Mr. Branchard and his chief clerk stood at one side, listening attentively.

"Now you put the ring on her finger," said the strange man, "and I now pronounce you man and wife."

Rose Ann sneaked back to the chair where she had been told to sit, a smug expression on her face.

"I could have told him that before," she said to herself. "Of course she's daddy's wife. I knew that before."

But Rose Ann did not know why Mr. Dodds, a man whose acquaintance she had only just made, should be a sort of hero of the dinner party at Maple Grange. It was unusual, too, that Nanna should sit down at table with them, although she sometimes did at Mrs. Leach's.

When you added Mrs. Leach and Tommy, it was indeed a very mixed party, but all the more agreeable for that, in Rose Ann's opinion.

Then the tree and the presents, with Mr. Dodds being Father Christmas because he already had a beard of his own and all it needed to make it realistic was a little flour dredged on.

Then the servants came in to get their presents and Ellen disgraced herself by breaking down in the midst of it and crying. Mason had to get her out of the room quick!

"Mummy, is she sorry because Miss Lowe isn't here?" Rose Ann whispered to her mother. "Or wasn't the glass of sherry good for her?"

"She's a little excited—that's all," said Cecily.

"I'm excited, but I'm not crying."

Then Rose Ann stopped short, for strangely enough, Cecily was crying, too.

David came over to them hastily.

"You and Tommy had better take your sleds into the garden before the sun goes down," he said to Rose Ann. "Tell Nanna to put your things on. You'll have to hurry, for there isn't much time."

A leaflet of directions and time tables for canning will be sent free upon receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Canning tribulations seem to be bubbling all over Chicagoland. Mrs. C. H. T. refuses to take any chances. She asks: "How do you test canned fruit for leakage if you can't invert the jars?" Which shows that I didn't make myself quite clear in a former talk on canning troubles. The danger in inverting canned foods in jars is that it will be done immediately after the cover has been screwed or snapped in place, and before the seal is completely formed. The procedure, therefore, is this:

Tighten the lids immediately upon canning till they will budge no further. Allow the jars to stand tops up until absolutely cold. Don't attempt to tighten the jars after the first hard screwing or this important seal will be broken and will not reform. When cold invert the jars and allow them to stand thus for two or three hours. Keep an eye and an ear on them during this time to detect any hissing or bubbles which would show an imperfect seal. Examine them carefully at the end of the period. If a leak is found uncap the jar and look for the trouble. If the cap is bent, or the glass lid is nicked, replace it with a good one. Test the rubber and replace if necessary. It may be that these are perfect but that some bit of food has slipped in under the rip or the ring and is causing the trouble. When you have sleuthed out the difficulty reprocess the food again for one-third to one-half the original time, then seal again, cool, and then test as before. It's also well, just to be utterly safe, to examine the jars again a week after sealing to make certain that everything is square and above board.

Also from Mrs. T. turns up the old question of salicylic acid as a preservative in canning vegetables. And the answer is—never! The use of any such preservatives is strictly forbidden in all canned products. If foods have been thoroughly sterilized they will keep with no aid from an added acid. As for using this acid to safeguard green beans in the can when they have not been canned in a pressure cooker—I also warn you strongly against that. Nothing but the extremely high temperatures of a pressure cooker can make safe nonacid vegetables such as corn, beans, peas, and such. The organism which causes the fatal poisoning of botulism has been found in the soil of every state in the union. It thrives in these nonacid vegetables only, and for that reason any woman who puts them up without the aid of a pressure cooker is running a real risk.

And while we're still on the subject of pressure cookers, comes a trouble from Mrs. W. J. A. "I have difficulty in maintaining the pressure in my cooker. How shall I correct this? Also: I canned cherries and in the first cookerful lost almost half the juice out of each jar."

First for some answers about regulating the pressure of that mischievour cooker, as this irregularity of pressure is the main cause for the escape of juices when you can. First of all, the cooker must be completely freed of cold air before closing the petcock. To do this pour water into the cooker just up to the top of the rack [for canning]. Put in the jars, adjust the top, open the petcock, and heat. When steam begins to spurt from the petcock let it come out for 7 minutes [or 10, if your cooker is huge]. Then close the petcock entirely and when the pressure gauge shows the pressure desired turn down the heat gradually. From this point on the pressure must be regulated completely by adjusting the burner. Rather careful watching is advised because when the pressure varies, even as little as 5 pounds, the change automatically draws the juices out of the cans.

There's another factor, too, which may cause you to have difficulty with your pressure gauge. It is necessary to keep all the mechanical parts of the cooker carefully cleaned. Never immerse the steam gauge in water. Run a small wet cloth through the petcock on cleaning. Keep the safety valve clear, cleaning it immediately after using.

Then one more warning about the canning problem. Juices may also be drawn out—and in large amounts—if the pressure is reduced too speedily after processing. When the cooking time is completed turn off the burner, but do not open the petcock. Let the cooker cool gradually. When the pressure reaches zero—and not before—remove the cover carefully and take out the food. This in particular is for canned foods which have an inclination to lose their juices.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: A "Mushy" Story

Jacket Dress in Wool Crepe

GIRL'S DRESS.

A navy blue wool crêpe made this pretty little jacket suit, and the blouse was made of a bright red crêpe. And wouldn't it be a good idea to make several other blouses to wear with it? A yellow cotton broadcloth for one, and a red and white checked gingham for another. They will make a smart change of costume at little extra expense.

The pattern, No. 3221, comes in sizes 8, 10, 12, and 14 years.

gans' polo field will be so much fun is because genial Robert W. Buckley is going to act as master of ceremonies. Last year, clad in a silly clown's costume, he made quite a hit, and tomorrow his ready wit will again be at the service of the "customers," who, incidentally, are wondering just what kind of a costume he will appear in this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Haugan have invited twenty guests for a 12 o'clock luncheon in their attractive farmhouse, and there will be many small supper parties after the show.

Father and Son Tennis Tourney.

The Onwentsia club tennis courts will be busy tomorrow afternoon with a fathers and sons' tennis tournament and the mothers and sisters who will watch the fray. Charles S. DeLong, tennis chairman, has turned the arrangements for the day over to Albert D. Farwell, who, with his son, Frank, will be among the contestants. Others who have entered the tournament are Charles S. Schweppe and his son John, Philip D. Armour and his son Philip, Vaughan Spalding and his son Charles, and Leslie Wheeler and his son Leslie Jr.

Instead of completing her study in this country Miss Helen Jeffries, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Jeffries of Highland Park, is making plans to spend a year studying and traveling abroad. Motoring east with her mother and her sister Virginia the first part of September, she will sail the 12th on the S. S. Manhattan in order to compete in the scholarship examinations at the Royal academy in London before starting her study there. Already she has made plans to reside at Dartmouth house and to spend the Christmas holidays in Switzerland or Egypt.

Miss Virginia will visit friends from Connecticut college early this fall in the east, but in January she hopes to join her sister abroad.

Ralph I. Farwells Parents of Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph I. Farwell are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter on Thursday night at the Presbyterian hospital. Mrs. Farwell is the former Mary Elizabeth Waterman.

A letter from Dr. Titus Zbyszewski, Chicago's former Polish consul general, from Mount St. Mary's hospital in Niagara Falls, gives assurance that he is recovering from injuries received in his recent automobile accident. In his words he hopes "to leave the hospital in four weeks completely recovered." Dr. Zbyszewski was motoring east to return to Europe when the accident occurred.

Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson, we are glad to report, is out of St. Luke's hospital and back at her home in Lake Forest.

Mrs. Walter Brewster in West for Vacation.

Mrs. Walter S. Brewster and her son, Edward Brewster, have gone west for a month's visit. Mr. Brewster did not accompany them.

Mr. and Mrs. Knight C. Cowles of Lake Forest, who have been in Santa Barbara, stopped in Colorado Springs with Mrs. Frances Drexel Smith, Mrs. Cowles' mother, on their way east. The Cowleses will be at home Tuesday or Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Crafts Watson and their daughter, Miss Emily Watson, are giving a tea this afternoon between 3 and 6 at their home, 281 Marshman road in Highland Park.

Many of the city's old families are interested in the reunion of the "grand old" families of America the American Genealogical society is sponsoring beginning tomorrow at the World's Fair. Col. George T. Buckingham is the reunion chairman. Henry A. Rumsey is interested in it as governor of the Mayflower descendants and Carroll H. Sudler as state president of the Society of Colonial Wars.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

RESPONSES AND REBIDS AFTER AN OPENING NO TRUMP BID.

There is one very infrequent situation which I wish to discuss before leaving the subject of no trumpers containing a concealed five card suit. The case I have in mind is when the responding hand also has a five card concealed suit which he refrained from bidding on the first round because his hand lacked any incentive for a slam development, but was also strong enough to make a safety escape into a partial score suit contract quite unnecessary. Let us assume that the responder's hand is

Sp. K J x	Di. x
Hts. K 10 x x	Cl. Q J x x x

and that the opener had bid a no trump on

Sp. A 10 x	Di. A K Q x x
Hts. A J x	Cl. K x

What are the risks of this hand being misbid owing to the misfit in diamonds? By "misbid," I mean bid into a penalty owing to slam try that goes wrong, for naturally there is no doubt about the safety of a game contract. Let us assume that the bidding has been one no trump, two no trumps, four diamonds. The responding hand must now say four no trumps, not five clubs. No trumps is quite safe, and opener should pass this sign off. No harm has come from the suit concealment of either partner. Weaken either hand materially, and neither of them would have bid this way. The concealed suits would have been shown, by one or the other or both, in time to keep the eventual contract within the limits of three no trumps.

Add Temptation to the Responding Hand.

We cannot weaken the opening hand any further and still expect him to make a slam try. With any less than the strength given him above, he would bid three no trmps over two no trumps, and thus close the bidding. Assume that his hand is as above—the minimum on which to bid four diamonds over two no trumps. Let us continue the misfit in diamonds, but place the missing ace in the responding hand. Now, with an ace and two kings, he has a right to expect a slam on primary values. Must he back down from it because of the misfit in opener's previously concealed suit? No, by no means. Let us give him

Sp. K x x	Di. x
Hts. K 10 x x	Cl. A J x x x

This represents the weakest holding, including a worthless singleton on which two no trumps should be bid on the first response instead of two clubs. After hearing four diamonds from the opener he knows that there is no ace against them. The original no trump bid promises at least K x in clubs. The hand may be a complete misfit in diamonds, but it is no misfit in clubs. If clubs are trumps the diamond suit will furnish discards of major suit losers. At worst a finesse may be needed in order to avoid losing any tricks in hearts or spades. The only loser is likely to be in clubs. There will be a finesse against the queen, presumably, but that should be the only loser unless there is ghastly massing of trumps in one of the enemy's hands. If clubs are divided 3-3 among them and the finesse wins, the hand may deliver a grand slam in clubs. Responder, therefore, should take definite action by virtue of his partner's sudden slam-try and bid six clubs. His ace and two kings justify him fully. Four no trumps is a positive sign-off which opener will surely pass. Five clubs is also nearly sure to be passed or denied, and, since it might be taken for a four card suit bid as a dubious slam acceptance and also in denial of diamonds, this bid would rule out all chance of getting to a grand slam if the material were there for it.

By bidding six he definitly shows that his club suit is of not less than five cards and that his hand contains an ace and two kings, or at any rate two primary tricks, one of them an ace. He is able alone to decide that the hand should be played in six clubs. If the opener's hand were that is, just a fraction under an opening, two no trump bid, but with the strong club support which is now shown to be the key to the hand's limits, he should bid seven clubs without further ado. If the diamonds are unluckily divided, 5-2, so that only two losing hearts can be discarded on them, there should be a finesse in one or maybe both major suits to eliminate the undiscarded loser. In match point play the slam should be bid in no trumps.

Hts. A J x	Cl. K Q x

Mothers Need Rest, Vacation from Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Letters like this are a real S. O. S.: "For months I have been trying to write to ask if I may have a few of your interesting leaflets that you so often write about.

"I have two infants, one 23 months old, the other 8 months old. Between trying to clothe, feed, and interest them in obtaining knowledge, I am on the point of nervous prostration.

"The older one has never been any trouble until recently. From hearing the constant cry of the baby, due to teething, he is developing the crying habit. He refuses to eat, is becoming disobedient, and answers 'no' to everything you ask him to do. I try to reason with him, but it doesn't always help.

"Also kindly advise if you know which books may be purchased that will be of both interst and educational value to a 23 months old child."

The answer sent was to this effect: My dear Mrs. A. ——: I have your letter and I feel sure that most of your problems with the children come from your sense of confusion and tiredness.

First, let me make one suggestion. When the children take their naps, instead of trying to do a great deal of sewing and catching up on other chores that you cannot do when they are awake, why don't you simply lie down and get a good sleep yourself? I know what the tiredness is that accompanies the care of young children, and I know how much good this would do. Also can't you occasionally get a few hours away from the children, or have an "evening off"?

I think some of the troubles you are having with your oldest baby are simply the result of your not quite realizing that he is merely showing normal behavior traits. Also the young baby takes much of your time away from him. All you need to do is to manage him a little differently. And don't try to "interest him in obtaining knowledge." All he needs is good playthings and some books, reasonable freedom about the house and lots of outdoors and sleep. Try to be a little more easy-going with the 2 year old—don't expect too much of him, and be ready with interest and praise for what he does. He needs both.

I am enclosing several booklets that I know will help you at this time, and I feel sure that if you digest them you will work out of lots of your present difficulties. They fit each question that you asked me.

Mother Objects to Suitor Who Isn't Wealthy

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Why should I give up the young man I dearly love and wish to marry just to please my mother?

"Her only objection to him is that he is not one of the so-called moneyed class. Were he lacking in character or ambition I could see some justice in her request, but I'm happy to say he is one of the finest young men I have ever met. Every one speaks highly of him and I feel we can be very happy together, even though he is not earning a large salary at the present time. If I'm willing to take the chance, and I truly don't feel it is a chance, why should by mother be so unreasonable?"

I suppose it's natural for a mother to wish to see her daughter established in a fine home, enjoying the luxuries, but she must not overlook the fact that often the great thrill of having those luxuries is in planning for them with your husband, helping him in his struggles to achieve them.

Perhaps she has longed for luxuries in her lifetime and hasn't achieved them, and feels she wants to save you the disappointment she has suffered. If so, do not feel too unkindly toward her, even though you realize she has been rather unreasonable in her objection to your "darling."

Assure her you have no such ambitions for yourself as she has for you, and the lack of position will in no way affect your happiness.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Scranton of 3811 North Sawyer avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Martha Lyle, to Harry Eugene Anderson of 4519 North Albany avenue, on Aug. 18 at the Albany Park Lutheran church. The secretary of war and Mrs. Dern will spend the week-end in Newport. They will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred I. du Pont on board their yacht, Nenemoosha.

Lime Wash Is Efficient as Preventive of Tooth Decay

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

Good teeth may be looked upon as a gift of the gods. However, we can do much to attain a good looking set of teeth ourselves. Good teeth are the result of careful mouth hygiene from childhood—babyhood, to be exact. Scrupulous care will keep the molars strong and beautiful throughout life.

The basis of efficient tooth care is scrubbing the teeth several times a day with a fairly stiff brush. Careful brushing, to be sure, not just a casual once-over and around the teeth. The use of lime water as a mouth wash to be forced between the teeth, the use of dental floss to remove particles of food from between the teeth are necessary care. Tartar must be kept off the teeth, and since the most effective care cannot always accomplish this, it is necessary for you to have your teeth cleaned by your dentist at least twice a year.

Lime is an excellent preventive of decay. You can make your own lime mouth wash. Buy unslaked lime and crush it to a powder. Take a half cupful of it, put it in a quart bottle and fill the bottle with cold water. Shake thoroughly. Allow the undissolved lime to settle at the bottom of the bottle. This will require several hours. After it has settled, pour off as much of the clear water as can be poured without losing any of the lime. This contains the washing and is not pure enough to use. Again, fill the bottle with cold water, shake well and allow the solution to clear. After the lime has collected at the bottom of the bottle fill a twelve ounce bottle with the clear solution of lime water, being careful not to stir up the lime at the bottom. Refill the large bottle with cold water, shake well and set aside to use when the smaller bottle has been emptied.

SALZBURG, Austria, Aug. 24.—How strenuously the German government has endeavored to sabotage the Salzburg festival, not merely by refusing to allow German singers to participate, but also by striving to keep foreign artists away, became clearer recently when the reich chamber of culture demanded that the American tenor, Charles Kullmann, decline to fulfill a Salzburg engagement.

Kullmann, though for four years with the Berlin State opera and still under contract to sing thirty performances there each year, is now a regular member of the Vienna State opera. To the order that he remain away from Salzburg, Kullmann replied that he was an American and had not the slightest intention of canceling his engagements.

Conference of Mayors Files NRA Protest.

PAUL V. BETTERS.

Indirect charges of price gouging and collusion to submit exorbitant bids under the NRA petroleum code were contained in a letter sent the Petroleum Administrative board by the United States Conference of Mayors yesterday.

The conference, which represents the 300 largest cities of the country, has headquarters at 58th street and Drexel avenue. In the letter, signed by Paul V. Betters, executive secretary, it asks that municipalities and other governmental agencies be exempt from price regulations in the purchase of petroleum products.

Object to Price Increase.

"The United States Conference of Mayors is in full accord with the policies of the Petroleum Administrative board to prevent destructive price cutting leading to sales below cost," the letter states.

"Further, no question is raised concerning normal increases in prices made necessary because of the increase in labor costs. On the other hand, a very serious objection is raised to the establishment of schedules which tend to increase retail prices substantially without relation to labor or material costs."

Municipalities, the letter points out, cannot pass on to others the increase in commodity prices, now averaging 33 1-3 per cent, as private industry can. They are unable to increase taxes, and in numerous cases are faced by decreasing tax revenue.

Hits Vital Services.

"When monopolistic price increases fall upon them," the letter states, "they must bear the burden and they can do so only by decreasing social services vital to the people, such as education, health, and protection against crime, and by allowing public properties and streets to deteriorate.

"Also, since government contracts, according to law, must be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, it is evident that the present practice of uniform bidding gives no basis for awarding contracts. Consequently, resort to lotteries is made necessary to determine the award, but this is both an illegal procedure and a practice which exposes public authorities to illicit lobbying.

Breeds Graft, Corruption.

"Open bidding, coupled with definite specifications, reduces the sales cost to a minimum, while uniform and collusive bidding breeds graft and corruption. No one who has had an opportunity to observe the benefit of such an open and above-board manner of conducting business can witness its destruction by the elimination of all competition without grave fears of the consequences."

The letter suggests that competitive bidding within a 15 per cent range, already authorized by presidential order on federal government contracts, be extended to municipalities under the petroleum code. There are ample economic reasons, such as quantity purchases, credit standing, and lack of sales efforts required on municipal contracts, to justify such a concession, the letter holds.

MAYOR HOAN OF MILWAUKEE HITS AT FERA WORK

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Mayor Daniel Hoan today declared that the FERA is inadequate and has not been functioning in Milwaukee. In a letter to Sherwood L. Reeder, representative at Washington of the United States conference of mayors, Mr. Hoan says:

"It is high time that the United States conference of mayors got busy to maintain its leadership for an adequate unemployment relief program," the mayor says in his letter. "The American Federation of Labor is advocating reestablishment of the CWA. The FERA is inadequate and has not been functioning. There is not proper cooperation between states, cities, and the federal government. We, in Milwaukee, have an FERA strike on. Our conference should pound away for a long term program of public works and should assert itself with the states. As individual mayors, we have little influence, but as an organization we should make a strong stand.

"Then there is the matter of charges made that the power trust has packed the PWA," the mayor's letter continues. Hoan said that city officials of Camden, N. J., say "they have made this charge to Ickes and appear to have considerable evidence that the charge is true. Our organization should be prepared to make a very searching survey on this matter and, if the facts warrant, the report should be laid before the President.

"My letter is to the point that the mayors themselves must meet in the near future and assert themselves with your assistance and do so with a real punch."

SUE CAROL ASKS DIVORCE FROM ACTOR HUSBAND

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Sue Carol, petite film actress, filed suit for divorce today from her actor-husband, Nick Stuart, charging that he berated, abused and criticized her and once hurled a cross-word puzzle book at her.

The couple married July 29, 1929, and separated May 1, 1933, the actress said in her complaint. She stated a property division already has been effected. She seeks custody of their daughter, Carol Lee Stuart, 2 years old.

Miss Carol charged that her husband's conduct made her "extremely nervous and unhappy, and resulted ultimately in her being compelled to give up her work as a motion picture actress and also resulted in their separation."

PROPERTY TAXES FOR STATE USES ENDED IN IOWA

Sales, Income, Business Levies Substituted.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—For the first time in its history Iowa property will not contribute to the cost of state government, according to a decision today by the state board of assessment and review.

Property tax levies for state expenditures were removed today, to be replaced by income from the three point revenue law passed by the special session of the legislature last winter. Included in the new income are collections from the state retail sales tax now in operation, a personal net income and a business franchise levy, both to be collected next year on 1934 earnings.

Opinion Paves Way.

An opinion from the state's attorney general, Edward L. O'Connor, today directed the board to remove the levy in accordance with the revenue law which specifies that anticipated revenue from the three new sources be taken into consideration when assessments are made. The present action constitutes the first replacement under the law.

Iowa's property tax levy last year was 2.2 mills. Several days ago the board predicted that this could be reduced for 1935 to less than one mill. The total of state expenditures for 1935 has been set at $6,460,000.

Displaces Property Levies.

Income from the sales tax has already provided more than a million and a half dollars for relief purposes. The revenue law provides that the first 2 per cent shall be set aside for administrative costs, the next three million dollars for relief, and the rest for direct replacement of property levies.

In giving his opinion today the attorney general declared that it was the intent of the law that the replacement be for state expenditures.

MINIMIZE PWA CHARGE OF POOR WORK ON SEWER

Trustees of the sanitary district at a meeting yesterday minimized reports of charges of poor workmanship in sewage disposal construction projects now under way and financed by Federal Public Works administration funds. Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, PWA head, announced on Thursday in Washington, D. C., that he intended to authorize an investigation and special inspection of all sanitary district sewer projects financed by PWA grants.

Thomas J. Bowler, president of the district, declared that the district had known of some construction deficiencies for some time and had taken steps to correct the situation.

"There was some faulty concrete work in 1,400 feet of the Calumet intercepting sewer," said Bowler. "S. A. Healy, the contractor, was informed and he promised to repair this section. The cost, about $5,000, will come out of his pocket. There is nothing unusual in the situation."

The trustees awarded contracts totaling $361,041 for machinery to be installed at the Lockport power plant. Funds for this project also will come from the PWA treasury.

GETS BIG WALLOP OUT OF DEBUT AS TAVERN ROBBER!

Inattention to his "profession" last night proved disastrous and painful to Edward Hayes, 26 years old, 2911 Emerald avenue, and cut short his career as a robber.

With a companion he entered Michael Simon's tavern at 5159 Princeton avenue. While Hayes guarded a dozen customers in a rear room with a sawed-off shotgun, his companion took $19 from the register.

Then Hayes made his mistake. He turned his back to the men he was guarding to tell his companion what liquors to remove from the bar.

Taking advantage of Hayes' relaxed vigilance one of the customers seized a chair and crashed it down on his head. He slumped to the floor, dropping the shotgun, which was discharged. Startled, his companion dropped the $19 and ran from the tavern. Hayes was removed, unconscious, to the Bridewell hospital by Stockyards police.

DODGERS WIN, 6-4; CUBS DROP TO THIRD PLACE

EX-MARQUETTE STAR LOST FOR SEVERAL DAYS

Coach Experiments with Substitutes.

All-Star Night

THE weekly Saturday evening broadcast of the Lawson Y. M. C. A. Glee club over W-G-N tonight will be dedicated to alumni and friends of universities which will be represented in the game between the College All-Stars and Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field Friday night. The program will be heard from 7:15 to 7:30.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

There was much consternation among the pro Bears yesterday when they waded through another session in preparation for their football affair with the college All-Stars at Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 31.

The cause of the mild panic was the absence of Gene Ronzani, the first string right half back who suffered a leg injury during the hour of scrimmage conducted the day previous. The hurt, at the time, was considered slight but by yesterday morning the limb had stiffened considerably despite first aid treatment administered by the gallant Doc Andy Lothsaw.

The Bears immediately had visions of Ronzani's absence the evening of the important battle and thoughts of being without their best all around half back weren't comforting. At the best he will be out of practice for several days, barring some of Doc Lotshaw's magic such as he frequently works on the Cubs. The Marquette university graduate is not only an able ball carrier but an excellent blocker.

Millheam Gets Chance.

In the signal drill which made up most of yesterday morning's labors at the Lane Tech High school field, Ronzani's place was turned over to Duke Millheam, the ex-Notre Dame athlete who threw a few passes in one of the latter's meetings with Southern California. This was merely in the nature of a tryout. Others among the right half candidates are Paul Franklin from Franklin college and Johnny Sisk, another Marquette contribution temporarily embarassed by a leg injury incurred during Thursday's scrimmage.

Conrad Collin, the newcomer from Creighton, continues to attract the attention of the coaches, and although he is listed as a left half he might be shoved to the opposite side in the event Ronzani is unable to start.

The signal drill, probably because the behemoths were pepped up by the chilly north wind, was run off with a semblance of rhythm and this caused Head Coach George Halas to shed some of his customary gloom.

Becker Punts Well.

In his search for a capable kicker, Assistant Coach Paddy Driscoll, who has charge of that department, has hit upon Wayland Becker, an end, as a possible aid. He's another newcomer and one of four Marquette men on the squad. He did practically all of Marquette's punting and, according to Tarzan Taylor, Marquette line coach who was present at the practice session, Becker is unusually reliable in punting out of dangerous territory. He also is a high grade pass catcher.

Yesterday afternoon's practice session was unexpectedly moved to Evanston at the request of Tug Wilson, Northwestern university's athletic director. Wilson requested the Bears show up there and give a demonstration of their short passing game before the coaching school. A number of the coaches in attendance are from high schools which employ the pro pass rule instead of the collegiate rule which provides passes must start at least five yards behind the line of scrimmage.

The Bears will not have their second scrimmage until Monday and whether they assemble for work tomorrow depends on how well they function today.

"Dear Burglar:

"It's okay about those diamond tiaras, ropes of pearls, and platinum watches you took out of the safe the other night, but please return those tickets to the football game between the college All-Stars and Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field Aug. 31.

"I got those tickets a long time ago and I've sort of become attached to them, looking at 'em and thinking of that great battle that's just around the corner.

"Besides, you can get some other tickets for yourself. They're on sale at the Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn, at Tribune Tower, and at the Hall of Science at A Century of Progress. And only $1.10—just hock a ruby, or something, and buy a dozen.

"You wouldn't want to order by mail, but folks who do can address Football Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower.

"Hoping you are the same,

"JOHN J. FAN."

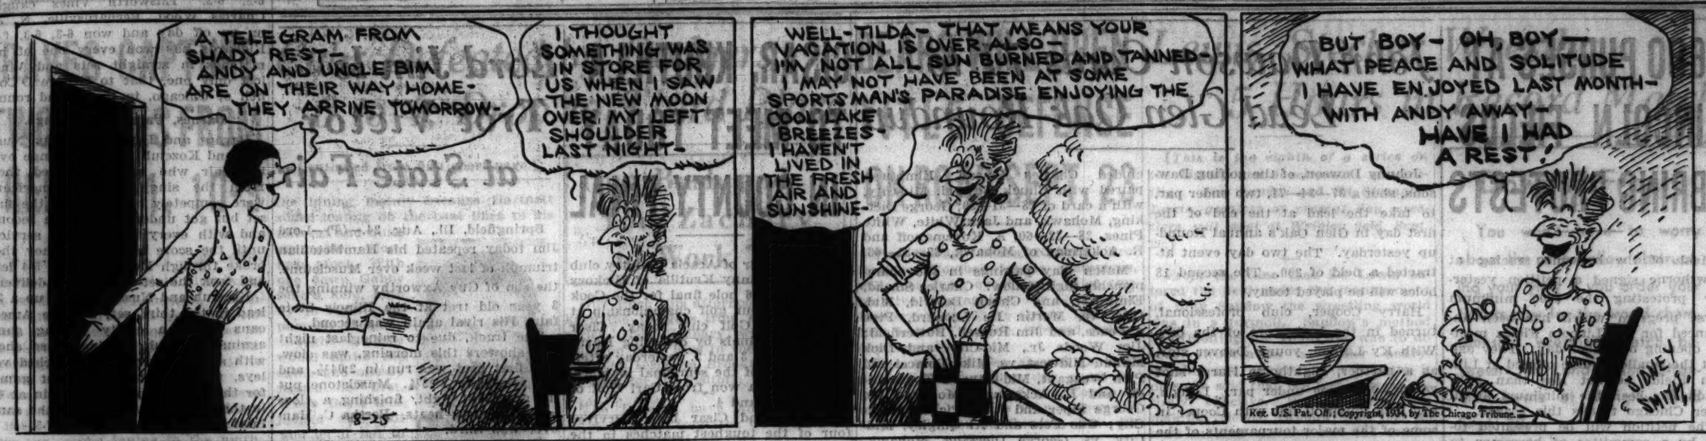
THE GUMPS—THE GLAD TIDINGS



FOUR BEARS AND A FOOTBALL READY TO GO

ALL-STARS GET DOUBLE PORTION OF SCRIMMAGE

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Coaches of the All-American football players yesterday devoted two practice sessions to detailed instructions in several departments of the game, stressing those points which are most essential if the college team expects to whip the Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field next Friday night.

In the morning, defense against forward passes kept the back field men busy for more than two hours. While these players were engaged in memorizing their assignments in anticipation of the aerial attack of the Bears, the burley linemen gathered in another section of the field and engaged in line scrimmage, both defensively and offensively.

Scrimmage on Kick Formations.

Last night's drill brought all the men together for scrimmage on kicking formations. Protection of the punters, formations for receiving punts and kickoffs were subject for critical observations b ythe coaches and intense effort by the players.

The amount of time devoted to kicking not only indicates the importance attached to keeping the Bears from blocking punts, an art which accounted for several of their victories last year, but indicates that the All-Americans hope to take advantage of superior punting to force the play into the Bears' territory.

It may be too far in advance of the Soldiers' field battle to anticipate team tactics, yet it is obvious to both sides that kicking may be a most important factor. The All-Americans will establish something of a record if they can play 60 minutes without the Bears breaking through to block a punt or to force the kicker to kick badly. This aggressiveness may offset the greater average distance the All-Stars should get in punting.

Passing Important, Too.

Then, too, the covering of kicks, in which the Bears' veteran ends, Bill Hewitt, Luke Johnsos, and Bill Karr, excell, may neutralize distance.

Granting a parity in line play, which, of course, may not be true despite approximately equal weights, forward passing is a second important factor. Although the All-American players are delighted that the college forward passing rule will be used Friday night, they realize any hesitation in their defense will give the Bears an opening. Hence the hours of practice against the Bears' attack.

The coaches apparently are satisfied with the progress of the squad. Rapid strides have been made, particularly because the boys have taken the game seriously and desire to be ready to play fast, hard football.

The schedule of practice today again provides for two drills, in the morning and afternoon. Then comes the final dash. Night practice next week probably will be alternated with the Bears, who will finish their prepara-

Dizzy Dean, Cards Whip Giants, 5 to 0

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Jerome Herman [Dizzy] Dean, making his first pitching appearance since he missed the train for Detroit Aug. 13, resumed the hero rôle today as he shut out the league leading Giants, 5 to 0. The victory moved the Cardinals into second place, ahead of the Chicago Cubs, who lost to Brooklyn again, and six games behind the Giants.

Dean let the league leaders down with five singles, struck out six and issued only two bases on balls. Until the sixth it was a spirited hurling duel between Dizzy and Joe Bowman, who was making his first start in several weeks. The Cards rose up and broke through with three runs, including home runs by Jack Rothrock and Jimmy Collins. St. Louis added two more in the seventh.

It was dizzy's fifth straight victory of the season over the Giants and his second shut out. He now has 22 victories against 5 defeats. Score:

Statistics Give Cubs Little Hope for Championship

A glimpse at the pennant table, which hereby makes the first appearance of the season, probably will not encourage the Cubs to step out and do things in a big way. And even if they did conduct themselves in such fashion, it would do them little good.

The leading Giants, with a six and one-half game lead over the Cubs, practically are in, barring a complete collapse. Even if the Giants win only half their remaining 34 games they'd not be running much risk of being caught by either the Cardinals or Cubs. If the Giants should win only 17 more, the Cubs would have to win 25 of 35, and the Cardinals 25 of 36. That would leave a final standing of:

Chicago	95	59	.617
St. Louis	95	59	.617
New York	94	60	.610

The White Sox, idle yesterday, lost their last mathematical chance for the American league pennant as the leading Detroit Tigers beat the Senators. The Sox, in eighth place, are 35½ games behind with only 35 games left to play.

W. AND J. COACH SENTENCED FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Washington, Pa., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Husky George Bartholomew, 49, athletic instructor at Washington and Jefferson college, today pleaded guilty to voluntary manslaughter in the death of Thomas Manis, female impersonator in night clubs, and was sentenced to from three to six years in prison.

The body of Manis, 23, was found in a field near Washington on June 16, the neck broken. Bartholomew, a wrestling coach, was arrested and admitted, police said, that he was fighting with the youth and that suddenly the latter "went limp." The coach asserted Manis was attempting to blackmail him for $300.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The poor, proud Cubs led with their chins again yesterday and got clipped, 6 to 4, in the second meeting of their three game series with the sixth place Dodgers. Pat Malone, who was about to be awarded a laurel wreath with "Old Reliable" artistically embossed thereon, joined his mediocre brethren in the not-so-hot class when he stumbled off the diamond with the bases full, one run in and one out in the fifth.

Due to this defeat, the Cubs dropped to third place, half a game behind the Cardinals and 6½ games behind the Giants. The Cardinals passed the Cubs in the league race by virtue of a victory over the Giants yesterday at St. Louis.

Cubs Use Four Pitchers.

Before his demise Malone had been nicked for a homer by Sam Leslie in the second, a homer by Frey and runs after hits by Danny Taylor and Joe Stripp in the fourth and fifth. Weaver, Lee, and Root followed Malone and no runs were charged to their accounts, although Weaver let two of his base runner legacy from Malone get home on a single by Leslie.

Babe Herman, who figured in the production of all four of his team's runs in the opener Thursday by driving in three runs and scoring two, figured similarly in all the four Cub runs yesterday. He drove in the first three runs with his No. 14 homer in the fifth, his second homer of the series, and he scored the final run on Gabby Hartnett's third hit in the seventh. Incidentally, Stan Hack, with a double and two singles was coupled with Gabby in the three-hit business.

Mungo Helps Benge.

Benge was the starting and winning pitcher, but Van Mungo had to help him out. Van worked 3 2-3 innings, in which he allowed one single and fanned five, including four in the last two innings.

The game was one of the noisiest of the year. Manager Grimm, in hanging a bum rap on Umpire Magerkurth in the second inning, sicked the gals on the officials. In the fifth the Cub skipper, encouraged by the continuous girlish shrieks, went too far in pursuing a legit beef to Umpire Quigley and was chased from the pandemonium.

Leslie Hits Homer.

ROMAN SOLDIER 8-5 FAVORITE IN JUVENILE STAKE

BY FRENCH LANE.

One of the most important races run each year at the Hawthorne track will be up for a decision today when a dozen of the best 2 year olds in the middle west compete for the Hawthorne Juvenile championship.

Names famous in turf history—Head Play, Hygro and others—have been winners of this fixture. Another star will have his name added to the list late today.

Roman Soldier, an eastern 2 year old owned by Max Hirsch of New York, which will carry top weight of 118 pounds, was made the 8 to 5 favorite in the overnight betting and it was expected he would be held at about those odds when the parade to the post starts.

Hope Eternal Second.

Hope Eternal, from the stable of Thomas C. Worden of Chicago, a sensational winner during the week, was fancied by others and was the second choice at 5 to 2. The first warders were not wagering very stoutly on Alderman Coughlin's entry of Advantage and Official. As a result this formidable pair was the third choice, at 4 to 1.

The prices ranged on up to 50 to 1, which were offered against Upside Down, owned by A. C. Bostwick of New York. This extreme outsider will be ridden by the veteran jocky, Charley Corbett. The weights range from the 100 pounds assigned Upside Down to the 118 to be carried by Roman Soldier.

Until Hope Eternal revealed spectacular speed earlier in the week the students of form had about concluded the juvenile championship was a race strictly between Roman Soldier and the Coughlin pair of Advantage and Official.

He's in New Company.

Roman Soldier's backers point to his three consecutive victories at Hawthorne, all of them scored in the easiest fashion, as the reason for anticipated triumph in the Juvenile. Still Roman Soldier has never met either Hope Eternal or Advantage. Those who like Advantage point to the two victories he scored at Arlington Park, one in very fast time and the other against horses rated better than any Roman Soldier has beaten.

The best line on the comparative ability of Roman Soldier and Advantage can be secured on their showing in the Wood Dale purse run over a good track at Arlington. It was contested in two divisions on the same afternoon. Although they raced in different divisions, both Roman Soldier and Advantage carried 114 pounds. Advantage ran five and one-half furlongs that day in 1:06 1-5 to win by five lengths over such good youngsters as Watersplash and Special Agent. Roman Soldier ran second by two lengths to Dancing Doll in the other division. Dancing Doll's time was 1:06 3-5.

They Still Like Advantage.

Roman Soldier led most of the way that day and stopped suddenly in the stretch. Therefore, the race may not have been his best effort. But to students of form, the two races indicate that Advantage is the better colt.

Among the outsiders, the Milky Way Farm entry of Irksome and Blue Amor had some backers and so did Spanish Babe, which will race for Mrs. Fred M. Grabner of Chicago. There were a few wagering on Grey Streak, a royally bred daughter of Pompey. Grey Streak won the only start of his career here earlier in the week.

The Juvenile championship is at six furlongs and will carry a cash prize of $2,000.

Australian Brood Mares Arrive in San Francisco

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Three Australian brood mares, two of them with foals by Night Raid, sire of Phar Lap, arrived today aboard the Maunganui, consigned to David J. Davis, San Francisco man who owned Phar Lap. The trio were Eaglet, Phaola, and Cynthia M., an Irish bred by the English sire, Eliade.

$600 PURSES AT LINCOLN FIELDS BRING PROTESTS

Most of the horsemen racing at Hawthorne signed a petition yesterday protesting the $600 minimum purse program which has been announced for the Lincoln Fields meeting opening on Labor day. They ask that the smallest purse offered at Lincoln Fields be not less than $800, which has been the minimum at all other Chicago tracks this season.

The petition will be presented today by a committee of horsemen to Col. Matt J. Winn, president of the American Turf association, and to C. Bruce Head, general manager of the Lincoln Fields course.

The overnight rain and a track deep in mud did considerable damage to yesterday's Hawthorne program. The feature race was called off and a claiming affair substituted. The seventh race also was canceled and another claiming race put in its place.

The best race on the program was a 2 year old event at six furlongs. It resulted in a thrilling finish, in which the favorite Virginella, owned by William Sachsenmaier, galloped up in the last strides to get the decision by a half length over Slim Rosie, owned by Ike Weil of Chicago. Newell, a Kentucky youngster, was a soundly beaten third.

Slim Rosie jumped into an early lead and had an advantage of a length when the race started. Virginella then began her drive and wore Slim Rosie down in a ding-dong run through the stretch. Virginella paid $8.22 after running the six furlongs in the slow time of 1:16.

Carl Rose, new chairman of the Florida racing commission, arrived yesterday and will watch the running of the Hawthorne Juvenile Championship handicap today.

The silks of James Norris Jr.'s Peconic stable were carried to one of their not too frequent victories yesterday by Sir Anthony, a 4 year old son of Black Tony-Dulcina II., in the sixth race. This was at 6½ furlongs. Fabulous, under a rather lazy stretch ride by Jocky C. Landolt, finished second and Kissie, from the barn of E. L. Kelly, was third.

The 9 year old mare, Sister Zoe, continues to win races. She rolled up her second Hawthorne victory yesterday when she took the track soon after the start and led the rest of the way home to win easily from Pat C and Ashen.

Jocky L. Haas, under contract to the John Marsch stable of Chicago, was suspended for the remainder of the Hawthorne season after striking Jocky Keester across the face with his whip during the running of the sixth race. Haas was riding Goyender, which finished fourth, and Keester was on Polyphote, far out of the money.

Jack Kennedy, Phoenix, Ariz., light heavyweight, will meet Bull Curry of Hartford, Conn., in the wrestling windup at the Marigold Gardens Wednesday night.

John Dawson Cards 71 to Lead Glen Oak Roundup

Johnny Dawson, of the golfing Dawsons, shot a 37—34—71, two under par, to take the lead at the end of the first day in Glen Oak's annual Roundup yesterday. The two day event attracted a field of 200. The second 18 holes will be played today.

Harry Cooper, club professional, turned in the best score of the day. With Ky Lafoon, young Denver star, as a partner, Lighthorse Harry shot 36—34—70, three under par. Lafoon, who has fought it out with Cooper in some of the major tournaments of the season, was no match for the Chicagoan yesterday. His card for the afternoon round was 37—39—76.

Johnny Comes Fast at Finish.

Dawson made a strong finish to acquire his 71. He was out in 37, one over par. On the home nine he breezed along with five straight par holes, which were followed by birdies on the 15th, 16th and 17th. He finished with a four for 34, three under par.

Dawson's card:

Deschler is Second.

Earl Deschler of the home club had the second best low gross score for the day, a 73. Warren Dawson, brother of John, and Bill Flynn, captain-elect of Northwestern university's golf team, were in third place, each carding 76. George Dawson, third of the Dawson brothers and Chicago district champion, was fourth, posting 39—39—78.

20 AUTO DRIVERS TO COMPETE AT ROBY TOMORROW

Twenty racing cars will run at Roby speedway tomorrow afternoon, where the third automobile meet of the season will be presented. There will be four events. Three will be sprint races at five miles and the other a 20 mile windup.

Heading the group of out of town drivers are Jimmy Brown, Detroit; L. L. Whitaker, Hammond, Ind.; Steve Milton, West Allis, Wis., and Don Rhue, Cedar Rapids, Ia. Other pilots entered include Carl Young and Johnny Gubner, Melrose Park, Ill., and Tip Hansne, Jimmy Blitz, Joe Pole, Ernie Carlson, Duke Mallou and Eddie Elden, all of Chicago.

SEVEN CANADIAN HORSEMEN FACE DOPING CHARGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 24.—Seven horsemen will appear before Canadian Racing association officials at a special meeting in Toronto next Monday to face charges of doping. The announcement was made today by David S. Gallies, chief steward at the Stamford race track.

The horsemen who were named following saliva tests of their horses are T. McCarthy, W. C. Weant, P. S. Price, J. A. Smith, M. MacIver, W. J. Donahue, and Arthur Hullcoat.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Illinois state fair will end tomorrow with automobile races, one of which will be for the American Automobile association's 100 mile dirt track championship.

Wild Bill Cummings, winner of this year's Indianapolis 500 mile race, will seek to wrest the dirt track championship from Billy Winn. Mauri Rose, runner-up to Cummings at Indianapolis, also will compete.

Brown Signs to Wrestle Pacer at White City

CISAR, KRUTILLA TO MEET TODAY IN COUNTY FINAL

George Cisar of Acacia Country club will meet Johnny Krutilla of Hickory Hills in the 36 hole final for the Cook county amateur golf championship at the Harlem Golf club today. Cisar reached the finals by defeating Harry Frankenberg, 3 and 2, yesterday afternoon in one of the semi-final matches, while Krutilla won from Carl Hoff of Big Oaks, 5 and 4.

Krutilla and Cisar both survived four of the toughest matches in the last two days to reach the finals. In his first match Thursday morning Krutilla defeated Hyman Juddlson, the medalist, and then went on to win from Sid Smith, Jack Chamberlin, and Carl Hoff. Cisar reached the finals by defeating John Toman, Al Anderegan, William Ennis, and Harry Frankenberg.

Cisar Out in 37.

Cisar in his semi-final match with Harry Frankenberg scored a 37, two over par on the first nine, to lead, 1 up. They halved six holes, with Cisar winning the fourth and ninth, and Frankenberg taking the third with a birdie three. Cisar increased his lead to two up when he scored an eagle on the 11th hole. The 12th was halved in par 3s, Cisar scored a birdie 3 on the 13th hole and a par 4 on the 14th to lead 4 up and dormie the match. Frankenberg came back to take the 15th when Cisar was stymied and lost the hole with a 5. The match ended on the next hole with a pair of fives.

Krutilla Rallies to Win.

Krutilla staged a rally on the second nine in his match with Hoff to win by 5 and 4. On the first nine Krutilla scored a 38 to lead 1 up. The match might have been all even at the end of the first nine, but Hoff three putted the ninth green to score a 4, while Krutilla was out of the sand trap on his first shot and two putted for a par 3. The first four holes of the second nine were won by Krutilla and they halved the 14th with a pair of 4s to end the match.

QUARTER-FINAL ROUNDS.

Carl Hoff defeated Gene Aldrich, 5 and 4.
George Cisar defeated William Ennis, 2 up.
Harry Frankenberg defeated Gary Peavey, 3 and 2.

CHICAGO GROUP TAKES LEASE ON HAVANA TRACK

The International Racing association, headed by Al Sabath of Chicago, has taken a 10 year lease on the Oriental track at Havana, Cuba, with the intention of running 10 racing seasons, starting next winter.

Sabath said yesterday he plans to sail for Havana Sept. 8, and check over the political and business situation in Cuba before announcing the racing program and dates. Sabath said he will take along his own officials, including: Presiding steward, Col. C. W. Hay, Frankfort, Ky.; parimutuel director, Albert Melcher, Cincinnati; starter, Jack Hodgins, Chicago; racing secretary, Francis Dunn, Chicago.

Oriental park was closed last season for the first time in 30 years, principally because of political disorders, Sabath said.

Richards and Vines Advance in Net Tourney

Bruce Barnes of St. Louis, and Emmett Pare, Memphis, scored an upset over Hans Nusslein, Germany, and Karel Kozeluh, Czechoslovakia, in the doubles semi-finals of the national professional tennis tournament at South Shore Country club yesterday. The American team came from behind in the last two sets to win 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, 7-5.

The last two American contenders for the singles championship moved into the semi-finals with straight set victories. Vincent Richards, New York, defending champion, eliminated Paul Heston, Washington, D. C., 6-3, 6-2, 6-2. Ellsworth Vines caught Charles Wood, Bernardsville, N. J., on an off day and won 6-3, 6-3, 6-2. Richards has won every one of his matches in straight sets and Vines lost only one, that to George O'Connell of Chicago, in the second round.

Barnes, Pare Get Revenge.

Barnes and Pare in beating Nusslein and Kozeluh gained revenge over the pair who had eliminated them from the singles. The Americans were competely outplayed in the first set but got under way in the second, and with every one holding services until the score was 4-all. They then broke through Kozeluh for a 5-4 lead and took the set on Barnes' delivery.

Kozeluh and Nusslein piled up a 3-0 lead in the third set, but the Americans began a crafty lobbing game against Kozeluh, mixing these shots with sizzling drives and punched volleys, to run out six straight games for the set. They trailed again at 4-2 in the fourth set, but using the same tactics, pulled up to win at 7-5.

Vines Meets Nusslein.

Kozeluh meets Richards.

Westrope Injured in Auto Crash in Iowa

Harlan, Ia., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Jack Westrope, who won the jocky championship last year, today was recovering from slight injuries suffered in an automobile accident near here last night.

ALLISON AND VAN RYN MEET LOTT, STOEFEN

Play Champions for U. S. Doubles Title.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—John Van Ryn of Philadelphia and Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., advanced to the final round of the national doubles tennis tournament today. They defeated the last foreign team in the meet, Roderick Menzel of Czechoslovakia and Vernon Kirby of South Africa. The scores were 4-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-0.

Default in Finals.

Katherine Stammers and Freda James, English stars, won the women's invitation doubles when Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana, Cal., and Mrs. John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, defaulted in the final round.

Miss Cruickshank said a shoulder injury, suffered during the Wightman cup matches in England, forced her to withdraw.

The teams of S. Ellsworth Davenport Jr. and his son, S. Ellsworth III., will meet Laird Watt, Canadian Davis cup star, and his father, R. N. Watt, in the finals of the father-son tournament. The Davenports defeated William J. Clother and son, 8-6, 9-7, while the Watts triumphed over Charles Whitehead and E. Harland Whitehead, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Miss Ryan, Stoefen Advance.

Miss Ryan and Stoefen advanced to the semi-finals of the mixed doubles by defeating Frank Wilde and Miss Stammers, 8-6, 4-6, 14-12. In another mixed doubles contest George Lott and Miss Jacobs reached the quarter finals, eliminating Frank Shields and Mrs. Maud Barger-Wallach, 6-1, 6-2.

GENO TO FIGHT BORN.

La Salle, Ill., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Young Geno, La Salle lightweight, will battle Sailor Born of Atlanta, Ga., in a 10 round bout here Monday night.

TIGERS TURN ON SENATORS AND TRIUMPH, 12-6

Detroit Gains Half Game on Idle Yankees.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers took some of the sting out of two successive defeats at the hands of the Senators today when they swamped Washington, 12 to 6, and increased their league lead to 4½ games over the idle Yankees.

Detroit locked up the game in the fifth inning by smashing over seven runs to break a 3 to 2 tie. Elden Auker went the full route for the Tigers, although he was touched for 15 hits, to win his 12th victory of the season.

Buck Everett and Joe Louis Meet Monday

Joe Louis, Detroit, Mich., heavyweight, and Buck Everett, Gary, Ind., will head the six bout card at Marigold. Johnny Gaudes, Milwaukee, Wis., bantamweight, and Lenny Cohen, Chicago, will meet at six rounds in the semi-final. Four round events will match Bill Treest with Ernie Evans at 170 pounds, and Milt Aaron with Eddie Smith at 137. Amsey Rimson, stablemate of Louis, will battle Spud Kelly. Jack [Bad Boy] Brown will wrestle Rudy Kay in the opening match.

Two matches at eight rounds each will comprise the feature contests on the program at White City. Johnny Phagan will meet Billy Hood and Tony Zale boxes William Stokes at 160 pounds. Bobby Millsap and Roughhouse Glover are paired for six rounds. Other bouts will bring into action Jack Moran and Lou Bartell at five rounds, and Jackie Dallas and Jimmy Richards at four.

Lou Brouillard, Worcester, Mass., middleweight, yesterday wired that an eye injury, suffered in a recent match, is not serious and he would be able to meet Solly Dukelsky if the match, scheduled at Mills stadium next Wednesday, could be postponed a week. James C. Mullen, who Thursday substituted George Nichols for Brouillard against Dukelsky, granted the request.

King Levinsky, heavyweight contender, started sparring yesterday by going two rounds with Tom Jones in anticipation of engaging in two fights next month. . . . The Kingfish may meet Stanley Poreda at Milwaukee in one. . . . Tony Cancela, Florida heavyweight, probably will battle Lee Ramage at Los Angeles Tuesday. . . . Amateur teams representing Northwest and Heniff gymnasiums, Jewish People's institute, Polish Youth organization, and Savoy, Belle Plaine, and Rollowitz athletic clubs will compete for the team trophy in the annual central A. A. U. outdoor boxing tournament at Ashland arena, Sept. 11, 12 ,and 19.

Everett [Young] Rightmire, Sioux City, Ia., featherweight, is being sought to meet Frankie Wolfram, Winnipeg, Man., at Sioux City, Sept. 3. . . . Wolfram and his light heavyweight stablemate, Mike Mitchell, Bellaire, O., are seeking Chicago bouts. . . . Charles [Midget] Fischer, middleweight and light heavyweight wrestling champion, will perform against Al Williams today at the Garden of Champions at A Century of Progress.

BIKE RELAY RIDER REACHES FAIR ON NEW YORK TRIP

The coast to coast bicycle relay passed through Chicago yesterday, carrying a message from the mayor of San Francisco to the mayor of New York. The long journey began last Sunday in the west coast city, and Charles Iaccino, Danish-American Cycling club, wheeled into the World's Fair bicycle exhibit in the late afternoon. Iaccino transferred the message to Henry Sima, Illinois champion.

Each relay rider speeds ten miles, and Edwin F. Merry, an official in the 1893 relay, said the cyclists are far ahead of the old record. The event sponsored by the League of American Wheelmen, is expected to create more interest in bicycling.

BRAVES CAPTURE TWO GAMES FROM REDS, 2-1, 10-9

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 24.—(AP)—With a home run and a triple already to his credit, Ernest Lombardi, Cincinnati catcher, grounded out with the tying and winning runs on bases in the ninth today, and Boston took the second game of a double-header, 10 to 9, after winning the first, 2 to 1.

Sox Rained Out; Play Two Games Today

Boston, Mass., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—There was no censure on the Boston management when it called off today's game between the Red Sox and White Sox, thus automatically making a double-header tomorrow. It started to rain shortly after noon and continued without abatement.

Double-headers have been the rule on this trip, the White Sox already having played three. They have three more before arriving back in Chicago—one tomorrow, one on Sunday in New York and one in St. Louis a week from today.

Manager Jimmy Dykes announced George Earnshaw and Harry [Slim] Kinzy would pitch tomorrow, the team's last appearance in Boston this season. Robert Moses Grove and Gordon [Dusty] Rhodes are eligible for the Red Sox. Quite a treat would be in store for the fans if Earnshaw and Grove, old pitching buddies, opposed each other.

Earnshaw will be seeking his 12th victory. Grove has won only five. The White Sox bought big George for something like $25,000. Grove cost the Yawkey-Collins combination a reported price of $125,000. That doesn't make J. Louis Comiskey appear foolish. Grove would have been a 100 to 1 shot before the season opened to score more victories than Earnshaw.

Dykes has high hopes of a great future for Kinzy, who held the Senators to five hits in his first major league start. The big Texan is almost a dead ringer for Howard Ehmke, former Athletic hurler, in build and pitching style. Muddy Ruel, veteran catcher and coach, has been instructing the youngster since he joined the club and is optimistic over Kinzy's progress.

Return of the White Sox regulars has transformed the club from a sloppy aggregation to a hustling outfit that is actually beginning to gain confidence. The Sox have won four out of nine on this trip and have made only six errors.

Cubs Defeated by Dodgers, 6 to 4; Drop to Third Place

the inning mainly because Hartnett added loafing on the base lines to his natural and quite excusable slowness afoot. With one down Gabby sent a long, high fly to right. Apparently Gabby thought Boyle would make the catch and merely jogged to first. When Boyle misjudged the ball and let it fall to the ground Gabreached second. If he had done a normal amount of hustling even Gabby could have reached third.

GABBY HARTNETT.

After Hurst had sent a gentle fly to Taylor, Jurges walked and Malone came to bat. Pat crashed a single to left, which Taylor overran a few steps. Instead of hustling for home Hartnett turned to see what was going on and, seeing Taylor in front of the ball as he rounded third, started a leisurely jog to the plate. In the meantime, Taylor recovered the ball, and seeing Jurges racing for third, made a nice throw to Stripp to catch Jurges and retire the side. Hartnett was three or four feet from the plate, standing up, when Jurges was put out, retiring the side.

Grimm Protests Decision.

The second run off Malone also was a lead-off homer. Frey made it to start the fourth. Taylor followed with his second hit, a double to left, went to third on Leslie's out, and scored when Cuccinello went out to Hurst on the squeeze play. Hack threw out Koenecke.

The fifth netted the Dodgers three runs and the Cubs trips to the clubhouse for Malone and Grimm. Stripp pushed off with a single to center and went to third on Lopez's single to the same terrain. Benge lined to Jurges. A low wild pitch hit Hartnett on the foot and bounded six feet from the plate, Stripp scoring and Lopez taking second while Gabby writhed in pain. The injury to Hartnett seemed to pain Pat more than it did Gabby, for the big fellow walked Boyle and Frey, filling the bases. Malone then was yanked and Weaver strode into the arena.

Decision Leads to Quarrel.

Taylor bounced to Weaver, who threw to Hartnett at the plate to force Lopez, but Gabby's throw to first pulled Hurst off the bag, the bases remaining loaded. Leslie ran the count to three balls and two strikes, then singled to center, scoring Boyle and Frey and putting Taylor on third. Leslie stole second and, after feinting a throw to get Sam, Hartnett shot a nice throw to Hack to get Taylor off third.

Hack apparently had the out by two or three feet but Umpire Quigley called Danny safe. This time Manager Grimm really had a kick coming but he overplayed his license and after a debate in which almost the entire cast joined, Boss Charles was bounced right out of the panorama. Cuccinello popped to Jurges after the five minute harangue.

For a spell in the fifth the Cubs really looked like they used to look in more heroic days. With one down Hack delivered the second of his series of hits, a single to right and stopped at second on English's carom off Leslie's glove. Stainback flied to Taylor then Babe Herman crashed that No. 14 homer into the right field bleachers, Hack and English scoring ahead of him.

After Lee had retired Boyle, Frey, and Taylor in order in the seventh the Cubs rang up their fourth run. Babe Herman walked and went to second in Cuyler's tap to Cuccinello. Hartnett then delivered his third hit, a single to center, scoring Babe Herman.

Guy Bush and Tom Zachary to Work Today

Guy Bush this afternoon will try to keep the Dodgers from sweeping the series. Tom Zachary, who stood the Cubs on their ears in the final of the last Cub series in Brooklyn, is slated to work for the visitors.

The temperature was the lowest since early spring. Top coats were in demand among the male customers, and many of the 20,000 lady guests wore furs.

For weeks the Cubs urged their confidants to "just wait until that August home stay." The said home stay now shows six defeats and four victories for the faded Chicago heroes.

The Cubs' counting room continued to ask that the public be reminded that a single game will be played with the Giants tomorrow. It seems hundreds of customers are expecting a bargain bill.

Billy Herman attended the game in civies. Billy, whose left ankle was hurt in a collision in the first inning of the Dodger opener, hopes to be in the lineup against the Giants tomorrow. There is some hope, too, that Klein will see service against the champions.

WEST POLO TEAM RIDES THROUGH EIGHT CHUKKERS

Westbury, L. I., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The West's polo squad galloped through an eight period workout on the army ground at Mitchel field this afternoon with a blue team led by Eric Pedley and Cecil Smith defeating the Whites, who had Rube Williams and Elmer Boeseke in its lineup, 10 goals to 5.

Pedley and Smith rode at one and two with the Blues, with Bob Bullock and Lin Howard behind them. Williams was at three and Boeseke at back for the Whites, with Tom Mather and Seymour Knox in front. Pedley and Smith were going very well in front, teaming together beautifully and hitting with deadly accuracy. Pedley was outstanding in this respect, scoring five times. Howard was again a most useful back, continuing the brilliant play he has shown since his arrival in the east.

BIG SIX LEADERS HAVE POOR DAY; AVERAGES FALL

Four active members of the Big Six made only three hits yesterday and there was a general downward trend in the averages. Charley Gehringer, who made two hits in five trips to the plate, held his mark at .364 for fourth place. Bill Terry hit once in four tries, dropping one point to .369. Heinie Manush fell into a tie with idle Paul Waner for second place, losing two points, while Mel Ott lost three. The standings:

CHICAGOAN TIES FOR SECOND IN CASTING EVENT

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 24.—(AP)—A "sunken" fly cost a Chicago sportsman the championship in the dry fly accuracy division of the national casting tournament today. The winner was Judge E. E. Cavanaugh of Fort Dodge, Ia., who after his 10 casts had only four demerits.

I. R. McCall of Chicago made nine perfect hits and his 10th landed within the one foot zone. But one of his flies sank instead of landing perfectly on the water surface and for this he was penalized five demerits, giving him a total of six and leaving him a tie for second with Milton Mild of St. Louis.

SCHOOLBOY ROWE RECOVERS FROM ANKLE INJURY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—It was learned here today at Schoolboy Rowe, star pitcher of the league leading Detroit Tigers, has completely recovered from an ankle injury and will take his regular turn on the mound tomorrow against the Washington Senators.

If Rowe succeeds in scoring his 16th straight victory tomorrow he will tie the American league record jointly held by Walter Johnson, Joe Wood, and Bob Grove. Washington is the only team Rowe has failed to defeat in piling up his string of victories.

MEXICAN ARMY POLO TEAM WILL FACE AMERICANS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Mexico's Army polo team arrived in Washington today to start preparations for its three matches with a picked United States Army squad on Sept. 19, 23, and 26. The Mexicans, however, will play in Baltimore before meeting the Americans.

BEARS WILL OPEN TITLE DEFENSE ON ROAD SEPT. 23

The Chicago Bears, National Professional Football league champions, will open their quest for a third consecutive title against the Green Bay Packers Sept. 23 at Green Bay, the 1934 league schedule, released yesterday, revealed.

The schedule also showed the traditional Thanksgiving day game between the Bears and the Cardinals will not be held this year. However, they will meet on Sunday, Nov. 25, four days earlier.

Cardinals Highly Regarded.

The Cardinals, under the ownership of Charles W. Bidwill, and rated highly because of the acquisition of 23 new players including last year's college stars, will open the Chicago season against Cincinnati on Sept. 23. The Bears will play their first home game on Oct. 14 against the Cardinals.

The season will end Dec. 2. The sectional champion will meet on the home field of the eastern team for the league title. The Ed Thorp Memorial trophy will be awarded to the winner.

Detroit Joins League.

Teams in the western division in addition to the Bears and Cardinals, include Detroit, Green Bay, and Cincinnati. The Portsmouth, O., franchise was moved to Detroit several months ago. In the eastern section are New York, Boston, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, and Pittsburgh.

Windup In Stadium.

Present plans will make possible practice Thursday night at Soldiers' field by both teams. These final tuneups, merely to become accustomed to wind currents in the huge lake front stadium, will be secret. None except players and coaches will be admitted. The teams will practice an hour each and will not meet on the gridiron. All equipment will be moved on Thursday afternoon.

Aaron Rosenberg, Southern California guard who heads the all-star hospital list, was hobbing around the Wrangler house yesterday. He reports daily to Trainer Carl Erickson, who is striving to get him in condition. Others on the squad have an assortment of bruises and strains from scrimmage sessions, but none is considered sufficiently serious to prevent competition Friday night.

Requests for press reservations continue to pour into THE TRIBUNE offices. Newspapers from coast to coast are planning to send staf men. Those asking telegraph service have first call on the press boxes on both sides of the field and the overflow will probably be accommodated in the stands.

BASEBALL TAX MAY CLOSE PARK, BREADON SAYS

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Officials of the St. Louis Cardinals baseball club today told aldermen the club might be driven from the city if a proposed 10 per cent municipal sports admissions tax should be adopted.

Sam Breadon, club president, asserted at a hearing that the Cardinals had lost more than $100,000 last year and the same amount in 1932.

Breadon added that the proposed tax, like the 10 per cent federal tax, would have to be passed on to patrons, making the total cost of a grandstand seat $1.20 and of a bleacher seat 60 cents.

He said he was fearful an added tax would drive away customers, pointing to a reduction in attendance attributed to the federal tax.

Lewis, Stecher Wrestle 5 Hours in Record Match

[This is the eighth of a series on the history and development of wrestling. Jim Londos and Ed Strangler Lewis, greatest of present day wrestlers, will meet at Wrigley field, Sept. 20.]

From the time that Ed Lewis entered the field under the management of Billy Sandow the wrestling world was in a turmoil. Sandow's method of exploiting the youngster was to direct vituperation at other heavyweights and, in justice to Sandow, it must be said that the means were entirely effective. While Lewis was making friends, Sandow was just as busy making enemies and the combination worked perfectly to bring in money.

With Stecher claiming the title Lewis wrestled his way to a point where he could demand a match with the Nebraska scissors king, and it was finally made in Omaha. Beginning late in the afternoon, the two men battled for five hours, finishing with automobile lamps furnishing light. Referee Ed Smith, Chicago, finally stopped the match and declared it a draw. It still holds the record for distance in modern wrestling.

Caddock Beats Stecher.

While Lewis and Stecher were romping along through the heavyweights and making mat history, Earl Caddock began attracting notice through matches in his native state of Iowa. Caddock, a tall, powerful youngster whose chief assets were a great pair of arms, brought back the science of wrestling. He was known as "the boy with a thousand holds." Caddock finally obtained a match with Stecher and defeated him.

Caddock enlisted in the army and later defeated nearly all his challengers. After an elimination tournament in New York he met Stecher, defeated him, and retired.

Stecher, again recognized as champion, met Lewis for the second time in Des Moines and Lewis triumphed. After a tour of Europe and the United States Lewis was matched in New York with Stanislaus Zbyszko. This was the match that began the verbal battle that promises to end at Wrigley field, Sept. 20, when Jim Londos and Lewis tangle.

Rules of American wrestling in recent years had provided for "pin falls" only, in which the victor must hold both shoulders of his opponent to the mat for three seconds.

William Muldoon, former title claimant, then risen to the chairmanship of the New York athletic commission, apparently was dissatisfied with the conduct of many of the matches. A few minutes before the men entered the ring he informed them that rolling falls would be permitted.

Lewis and Sandow protested. Lewis, never having wrestled under such conditions, was beaten by the veteran Pole, but soon obtained a rematch and defeated Stanislaus and reclaimed the heavyweight championship.

From that time on Lewis was the stormy petrel of the wrestling game. A game, courageous, resourceful athlete who coupled his tremendous strength with a profound knowledge of wrestling holds, there is little doubt of his championship caliber.

Londos Challenges Lewis.

From the day he won his claim to the title, however, Lewis had been annoyed by the constant challenges of Jim Londos, a youthful Greek who had come up from the ranks of the amateurs in San Francisco. Londos, who scaled 180 pounds, was firm in his belief he could beat Lewis. Time after time he was afforded the opportunity. Lewis declares he defeated Londos fourteen times in a couple of years. Londos admits defeat, but says it was only eight times that the burly Lewis defeated him.

Down in Front!

You won't have to worry about the other fellow obstructing your view if you order your tickets now for the world championship wrestling match between Jim Londos and Strangler Lewis at Wrigley field Sept. 20.

Mail orders are being accepted today for the match wrestling fans have been waiting years to see. Send them to the Wrestling Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

Nipigon Anglers Find Giant Brook Trout Biting Now

BY BOB BECKER.

Nipigon River, Ont., Aug. 24.—When you reach camp on the Nipigon river [opposite the town of Nipigon] in time to see a smiling fisherman check in with a five pound six ounce brook trout [Salvelinus fontnalis] you know that you haven't taken the wrong road or made any mistake about finding the right river.

The Nipigon stands all by itself in the heart of the American continent as the stream which grows the largest specimens of brook trout. This fast, rocky stream, now partially harnessed by hydro projects, once made a fisherman delirious by giving him a 14½ pound brook trout which today is a world's record for this species.

With this big specimen on the records, anglers from all over the country continue to come to the Nipigon in the hope that another 14 pounder will come surging out of a pool and attach himself to a hook. And in the meantime fish weighing anywhere from a pound or two [small fry in these waters although such trout are whoppers in streams which most of us fish in the middle west] up to five or six, or eight pounds, are being taken from the Nipigon.

The five pound six ounce brook trout brought into camp last evening just as we were unpacking our duffel, was caught on a spinner lure. It caused more than the usual amount of joy among the dark skinned Indian guides because it apparently marked the end of a period of slow fishing. One never knows for sure just why trout or other game fish will suddenly stop biting and then just as suddenly start to smack lures.

Up here the big brook trout ceased to be interested in lures a few days ago. Now they are hitting again, so the boys are going around with big smiles this morning in the belief that from now on to the end of the season there will be action galore with these whopping big brook trout of the Nipigon.

Midwest League Teams Today in Picnic Feature

All-star teams from the semi-pro and amateur divisions of the Midwest Baseball league will meet this afternoon at Schiller park in the league's first annual picnic and outing.

The South Shore and Garfield Park baseball teams will play a twilight game Tuesday at McKinley park, in the concluding contest in the Chicago Postoffice league.

Negro Nines Assemble for All-Star Game

The 32 players chosen by fans to participate tomorrow at Comiskey park in the second annual All-Star baseball game between teams of the Negro National league arrived last night and reported to David Malarcher, manager of the western team, and Oscar Charleston, pilot of the eastern group. A few of the men will take light workouts today and then rest until the game.

Satchell Paige, the pitcher the eastern fans are relying on to baffle the west's batters, came into the city and pronounced his right arm in shape to go nine innings if Manager Charleston desires him to do so. He asked permission to go the route in an attempt to set a strikeout record.

Paige and his battery mate, Josh Gibson, both of the Pittsburgh Crawfords,

ASSURES HINDUS OF NO 'HARDSHIP' IN LAND CASES

Arizona Governor Confers with British Consul.

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Assurances there will be no hardships on Hindus in actions against violators of Arizona's alien land law were given today by Gov. B. B. Moeur to Wentworth Gurney, British consul at Los Angeles.

Gurney came to Phoenix because of threats, now withdrawn, of Salt River valley farmers to start a "night riding" campaign against aliens allegedly working cotton and truck farm under illegal leases.

He intervened in the case of M. Rahmatula, charged with violating the law prohibiting ownership and leasing of farms by aliens. Several other Hindus and numerous Japanese were threatened by farmers who ordered aliens to leave the district by Saturday night. The threat was withdrawn when state officials promised legal action to remove those violating the law.

Gov. Moeur told Gurney there would be no violence in connection with the state's investigation of the situation in the Salt river valley, which is the home of about 1,000 Japanese and 24 Hindus.

"I assure you," Gov. Moeur told the consul, "there will be no hardship on these people [Hindus]."

JOHN JUNGLES, WAR VETERAN, DIES AT HINES

John Jungles, 35 years old, of Aurora, former junior vice commander of the Illinois department, Veteran of Foreign Wars, died yesterday at the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital after an illness of almost a year.

Mr. Jungles' illness was an outgrowth of injuries suffered when he was gassed in the battle of Argonne forest in 1918. Following the battle, he was hospitalized for many months.

Known for his athletic skill as a boy in Aurora, Mr. Jungles entered the service Jan. 6, 1918, enlisting in the 526th regiment at Camp Grant when he was 19 years old. He was honorably discharged July 16, 1919.

Surviving him are his widow and one child. Funeral arrangements will be announced.

ROBERT JOHNSON, DEAN OF RAILWAY CHEFS, DIES AT 72

Robert P. Johnson, oldest chef in point of service on the Chicago and North Western railway and for 35 years chef to the successive presidents of the road, died at his home, 5034 Champlain avenue, yesterday after a brief illness.

Mr. Johnson was 72 years old and a native of Columbus, O. He was a member of the Masonic lodge. His last railway assignment was a chief of the special train which brought President Roosevelt from Green Bay, Wis., to Chicago on his recent trip east.

Mr. Johnson is survived by his widow, Mrs. Maggie Johnson. Burial will be in Painesville, O.

Widow of Former Senator from Nebraska Is Dead

Long Beach, Cal., Aug. 24.—(AP)—After an illness of five weeks, Mrs. Eunice Blancke Allen, 87, widow of former U. S. Senator William Vincent Allen of Madison, Neb., died at her home today.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Rational Planning

TRAIN HITS AUTO IN MIDLOTHIAN; 1 KILLED, 3 HURT

Michael Schuster, 45 years old, 11817 Harvard avenue, was killed and three persons were injured early today when the automobile in which they were riding was struck on the 147th street crossing of the Rock Island tracks in Midlothian by a south bound train.

The injured are Schuster's wife, Mary; John Ganges, 11 West 112th street, and his wife, Gertrude. All are between 45 and 50 years old. They were taken to the Oak Forest infirmary, where it was said the condition of Mrs. Schuster was critical.

Mrs. Jennie Greenbaum, 73 years old, 6139 North Francisco avenue, died in the Michael Reese hospital early today of injuries suffered on Aug. 4, when she was struck at Devon and Francisco avenues by an automobile driven by Otto Costantini, 31 years old, 6822 Elwood avenue. Her death and that of Schuster increased the 1934 motor fatalities in Cook county to 774.

The Evanston police were informed early today that Patrolman Michael Rogan, who had been a member of the department for two years, was killed in an automobile accident last night at Washington, Ind. His wife, who had started with him on a trip when his furlough began yesterday, was injured. Rogan was 33 years old and resided at 122 Clyde avenue, Evanston.

As he traveled south in Columbus drive, Mr. Walker's car skidded on the wet pavement and struck a safety island. He was taken unconscious to St. Luke's hospital, where physicians said he had incurred a concussion of the brain and severe cuts on his chest.

Stephen Campert, 5026 Berea street, East Chicago, a steel worker, was recommended held to the grand jury on a manslaughter charge by a coroner's jury which investigated the killing of two men in a hit-and-run accident at 130th street and Indiana avenue early yesterday. Campert testified at the inquest that he was intoxicated and could not remember what had happened.

MRS. WHITEHOUSE GRANTED DECREE; WAIVES ALIMONY

Mrs. Lucille Douglas Whitehouse was awarded an uncontested divorce from her husband, Howard D. Whitehouse, 70 East Walton place, investment banker, by Superior Judge Joseph B. David yesterday, after efforts to effect a reconciliation had failed.

Mrs. Whitehouse, former wife of W. A. S. Douglas, soldier-author and former Chicago newspaper man, had charged Whitehouse with cruelty. They were married May 28, 1933.

In her suit, which was filed by Attorney Benjamin Davis, Mrs. Whitehouse waived claim to alimony. It was reported that Mrs. Whitehouse had received a settlement of $5,000 in lieu of alimony.

William H. H. Wiend, 89, Dead at Coldwater Home

Coldwater, Mich., Aug. 24.—[Special.] — William Harvey Herendon Wiend, 89, civil war veteran, superintendent of the Michigan state public schools during 1881-'92, and former business manager of the Lansing State Journal, Bronson Independent and Petoskey Democrat, died at his home here suddenly this morning. Wiend's mother was a cousin of President Chester A. Arthur.

LOG FIRES BRING THRILLS FOR ALL CAMP ALGONQUIN

Cool Weather Starts Outdoor 'Roasts.'

The snappy weather yesterday brought high excitement to every corner of Camp Algonquin, for it meant log fires in the fireplaces for the mothers and marshmallow roasts for the youngsters in the outdoor council rings.

Scarcely had the day dawned than the sturdiest boy campers began carrying armloads of wood to all cottages and dormitories equipped with fireplaces. Fires were laid in the hearths of the big refectory and the flames leapt up merrily as the 500 vacationists from impovrished Chicago homes gathered for their meals.

Girls Have Corn Roast.

Then last evening the older girls had a corn roast to learn how roasting ears can be cooked in the ashes, while the boys with sweet tooths toasted marshmallows. Even the tiny children in the nursery showed delight at the pretty fire in their own special fireplace.

Reluctant to leave the camp after spending the summer, 70 of the boys and girls returned to Chicago yesterday. They brought their parents a surprise, however, because they would scarcely have been recognized as the undernourished, pale children who left their homes the first of July.

Rest, wholesome food, and supervised play had worked wonders. Most of the children had gained in weight, and all appeared much healthier than early in the summer. Every child took home a gift for members of his family made in the handicraft classes. Some of these included clothing for the smaller brother or sister, footstools for father, or an embroidered luncheon set for mother.

Last Group Leaves Next Week.

The last delegation of mothers and children to visit the camp this summer will leave next week over the Chicago and North Western railroad, which has transported the campers free of charge all season. The camp will be closed for the winter Sept. 14.

A gift of $30 was received yesterday from an anonymous donor to the camp fund, bringing the grand total to $6,188.16. Contributions to both the camp and the free ice fund will be welcomed from THE TRIBUNE readers so that these two worthy charities may complete their season's tasks. Gifts should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

FLORIDA CHAIN GANG FUGITIVE WINS NEW DELAY

Hearing on a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of Howard Beck, 29 years old, a fugitive from a Florida chain gang who was seized here recently, was continued yesterday until next Thursday by Acting Chief Justice Michael Feinberg in the Criminal courts.

Attorney W. W. O'Brien, counsel for Beck, requested the delay, saying he expects papers from Springfield whch will aid the fugitive. The attorney did not ask for a writ, but indicated he may follow this action upon the arrival of the papers.

Previously Judge Francis Borrelli in the South State street court had dismissed a fugitive warant for want of prosecution inasmuch as Judge Feinberg had taken jurisdiction in the case.

Beck, sentenced to life in the chain gang for the murder of a Florida policeman, made a second escape in July of last year. He was arrested in his home at 6821 Emerald avenue after some one, supposedly seeking the $25 reward Florida pays for the return of felons, had informed police of his whereabout.

Harry P. Wilkins, Formerly of Wilmette, Dies in East

Word was received here yesterday of the death in Brookline, Mass., last Saturday of Harry P. Wilkins, formerly a resident of Wilmette and more recently of New York City. Funeral services were held Tuesday in Boston. During his residence in Wilmette Mr. Wilkins was active in civic affairs, and also was prominently identified with Boy Scout work and other activities concerned with the development of youth. He is survived by his widow, Jessie E., and three sons, Robert, John, and Harry M.

S. F. Wilson, Pioneer Chicagoan, Dies on Coast

S. F. Wilson, a clothing merchant of early days in Chicago, who has been living in Pasadena, Cal., since his retirement in 1913, died at his home there yesterday, according to word received here. He was 79 years old. Mr. Wilson's residence here was at 1111 Forest avenue, Evanston. He is survived by one son, Carleton, who has continued to operate his father's business at 314 North Michigan avenue. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Mindful of the possibility of an attempted boycott on radio, such as the Legion of Decency is essaying against the movies, a group of the biggest bandsmen in the broadcasting business have organized the "Committee of Five for the Betterment of Radio." The committee, composed of Paul Whiteman, Rudy Vallee, Guy Lombardo, Abe Lyman, and Richard Himber, claims the backing of many important orchestra leaders throughout the land in its campaign to clear the air of sultry and suggestive song lyrics. Subcommittees are to be formed in Chicago, San Francisco, and Los Angeles. The plan is to meet weekly to designate banned titles. These are to be sent to publishers with requests that lyricists revamp their words.

Meanwhile Don Bestor, another radio music man of consequence, together with Arthur Cremin, music director for New York schools, has launched a movement for the censorship of provocative rhythm and harmony which they maintain "by its insidious influence is undermining public morals to a greater extent than the lyrics do." Bestor and Cremin are directing their campaign against the type of "jungle music" Cab Calloway turns out. But there is no general agreement among musicians that such rhythm is seductive. Many a listener would swear that there is no more sex in Calloway's scat singing than there is in a broomstick. There are many who insist, for example, that Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" is considerably more of an excitant then the boleros and cariocas of the modernists. So it would seem Bestor does not have clear sailing ahead.

When Elizabeth Milligan, NBC hostess, received a package yesterday addressed "To the Late Three C's" [the singing Clitherow brothers], and heard ticking from within, she called the police. Suspecting a bomb, they put the ticking parcel into a pail of water and finally opened it cautiously. It was an alarm clock. Morning beforе Announcer Don McNeill had chided the Clitherow boys over the air for being late to their Breakfast Club broadcast. A fan could not resist the impulse to send a clock.

While on the air over WLS yesterday morning Dr. Herman Bundesen received a call from Cook County hospital asking that he appeal for volunteers over the radio for donors of blood for baby Lily Segust, who lay near death. No match for her type could be found at the hospital. Within five minutes a man reported at the hospital; fortunately his blood was of the right type and the transfusion was made. In 15 minutes two other listeners responded.

Chiete Militia band, Mussolini's Black Shirt organization, will reach Chicago Monday to visit the Fair. The orchestra will be heard over NBC at 9:30 p. m. in a half hour concert. . . . Dick Liebert, NBC organist, played in church for the first time the other day when he provided the music for Jimmy Wallington and his bride, Anita Furman. Wallington is best known as Eddie Cantor's announcer and straight man.

VIRGINIA LOOMIS, STAGE SINGER, DANCER, IS DEAD

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Virginia Loomis, one of the Loomis sisters, dancing and singing team, lay dead today in Roosevelt hospital. She was 21. She died of amebic dysentery which set in after an operation for appendicitis.

In a room adjoining Virginia's, her sister, Maxine, 18, lies critically ill of stomach ulcers. She was not told of Virginia's death until several hours later.

The sisters, who recently flew to Boston to appear in a musical comedy, were inseparable companions off stage as well as on it. Just before she was stricken, Virginia signed a film contract and was to have departed for Hollywood, hopefully headed for stardom.

The sisters came to Broadway in 1932 and made a hit with their soft voiced singing in a "Billy Rose revue." They reached the top in their specialty in George White's "Scandals" and since had been drawing cards at night clubs.

Major William Simpson, Native of Chicago, Dead

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Maj. William J. P. Simpson, 49, engineer who at one time served as personal aid to Herbert Hoover, died last night after a four months' illness as a result of shell shock suffered in the world war. He was a native of Chicago. He held the Croix de Guerre for taking advanced positions during the operatio is in the Toul sector during the war. He was sent to Poland and Russia in 1918 in connection with the peace conference.

CROONS TURN TO CROAKS IN RADIO HUNGER STRIKE

Handed $3,600 in Checks but Demand More.

MEXICO CITY, D. F., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Mexico's famished radio crooners were handed a check for several thousand pesos tonight by officials of the Pan-American Radio company, owners of the station, but the crooners said it wasn't enough, and went right on with their hunger strike.

It will be 80 hours at midnight since they have eaten, yet the group of striking performers insisted that their claim for a total of 12,000 pesos in back salaries [about $3,600] must be met in full.

Predicts It Will End Today.

The chief of the federal labor department announced the strike would terminate tomorrow as soon as the check could be cashed and the employés paid.

Exhausted by their three days without food and the strain of continuing the programs, the hunger strikers today received the help of artists from other studios.

As the virtually exhausted group of 30 announcers and artists neared their eightieth foodless hour, several outsiders, amateur performers, socially prominent, and one blind fiddler drove out to the station atop Mixcoac hill to relieve the strikers at the microphone.

Win Support of Workers.

While the weaker ones bound their heads to relieve giddiness, the stronger carried on with music, songs, and speeches. Outside steadily increasing crowds of curious gathered and among these the vendors of tortillas, tacos, frijoles and other Mexican staples did thriving business.

Representatives of various workers and students' organizations sent word to the strikers they were behind them and numbers of merchants contributed advertisements to their cause.

The strikers charge that the Ericsson Telephone company, which they assert owns the 600 kilocycle 1,000 watt station, has refused to pay them back wages. The company, on the other hand, denies steadfastly having any financial interest in XEAL.

START FRIENDLY COURT ACTION TO TEST U. OF C. GIFT

A friendly suit to determine whether or not the University of Chicago may legally accept trusteeship of $2,500,000 left it by the late Walter G. Zoller, wealthy coal dealer, to establish a free dental clinic, was brought in the Superior court yesterday by the First National bank, trustee and executor of the Zoller estate, against 11 heirs, the university, and Attorney General Otto Kerner.

Attorney Thomas Condon, who filed the suit, explained it was brought without ill feeling merely to determine the university's legal right to administer the fund as ordered in Mr. Zoller's will. The university, under its state charter, can accept endowments only for educational purposes, he said. The court is to be asked to determine whether acceptance of the Zoller money would violate the charter.

Under terms of the bequest the free clinic is to be available to the poor and needy. Mr. Condon indicated that if the university is not legally entitled to carry out the terms of the will, steps may be taken to turn the money over to a charitable institution to use for setting up a clinic.

FREE POLICEMAN IN NILES CENTER SLUGGING CASE

Capt. A. C. Stollberg, acting chief of the Niles Center police, was freed yesterday when he was arraigned before Police Magistrate Willis R. Brightmire of Evanston on a charge of assault and battery brought by Frank Wiltgen, Main street and Kimball avenue, Niles Center.

Wiltgen and his son, Alfred, testified at the hearing that the family was holding a party Aug. 4 in celebration of the approaching marriage of Alfred's sister. They alleged that Acting Chief Stollberg came to their home and without provocation beat them with a blackjack.

Stollberg testified that he visited the home to find a free for all fight in progress. He said he found the elder Wiltgen stretched face down on the lawn and that when he attempted to help him into the house Wiltgen became violent and abusive. He denied having struck either Wiltgen or his son, and declared he never carried a blackjack.

After hearing the testimony Magistrate Brightmire dismissed the charges on motion of the state.

JOHN A. TOPPING DIES; LEADER IN STEEL INDUSTRY

Greenwich, Conn., Aug. 24.—(AP)—John A. Topping, former president of the Republic Iron and Steel company and for nearly 50 years a leader in the steel industry, died tonight at his home.

Born in St. Clairsville, O., he was the son of Henry Topping, a staf officer during the civil war with Gen. William S. Rosecrans. His grandfather, a pioneer in the iron manufacturing industry of Virginia, was a soldier in the revolution.

Youth, 16, Caught in Trap to Catch Speedboat Thief

Walking into a trap set by coast guards to catch the thief who stole a speedboat several hours earlier, Joseph Barr, 16 years old, 537 North Wabash avenue, was seized yesterday and turned over to the police. The boat stolen was the Golden Arrow, reported missing from its mooring place near the Michigan avenue bridge earlier in the day. In the afternoon coast guards found the boat tied up at a pier at the foot of Randolph street. When captured there, Barr protested he had merely stepped into the boat to pull in a dragging tarpaulin.

GRAINS FINISH HIGHER, DUE TO BELATED SPURT

Rally in Corn Prices Aids Whole Market.

Grain trading drifted aimlessly during most of the session on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, but staged a spurt shortly before the close which lifted prices of practically all deliveries above the preceding session.

Trade was largely professional, interspresed with public buying on declines. Corn featured the day, ruling higher throughout the session and ignoring the action of wheat. In fact, the late rally started in corn, sympathetically aiding other cereals.

Kansas City prices provided the best show of strength by holding above Thursday's levels all day. An extremely strong cash market, plus absence of rain in the southwest and little prospects for relief from the drouth, stimulated demand.

December Wheat at $1.05.

At the close Chicago wheat prices were ⅝ to 1 cent higher net, the December contract finishing at $1.05. Corn gained ⅞ to 1¼ cents, with December at 79 cents, and oats moved ⅜ to ⅝ cent higher, sending December to 51 cents. Rye edged ¼ to — cent above Thursday and barley was unchanged to ⅜ cent improved.

What selling pressure appeared early emanated largely from local professionals, whose evening up near the close helped the market's late advance. Volume fell to small proportions with the absence of any particularly stimulating news.

Outside influences were somewhat mixed. Liverpool erased an early gain and closed ⅝ to ½ cent lower. Heavy frosts were reported over parts of Canada, which were thought to have damaged wheat and coarse grains, but much of the cold occurred in southern areas, where cutting has been completed. Winnipeg prices were ⅝ to ¾ cent lower.

Cash Markets Again Strong.

Cash markets again were strong. The basis on wheat in Kansas City rose a half cent, while Chicago premiums were firm. Spot buyers continue to pay fancy premiums for all grain they secure. Clement, Curtis & Co. reported that at some points in Oklahoma the price of cash corn has risen above that for wheat.

It was reported that two cargoes of Pacific coast wheat—roughly 500,000 bushels—are being shipped to Toledo. This is an unusual situation, as supplies are normally drawn from adjacent territory or from the middle west. The coast, however, in order to cut its surplus, is apparently willing to knock down its price to a point where it is an advantage for the buyer to pay shipping charges and still get a concession under prevailing prices here. Stocks of wheat in the far northwest have been a problem for some time.

Corn Displays Strength.

Corn displayed exceptional strength, although fluctuations were confined to narrow limits. A hundred thousand bushels were sold by the country, and shipping demand was slow. Recent heavy country sales, one observer declared, were partly due to the fact that drouth has forced farmers to sell corn, regardless of poor new crop prospects, in order to get money to carry on.

Corn crop reports were mixed. Some sections of Illinois and Indiana reported fairly good prospects, while others foresaw relatively small yields. Prospects for frost over a part of the belt stimulated some buying of futures.

U. S. OPENS DRIVE TO COLLECT TAX OWED ABROAD

LONDON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The long arm of the United States treasury, extended here in the shape of a demand for particulars as to Wall street transactions and commodity deals in America with a view of the collection of the United States income tax, caused a flurry in stock exchange and banking circles today.

Hurried meetings were being held to consider this unexpected development. Officials studied press reports from Washington and New York relative to the American income tax moves, but an authoritative source said that so far no British citizens have asked for a government investigation.

British firms and individuals, it was said, have received income tax demands from the United States. The first intimation of the United States treasury action came in the form of circular letters to London bankers and foreign exchange brokers, and an informal committee of stock exchange members was formed to consider the matter. They submitted a report to the stock exchange committee for its approval.

The British Banking association will meet in the next few days to decide on the attitude which the bankers will adopt in the matter before communicating with American authorities.

"Street" Tries to Grasp Rules of Inflation

BY HOWARD WOOD.

La Salle street these days is studying the history of inflation as it has never studied before. Everybody on the "street" is talking about the subject and perusing every available scrap of literature on the subject.

The study of inflation is the study of human emotions. It is a matter of doctorines rather than mathematics.

Nowhere along the primrose path of dollar debasement is there a mile post saying: "Beyond this post is the region of inflation."

The effects of inflation suddenly descend upon a nation when the people of that nation become scared of their money and when they begin to buy goods, not because they particularly want the goods, but because they do not want the money.

Inflation, therefore, has to do with human behavior. It is not, however, necessarily concerned with the behavior of the masses. The masses are swirled into the maelstrom of inflation fear only after the markets have been sent soaring by the panic among people of means—people who have accumulated capital. The panic begins when investors and business men become frightened.

Trying to guess just when that point will be reached, if ever, is the chief occupation of La Salle street economists and financial experts. And it is the subject of careful study in almost every corporation.

Theoretically, the present amount of currency outstanding could be quadrupled and still there would be enough gold to back every $100 of currency with the required legal minimum of $40. But even a theorist would admit that the bottom would fall out of the government bond market and the roofs would blow off the stock and commodity markets long before the printing of the additional 15 billions could be completed.

Up to date there have been several inflationary steps. The dollar has been debased 40 per cent. Silver has been added to the monetary base. And a start has been made in the printing of "asset money" with no metallic backing. Each of these moves has eaten away some of the foundation, but none of them has yet destroyed investors' confidence in the value of their money. How much more wearing away the foundation will withstand is anybody's guess.

The confidence of investors is being undermined not only by currency tampering but by the unbalanced budget and the steady increase in the national debt. This, too, is distinctly inflationary, being an expansion of credit out of all proportion to the needs of trade.

The government goes on borrowing from the people and the people go on borrowing from the government. The people write I. O. U.s and the government prints bonds. Banks, railroads, industrial corporations, home owners and farmers get further in debt to the government and the government gets further in debt to the people who invest in its bonds.

If this scheme could go on forever everything would be lovely. Nobody would have to work because he could get the money from the government and the government would never have to levy additional taxes because it could borrow the money from the people. It sounds like perpetual motion.

The trouble lies in the fact that eventually one of two things must happen: Either the borrowing will have to stop and the repayment begin or the public will lose faith in the credit of its government, which means turning on the printing presses.

How long the present program of the brain trust can be followed before precipitating inflation is an unknown quantity. Many La Salle street financial men are guessing "sometime in 1936." Some think present policies could not be carried through 1935. Almost every one will give the program another 9 or 12 months. Nobody knows, of course.

It is probably safe to assume that nothing further will be done by the brain trust during the coming weeks to frighten the investor. The treasury has nearly 2 billions of bond financing to do this autumn and every effort will be made to surround the bond sales with propitious omens.

CONTINENTAL COMPANY TO PAY 2D $1 DIVIDEND

Directors of the Continental Illinois company, former securities affiliate of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, yesterday declared a second liquidating dividend of $1 a share. The disbursement, totaling $750,000, will be made Sept. 1 to holders of certificates of beneficial interest of record Aug. 28.

Liquidation of the securities unit follows passage of the banking act of 1933 which made mandatory divorcement of security subsidiaries by commercial banks.

Assets of the company after the payment has been made, will total $943,799, of which $942,299 will be in cash and $1,500 in accounts receivable, an official statement said yesterday. Liabilities will consist of '667,320 in reserves for taxes and other items and net capital funds of $276,479.

FREIGHT TRAFIC SHOWS SLIGHT LOSS IN WEEK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—Freight loadings in the week ended Aug. 18 were 600,564 cars, a decrease of 1,876 cars or 0.3 per cent, compared with the preceding week, and a decrease of 42,753 cars, or 5.3 per cent, compared with the corresponding week last year, the American Railway association reported yesterday. Between corresponding weeks last year there was an increase of 1.9 per cent.

Less than car lot merchandise took 159,848 cars, an increase of 1,848 over the preceding week, but 9,516 below 1933 and 9,788 below 1932.

Grain and grain products totaled 39,571 cars, a decrease of 1,588 from the preceding week, but 10,844 above 1933 and 1,425 above 1932. In the western district grain and grain products loaded totaled 26,615, an increase of 7,450 over 1933.

Forest Products Decrease.

Forest products totaled 22,547, a decrease of 695 from the preceding week and 4,802 below 1933, but an increase of 6,885 above 1932.

Coal amounted to 92,062 cars, an increase of 707 over the preceding week, but a decrease of 36,856 from the corresponding week in 1933. It was, however, an increase of 6,453 above 1932.

Live stock totaled 31,482 cars, a decrease of 615 from the preceding week, but an increase of 14,124 over 1933 and 13,859 above 1932. In the western districts live stock loaded totaled 26,779, an increase of 13,357 above 1933.

ROADS REPORT JULY EARNINGS BELOW YEAR AGO

New York, Aug. 24.—July railroad earnings reports so far received bear out earlier forecasts of substantial declines in revenues owing to loss in trafic and restoration of the 2½ per cent wage reduction. The first 15 carriers to report had aggregate net operating income of $7,347,000, contrasted with $12,744,000 in July, last year, a reduction of about 42 per cent. The same carriers had gross revenues of $50,593,000, against $54,806,000, a decrease of only 7.7 per cent.

Net operating income of the Illinois Central for July was $813,618 compared with $1,057,748 in July, 1933, a decline of $1,057,748. Gross operating revenues were $7,537,558, compared with $8,024,497, a decline of $486,939.

The Pennsylvania railroad reports net operating income for July of $4,411,158, compared with $6,982,311 for the same month last year. Gross revenues totaled $28,985,514 for the month, against $30,875,407 in the 1933 period.

The Wabash railroad reported net operating income of $306,766 for July, compared with $505,522 for July, 1933. Total operating revenues for the month were $3,250,533, against $3,456,969 a year ago. Operating expenses were $2,463,475, against $2,400,611.

N. Y. STORE WILL FOREGO PROFITS TO CUT PRICES

New York, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Hearn's, one of the city's large department stores, is going to operate for a year beginning about Sept. 1 without paying any dividends or salaries to its owner-managers. In announcing the plan Maurice Levin, president, said that it was being undertaken "in order to turn back profits into lower prices."

"It is felt that the plan will enable people to buy more of the things they need," he said, "stimulate trade and provide more employment. We are able to do this because fortunately we have no stockholders, bondholders, or bankers in this business. One hundred per cent of the Hearn stock is in our safe."

He said the store intended to lower prices to the minimum allowed by the NRA, and that Gen Hugh Johnson, NRA administrator, had approved the plan. Levin referred to the business as "profitable" but did not quote any figures to indicate how much the store's prices might be affected.

Remington Rand Reports Profit; Had Loss Year Ago

Remington Rand, Inc., and subsidiaries yesterday reported net profit of $165,027 after depreciation, taxes, and interest, for the quarter ended June 30. This compares with a net loss $94,090 in the corresponding quarter of last year.

New Head for Auburn Auto; Rumor Merger

Considerable significance was attached yesterday to the appointment of Roy H. Faulkner as president of the Auburn Automobile company, which is reported to be active in a plan to consolidate a number of large concerns in the industry.

ROY H. FAULKNER.

Auburn's new president, a widely known automobile executive, returns to a company with which he spent eight years and which he formerly headed. From 1923 to 1931 he served successively as sales manager, vice president and president.

He left the concern three years ago to join the Studebaker corporation, where he was made vice president in charge of sales for the Pierce-Arrow corporation, then controled by Studebaker. He also was elected a director of Pierce-Arrow.

Faulkner to Succeed Beal.

Faulkner succeeds W. H. Beal, who was made vice president of the Cord corporation, which controls Auburn. Beal will serve as assistant to L. B. Manning, who has handled the financial operations incident to E. L. Cord's rise in the transportation industry.

H. T. Ames, president of Duesenberg, Inc., of Indianapolis, another Cord unit, has also been named a vice president of Auburn.

Motor car circles view the changes as important in view of merger and consolidation rumors which have been flying for several weeks. Last Tuesday it was reported Pierce-Arrow and Reo would be merged with Auburn, while a few weeks ago it was rumored the Franklin Manufacturing company was to be acquired.

Hudson Mentioned in Deal.

Still another element was injected in the picture a few days ago by reports that the Hudson Motor Car company was being considered in the deal.

Such a consolidation would be logical as a means of eliminating dealer problems and duplication of models. It would also effect economies for the consolidated concerns and aid competition with the big three of motordom—Ford, General Motors, and Chrysler.

Saves Day's Flying Time, New York to Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Bringing two metropolises of the western hemisphere one entire day nearer, Pan-American Airways' Brazilian Clipper landed here today to complete her inaugural voyage from New York. The 32 passenger flying boat was the Sikorsky S-42 until her christening in Rio de Janeiro.

ROOSEVELT ASSERTS TRADE VIEW IS BETTER THAN HE EXPECTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—Business prospects for the fall are better than he had expected, President Roosevelt told newspaper men today at his press conference.

Surveys which were awaiting him on his return from Hawaii and which have been submitted since indicate healthy business conditions, by and large, according to the chief executive. He said the reports had come from banks, shipping, and other interests.

At the same time the President endorsed Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace's recent statement saying that the United States could not hope for as thriving an export trade if she insisted that all goods shipped to and from the United States were carried by an American merchant marine. The President added, however, that this stand did not mean the abolition of American shipping.

Secretary Wallace, in the letter which he wote to a New England congressman, did not advocate the death of our merchant marine, the President insisted. Wallace had merely pointed out, the President said, one factor, namely, that the less foreigners make by carrying American products in their ships, the less money they have with which to purchase American goods.

On the other side of the economic picture, as Wallace pointed out, there are three reasons why America must maintain a fleet of merchant ships even though she does not insist that all or most of American exports be carried in them, the President said.

The three eventualities which make the maintenance of a merchant marine of modest size necessary were listed by the President as: A war in which America would need the merchantmen for national defense, a war not involving the United States, paralyzing the shipping of other countries, and any attempts by foreign shipowners to use a monopolistic control of shipping in discrimination against American trade.

PRICES OF FOOD AT HIGHEST LEVEL IN THREE YEARS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—(AP)—The highest level of wholesale food prices since August, 1931, was reported today by the labor department for the week ended Aug. 18. For the same amount of food the retailer had to pay $1 for in 1926, he had to pay 74 cents last week.

The department's index for the week was 2.5 per cent above that for the previous week and 15 per cent above that for the corresponding week last year. Wholesale commodity prices in general rose to 76.1 per cent of the 1926 average, an increase of 0.9 per cent over the previous week.

The farm products group also reached a new high for the year. The index for the week was 68.9 compared with 67.5 a year ago and 49.9 two years ago.

Assert Recast of Middle West Means Profit

Reorganization of Middle West Utilities company can be accomplished with profit to the investor, despite the unfavorable earning position of public utilities in general as a result of mounting taxes and widespread rate reduction, Robert H. Golding, counsel for noteholders, declared yesterday.

Golding cited 1933 earnings and the record of operating subsidiaries during the first seven months of this year. He also said that the noteholders have had one opportunity to sell at a profit their option to buy out the secured creditors.

"The kilowatt hour output of the public utility industry as a whole has been fluctuating along a horizontal line from the beginning of the year," he said. "The output of Middle West, however, followed a similar line only until the week ending May 5, since which time it has gone upward at a 45 degree angle."

Operating Revenue Rises.

Golding said that operating revenues of subsidiaries have increased over 1933 by 2.3 per cent during the first six months of 1934, by 3.3 per cent in May, by 5 per cent in June, and 6.5 per cent in July.

Net for dividends in June, 1934, was $623,000 as compared with $607,000 at that time last year and $733,000 in July against $585,000 a year before, he said.

After deducting $1,000,000 in estimated priorities, cash and marketable assets would yield $4,806,787 as of May 29, 1934, the noteholders found. Certain other assets of $4,241,695 par "ought to be worth" $3,317,695, in their opinion.

To this $8,124,482 was added $1,210,000 for Kansas Electric Power company and $1,890,000 for Middle West of Canada. These values were calculated as 10 times 1933 net earnings. The total was raised to $12,224,482 by 1,709,190 shares of Central and South West common thrown in at $1,000,000.

Net 1½ Times Dividend.

Net earnings last year were figured to be 1½ times the $800,000 required to pay dividends of the proposed preferred issue at a 5 per cent rate. Figures used to reach this conclusion:

Receiver's expenses	1,486,148
Receiver's net income	$ 225,763
Add interest paid [new company will not be required to pay any interest]	886,501
	$1,112,264
Deduct dividends on 43,000 shares of Commonwealth Edison Co., reduced to possession by Bankers Trust Co. of New York	172,000
Estimated net income of new company	$ 940,264

Admitting that no estimate can be taken as indisputably accurate, the noteholders offer an evaluation of the common proposed stock. The committee takes the reorganization settlement figure of $33,684,095, deducts 12 million for new preferred stock and one million in estimated prior claims, and divides by the 3,000,000 common shares to be issued. This yields a value of $6.89 per share.

TITUSVILLE, PA., FETE CELEBRATES FIRST OIL STRIKE 75 YEARS AGO

Titusville, Pa., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Turning back the years, Titusville today again became the oil center of the universe and relived the rollicking scenes of 75 years ago when Col. Edwin L. Drake's little well spouted the first "black gold."

Leaders of the far flung oil industry, students of history and throngs of curious sightseers converged on this quiet town, occupying every hotel within a 50 mile raditus, for the opening of the diamond jubilee of oil.

More than 5,000 persons today attended the opening of the eastern oil exposition, the initial event of a four day program commemorating Drake's discovery on Aug. 27, 1859. But whereas Drake struggled unknown and unsung and died a poor man, bands, bunting, and fanfare attended today's fete.

Among the veterans attending today was W. J. McCleary, 87, of Clarion, who as a boy of 12 witnessed the drilling of the Drake well.

Business, Employment Drop but Commodity Prices Rise

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—Industrial activity, as well as factory employment and pay rolls, declined more than the usual seasonal amount in July, the monthly business review of the federal reserve board revealed when it was made public today. Wholesale commodity prices, however, advanced during the first three weeks of August, after showing little change in July.

Diminished output of steel was the chief factor in the decline of industrial activity. As measured by the board's seasonally adjusted index, the volume of industrial output decreased from 83 per cent of the 1923-1925 average in June to 76 per cent in July. The decline in steel production was due, in part, to previous accumulation of stocks by consumers. There was a further drop during the first three weeks in August.

Motor Industry Slackens.

In the automobile industry activity decreased. There was a considerable reduction in the output of pig iron and anthracite. At textile mills, where operations had been at a low level in June, there was little change in July. The output of shoes showed the usual seasonal increase.

Accompanying heavy marketings of cattle from drouth areas, there was a considerable increase in activity at meat packing establishments.

Between the middle of June and the middle of July, factory employment decreased by 3 per cent, an amount larger than is usual at this season. There were reductions in many industries producing durable manufactures, such as iron and steel products and building materials, and also at establishments producing knit goods and women's clothing.

Other Activities Analyzed.

Other details of the board's statement follow:

"At canning establishments the number of employés increased by less than the usual seasonal amount. Employment on public projects increased further in July.

"Value of construction contracts awarded was about the same in July as in June.

"Total volume of freight car loadings declined in July, reflecting chiefly a reduction in miscellaneous freight, including steel shipments, offset in part by an increase in shipments of live stock. Department store sales showed a decrease of somewhat more than the estimated seasonal amount.

Russia Wants Credits; Debt Parley Upset

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—Negotiations with the soviet union for a settlement of hundreds of millions in debts and claims were virtually deadlocked today when Alexander Troyanovsky, the Russian ambassador, submitted to Secretary Hull a counter proposal that proved unacceptable.

Although it was said that discussions will continue, the seriousness of the impasse, which appears to threaten the complete collapse of the negotiations, was indicated when the state department, in response to questions, said "it is not possible to be optimistic that any agreement will be reached." This announcement was made shortly after Ambassador Troyanovsky had left the department, saying that his counter proposal contained what he considered "important concessions."

Russia Wants Big Credits.

It was understood that Russia had specified certain conditions in the matter of obtaining credits in this country and that Secretary Hull would make no promises in this regard. The soviet union was represented to be insistent on obtaining ample credits for facilitating her foreign trade over the period she was paying her debts and claims to the United States.

If so, this would mean that the negotiations were on the verge of collapse on a point the soviet government always insisted upon in negotiations with other governments. In practically all of these she has been unsuccessful in urging credit facilities.

The state department made its announcement as follows:

"The matter of the settlement of the claims of the United States and its nationals against the soviet government has been under discussion in Moscow and Washington for many months. Very promptly our government presented a written proposal of a basis for the negotiation of an agrement.

"Since then there has been a discussion of details rather than of principal questions involved. Today, however, the soviet ambassador presented a counter proposal in writing, in view of which it is not possible to be optimistic that any agreement will be reached."

Continue Discussions.

Both the state department and Ambassador Troyanovsky said the discussions would continue. The ambassador, when asked if he was optimistic, suggested that perhaps Secretary Hull might make a counter proposal, but added that he did not know as to this. Mr. Hull did not divulge his intentions.

Involved are claims of American nationals against Russia and the debt to this government of the Kerensky régime, the latter amounting to $187,000,000 and accrued interest. The claims in nearly all cases arose during the revolution and involve repudiated bonds and confiscated property of American business concerns. They total approximately $400,000,000.

REPORT RETAIL TRADE IS BETTER THAN EXPECTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—"Running contrary to the expected trend, the day by day comparisons with a year ago reveal an increase in retail sales thus far in August, with volume for the last week topping that of the week preceding by 3 to 8 per cent," says the Dun & Bradstreet Trade Review.

"For the first half of August sales range from a low of 5 per cent to a high of 30 per cent larger than during the same period of 1933, the most impressive percentages of increase emanating from the south and southwest.

"The outlook for retailers has turned distinctly brighter during the last two weeks, as stocks of summer merchandise have been about cleared, particularly in country districts, where farmers are in daily receipt of cash from their freshly gathered harvests.

"Wholesale volume rose by a substantial percentage above that of the week preceding."

WIEBOLDT STORE SALES ARE 7.8% ABOVE YEAR AGO

Wieboldt Stores, Inc., yesterday reported net sales of $4,336,389 for the quarter ended July 28, being a gain of 7.8 per cent over the corresponding period of last year, when the total was $4,022,763, and compared with $4,506,553 for the first quarter of this year.

Total sales for the first six months were said to be 14.5 per cent above a year ago, while there was no change in the number of stores in operation.

E. F. Wieboldt, president, stated that the number of transactions continued to show a substantial increase, but profits for the second quarter were somewhat disappointing, being less than in the 1933 quarter, while those of the first six months were slightly less than the first half of last year. He pointed out that operations under the NRA and the impossibility of covering the state sales tax more than accounted for this variation.

BANKS ARRANGE TO EXPORT MORE GOLD TO EUROPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—To the $4,000,000 gold which was engaged for export to France and Belgium yesterday $3,000,000 was added today, as a result of the persistent strength in the French franc at premium levels.

Lazard Freres, who yesterday engaged $2,500,000 to be sent to Paris on the liner Lafayette, today increased this amount to $5,000,000, the additional $2,500,000 being placed on the same liner. The Bank of Manhattan company, which announced it was sending $1,000,000 to Paris on the Aquitania, today announced that $1,500,000 would be shipped on that vessel.

Two small lots of gold, which were sent to Belgium, were $280,000 each and were shipped by the Bankers Trust company, one going yesterday and the other the previous day.

Rules for Shipping Gold.

Gold shipping banks are becoming accustomed to the routine of the new American gold standard. In applying for the gold they have to state that they have already sold the foreign exchange for which the gold is desired as a delivery against such sales; they must also give assurances that the gold will be presented to a central bank which maintains fixed buying and selling prices for the metal.

Only three European central banks, the Bank of France, the National Bank of Belgium, and the Netherlands bank, can qualify as destinations for treasury gold released under license under these requirements, which is why gold can go at present only to those respective countries. Since any one of these central banks after accepting the American gold may resell equivalent amounts to Switzerland or London, there is considerable triangular business based upon such American deals.

See U. S. Buying Silver.

It is generally agreed that treasury operations in silver abroad are proving sufficiently unsettling to the American balance of international payments, at the moment, to depress the dollar against francs and thereby bring about exports of gold. To this extent what is going on is a direct exchange of gold for silver.

Easing of the price of sterling in terms of francs, attributed to seasonal letting down of the peg by the British equalization fund, had the expected effect today of lifting the price of gold in London to the equivalent of $35.38 an ounce, the highest price since last February. Banks here feel that this is one primary purpose of the British equalization fund's action—namely, to make the London gold market more attractive in order that South African and Indian gold, which has been held off the London market in anticipation of higher prices, will be placed on sale there in larger quantities.

Dollar Gains on Pound.

The British pound sterling continued to slide off in leading exchange markets today, while the dollar held steady near its recent lows in terms of gold currencies.

The pound declined 1½ cents in New York to $5.07, while in Paris the British currency hit a new low record at 76.68 francs to the pound before closing at 75.75. The dollar closed in London at 5.07 1-16 to the pound.

French francs held at 6.69½ cents, Belgian belgas remained at 23.84 cents in the face of additional gold consignments of $347,000 to that country.

At the closing price for French francs in New York, the dollar was valued at a discount of .92 of a cent under par, the same as Thursday, compared with a premium of .02 of a cent over par a month ago.

Bar Silver Declines First Time Since Nationalization

The price of bar silver in New York yesterday declined ¼ cent to 49¾ cents an ounce. Although the price had held at 49¾ cents since the nationalization of silver two weeks ago it was stated that little significance was attached to the price shading.

RAILROADS LEAD LAST HOUR SPURT IN STOCK MARKET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—Some brisk buying in the railroad share department in the last hour of trading on the New York Stock exchange today served to rally the market 1 to 2 points. The movement was not particularly broad, however, and to some observers it appeared to be an engineered affair in view of the fact that proceedings during the greater part of the day had jogged along with no suggestion of any surprise.

Enthusiasts of the buying group professed to find their stimulation in an editorial by a member of the administration's "brain trust" holding out the definite suggestion that Washington was about to do something nice for the carriers.

Report Partly Discounted.

Traders in the street have been hearing for several days that a rate increase was on the way and that formal announcement to this effect might be expected along about the middle of September, so the "brain truster's" disclosure did not strike the rank and file as carrying any very great element of novelty. Be that as it may, the buying of the shares of such roads as New York Central, Atchison, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, and Baltimore and Ohio became fairly brisk as the hour for closing approached and gains in the division ran to 2 points or so.

Another group to show unusual strength was the packing shares, especially those of Armour and Wilson, the improvement in which compared favorably with that of the carriers. Statistics on a survey indicating a jump of 15 per cent in food prices during August here in New York, with meat setting the pace, were supposed to have had some weight in turning attention to this section of the market.

Cuban Sugars Strong.

Cuban sugar shares improved on confident predictions that the administration would lower the tariff against sugar imported from the island republic.

The utilities showed some spunk in the earlier dealings, but lagged behind when the big putsch got under way. American Telephone and Consolidated Gas added about a point each to their statures, but Columbia Gas and American Waterworks were unable to extend their fractional gains.

Motor shares kept in the background most of the day. Auburn was an exception, moving ahead a couple of points, while General Motors and Chrysler tied in on the upturn to improve their standings by a point each.

A two point spurt in Phillip Morris was a feature of the tobaccos. Aviations were sluggish and the oils kept to their wonted rut.

MANY ILLINOIS BANKS FAIL TO TAKE RFC LOANS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Reconstruction Finance corporation announced today that 22 banks of Illinois had been authorized to borrow a total of $2,572,950 during June. The chairman, Jesse H. Jones, added that up to June 30 not one dime of it had been called for.

The banks included the Broadway Trust and Savings, Aurora, $100,000; Halsted Street State, Chicago, $390,000; North Avenue State, Chicago, $566,000; State Bank of Beverly Hills, Chicago, $109,000; Universal State, Chicago, $155,000; West Irving State, Chicago, $150,000; West Side Trust and Savings, Chicago, $150,000; Pinkert State, Cicero, $55,000; North Shore Trust, Highland Park, $96,000; First National, Polo, $30,000.

Other Loans Not Disbursed.

The Fort Dearborn Mortgage company, Chicago, was also authorized to borrow $350,250, although none of it was disbursed by the end of the month. The corporation also contracted to loan $30,500 to the Kelly lake drainage and levee district in Schuyler county, but neither was this amount called for.

Subscriptions for preferred stock in ten banks were authorized

During June two Chicago banks withdrew or canceled their debts in full, as follows: Empire Trust and Savings, $48,000, and Madison-Kedzie Trust and Savings, $400,000. The General Mortgage Investments, Inc., Chicago, also canceled its $20,000 debt.

Withdrawing or canceling their obligations to the RFC were: First National, Aurora, $80,500; First National, Naperville, $10,162; Reuss State, Naperville, $19,315.

Makes Industrial Loans.

Nearly a million dollars in loans to industries swelled the $311,729,297 June outlay authorized by the RFC. The advances to business authorized covered only the last third of the month, since the law permitting them was not effective until June 19.

The report disclosed five June industrial loans authorized, all at 6 per cent interest.

A rehabilitation loan authorized was $600,000 at 4 per cent to the Unified Rehabilitation corporation of Long Beach, Cal.

Emergency relief payments for the month totaled $5,477,173, bringing to $493,112,904 the amount thus disbursed under the 1933 act.

Other authorizations included $19,076,139 to banks and trust companies, $500,000 to building and loan associations, $3,715,188 to mortgage loan companies, $193,618,000 to federal land banks for refinancing of previous loans; $10,321,250 under the 1933 emergency farm mortgage act, $27,919,700 in subscriptions and increases for preferred stock of banks and trust companies.

TARIF REDUCTION REPORT CAUSES RALLY IN SUGAR

New York, Aug. 24.—The sugar futures market staged a sharp rally at 2 o'clock this afternoon when a trade house made public a report that the reciprocal treaty with Cuba would reduce the Cuban tarif to ¾ cent a pound [the treaty actually reduced the tarif to .9 cent a pound], and prices closed 3 to 6 points higher on the day after the sharpest move since July, 1933.

The new duty places island producers in a strategic position to realize substantially more for their product, as shipments from Cuba to the United States up to July 28 amounted to only 36.6 per cent of the allotment assigned to that country by the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

Raw sugar was quiet, with both buyers and sellers inclined to hold off pending the announcement of the new tarif agreement. Prices were more or less nominal. The day's range of futures follows:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.
September	1.67	1.74	1.67	1.72	1.67
December	1.76	1.84	1.76	1.80	1.76

Sales, 45,150 tons.

Refined was unchanged, with refiners listing at 4.75 for fine granulated and second hands available at 4.70, business was light with the trade awaiting details of the new Cuban bill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—Lack of investment and trading interest was reflected in curtailed dealings in bonds today. Volume on the stock exchange totaled only $9,130,000.

Government securities exhibited a generally firm tone in light dealings, the list closing with a majority of net gains ranging up to about a quarter of a point. The greatest activity of the day was seen in treasury 4¼-3¼s, which also led the treasury list in advance.

Home Loan 3s Active.

For a long time the most active on the list was the Home Owners Loan 3s and these were steady. Trading in called Fourth Liberty 4¼s was reduced to a minimum. They are held largely by banks which have deliberately retained them in prospect of receiving a valuable exchange offer to compensate for the premium of almost a point that holders are refusing to cash.

High grade railroad, utility, and industrial bonds were extremely quiet and mostly higher. Second grade and speculative issues were irregular and dull. Interborough 6s broke over a point on a few transactions. National Railways of Mexico 4½s of 1957 were again in demand, advancing sharply to a new high for the year.

German Bonds Fall.

Weakness in German bonds contrasted with advancing tendencies in the market as a whole. German government 7s broke 2¾ points to a new record low at 41¾, and the 5½s likewise made a new low at 30, but recovered to 31 at the close, off 2 points on the day. About a half dozen German municipal and corporation loans descended fractionally to more than two points to their lowest levels since issuance.

The balance of the German group finished generally easier. Trading in the German issues, however, was not heavy. The matter of registration of scrip by the German financial authorities with the federal trade commission in connection with interest payments for the first half of 1934 has not been completed.

Pitney-Bowes Postage Meter.

Answer: The principal business of this company is the manufacture and leasing of postage meter machines and various types of mailing equipment. These are leased to business houses and other organizations that make extensive use of the mails. A secondary source of income is sale of canceling machines to the United States postoffice.

Increased business activity during the first half of the current year called for increased use of the mails, which resulted in an improvement in operating results. Net income was $163,000, or 19 cents per share, against net of $103,000 for the corresponding 1933 period.

Net income in 1933 was $217,000, or 25 cents per share, against $189,000, or 23 cents per share, on a larger number of shares, for 1932. Net income for 1931 was $216,000, against $269,000 for 1930 and $301,000 for 1929.

A satisfactory current position, with cash alone about three times current liabilities, was disclosed on Dec. 31, 1933. On Aug. 9, 1934, funded debt was reduced to $109,000, down $50,000 for the half year.

The stock pays 5 cents a quarter.

Goodyear Tire and Rubber.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me your rating of Goodyear Tire and Rubber 5s of 1957?—S. S. L.

Answer: Strong current position, favorable record of earnings and good outlook for the tire industry entitle this important tire and rubber goods producer's first and collateral trust 5s, due 1957, to a reasonably sound rating.

Earnings in 1933 were helped substantially by the absence of necessity for writedowns of inventories which took heavy toll in 1932. Charges were covered 2.11 times. Had profits on foreign exchange been included in income the margin of coverage would have been increased to 2.62 times. In 1932 the company charged earnings with $6,500,000 to offset inventory writedowns. As a result only 79 per cent of charges was earned.

At the close of 1933 net working capital of $97,331,000 compared with total funded debt of $57,628,000.

Atchison Dividend.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly inform me if or not Atchison-Santa Fe has resumed the dividend on the common stock? I've been told that it paid a dividend on the first of July. If so, I did not receive any. —Mrs. F. E. V.

Answer: No dividend on Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe common was paid on July 1, 1934. A payment of $2 a share on the common, however, is scheduled for Sept. 1, 1934, to stock of record July 31.

School of Beauty Culture

OFFERS OPPORTUNITIES FOUND ONLY AT BURNHAM'S.

When you visit Burnham's you'll understand why more girls enroll in this school than in any other and you'll be amazed at the unexpected and exclusive advantages which our 63 year record of turning out the best operators enables us to pass on to you —such as positions on ocean liners, positions with the best shops which DEMAND Burnham graduates, the opportunity of earning while learning, free tools, unlimited practice on living models, easy terms, and many other advantages.

Once explained you'll see how Burnham teaching methods will enable you to master Beauty Culture quicker, easier, and better—why these methods develop the type of operator shop owners want.

If you ACT now you can arrange to pay for most of your tuition after you graduate. Call, phone, or write for FREE BEAUTY BOOK.
